WEDNESDAY, MAR. 19, 1913.

SYLVESTER NOW NOTORIOUS.

Mr. E. T. Stewart of this place, who observed both the suffrage parade in Washington, D. C., and the inaugural parade the day after, hits Major Sylvester of the Washington, D. C., police squarely on the head with a wooden hammer in his remark to the following purport: the crowds in Washington were larger, if anything, on the day of the inauguration than on the day before; the police succeeded in keeping the crowd back on Tuesday, March 4; it is reasonable to suppose they could have kept it back on Monday, March 3rd.

BEATS AND BINDS BURGLAR.

The fact of the whole business is that Major Sylvester got himself into a sticky mess, which he would have avoided if he had been a man of common sense. He happened to be in the city on the night of the burglary.

BRIDGEGROOM DIDN'T TREAT.

Washington, Ind.—Because Andrew Edwards departed from the social custom which demands that a bridegroom "treat" when he steps into the state of matrimony, that benedict has a black eye, a badly wrenched shoulder and a gash on the head.

WOMAN DISGUISED AS MAN.

Spokane, Wash.—"Harry Allen," a harvest hand arrested at Tekoa for selling liquor to an Indian, confessed that "he" is Nell Pickrell, a young woman of Seattle, who for several years has persisted in disguising herself as a man.
