IMMENSIVE SERVICES BY EVANGELIST

George W. Crabtree, the prison evangelist of Washington, D. C., conducted services in the jail yesterday afternoon. Mr. Crabtree has been interested in prison work for a number of years and has done much for the betterment of the spiritual well-being of the prisoners.

The ten men, who are at present confined in the jail here, listened to the services with the greatest of interest and seemed deeply impressed with Mr. Crabtree's sermon. They joined in heartily in the songs.

Mr. Crabtree also visited the county house Saturday afternoon and gave a very interesting talk to the inmates. He had with him a phonograph and played several selections to the great delight of his hearers.

Last night he conducted services at the First Presbyterian church and delivered a strong and impressive sermon.

DOCTORS ALL TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

Now the methods that have been used in the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the United States for the last ten years have accomplished the reduction of the death rate from consumption and the consequent saving of thousands of lives, will be shown in the papers to be presented at the Ninth Annual Meeting of The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis which will be held in Washington next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The entire discussion will be in the nature of an inventory of the present fighting equipment and of suggestions as to the improvement of the weapons in use.

In his presidential address, Homer Folks of New York will show the present trend of the anti-tuberculosis campaign and how used have resulted in effectively reducing the death rate in various parts of the United States. Dr. Livingston Farrand in his report as Executive Secretary of the Association, will review the present fighting forces in the movement. Mr. Frederick L. Hoffman of Newark will discuss the reduction in the tuberculosis death rate from 1871 to 1913, showing how the anti-tuberculosis campaign in the last decade of this period has produced a much more rapid decline in tuberculosis mortality than prior to 1900.

Dr. John H. Buddleston of New York will discuss the economic problem of the sanatorium graduate. Other papers bearing on this problem will be presented in the discussions in the National Conference of Tuberculosis Secretaries which will review in detail the present methods being used in the larger cities of the country.

The idea of co-operation between the anti-tuberculosis and other movements for the prevention of disease will be discussed from various viewpoints by Dr. Herman M. Biggs, New York; Dr. David L. Edsall, Boston; and Dr. W. A. Evans, Chicago. The tuberculosis problem from the sociological and medical points of view will also be discussed by such experts as Prof. John B. Commons, University of Wisconsin; Dr. William Charles White, Pittsburgh; and Dr. H. H. Landis, Philadelphia.

The treatment of tuberculosis from various angles will be discussed in the Clinical Section under the direction of Dr. H. R. M. Landis, chairman, and Dr. Frank A. Craig, secretary, of Philadelphia. The Pathological Section will be under the direction of Dr. Oskar Koits, chairman, and Dr. W. B. Holman, secretary, Pittsburgh.

LECTURE AT AUDITORIUM

William Bruce Lambingwell, author, traveler and lecturer gave a most interesting lecture illustrated by colored slides and motion pictures, at the Auditorium Saturday evening. A large number were present and enjoyed Mr. Lambingwell's talk.

PENNIERS, ASHAMED TO FACE BRIDE; DIES

Duluth, Minn., April 20.—After lavishing every attention on his bride for eight days, William G. Lederboer, former hotel clerk at Moorhead, Minn., kissed her goodbye and ended his life in a small rooming house on the Bowery.

He was presented with a hotel bill Friday and after a few excuses for not paying it before Lederboer left and did not return.

Financial straits and the shame of facing his bride under such conditions are thought to have caused his suicide.

NOISE MANIACS TO BE CURBED

New York, April 20.—A writer in the May issue of "Motor" out today, says too little thought in the framing of automobile laws has been given to reduction of noise and prevention of accidents through the proper regulation of automobile warning signals.

In discussing the problem from a standpoint of noise, a small element among motorists misuse their signals. Some offenders are through thoughtlessness or carelessness but the majority of those who make unnecessary noise with their signals are of the same type as the joy-rider; and like him ought to be suppressed at every opportunity without the great majority of law-abiding motorists being made to suffer for their sins.

In the past two years there has been an active campaign in progress to regulate the use of automobile warning signals; to legally demand the use of adequate signals and to restrict the use of such signals except as warnings of danger.

The failure of motorists to use signals in their true function gives a wrong impression to the non-motoring public which is largely in the majority. Motorists should learn the results of misusing their warning signals. It is equally necessary that the non-motors should understand that the misuse of a warning signal in no way detracts from the general benefit of such a signal when it is properly used. Once this fact is understood many of the disturbing conditions that constantly operate to create antagonism between motorist and non-motors would be removed.

Keep the Home Dollar at Home

Don't send that DOLLAR away! Spend it in your home town!

A DOLLAR put in circulation here is worth any number in the mails or in the mail order house's pocket.

When you send that DOLLAR away some other community makes the profit that might just as well be made by yours.

DOLLARS ATTRACT DOLLARS

For every DOLLAR in use in your locality another DOLLAR will come. Conversely, every DOLLAR that is sent away has a pulling power on another DOLLAR that is left behind.

A DOLLAR spent in your home town helps to make your neighbors just that much more prosperous. To that extent, also, it makes the community more prosperous. And it makes you profit in just the same way that the community does.

When there is plenty of money in circulation everybody benefits. That's why you should keep just as many DOLLARS here as you can instead of sending them away. By PATRONIZING HOME INDUSTRIES you can do this.

Isn't it worth while thinking over?

VICTIM OF ROLLER SKATING ACCIDENT

Ellis Meekins of New Bern Dies From Injuries Received.

Ellis Meekins, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leaac Meekins of New Bern died last night as the result of injuries sustained in a roller-skating accident.

Meekins was skating down one of the principal streets of New Bern when someone threw a piece of wood directly in his path. He struck the obstruction and was thrown to the sidewalk with terrific force. Friends took him to his home where a doctor examined his injuries. It was found that his right hip and three ribs were broken. Congestion of the brain also set in. He died a few hours later.

The Sunday school at four o'clock was well attended. The singing was good and keen interest was shown in the study of the lesson.

In the evening the pastor's theme was "Face to Face," the text being from Psalms 27:8, "When Thou saidst, seek ye My face, my heart said unto me, Thy face, Lord, will I seek."

The speaker insisted that when Adam and Eve had sinned and had hidden themselves, that God, who had been offended, spoke first and that the whole trend of the Divine word is to "turn man's face back to God's face."

Mr. J. W. H. Peyton of Staunton, Va., is the guest of Mrs. W. A. B. Branch on Market street for a few days.

The hour for all of the above meetings is four o'clock.

INDIVIDUAL DRINKING CUPS FURNISHED BY SOUTHERN

Washington, D. C., April 20.—Arrangements have been made by the Southern Railway to furnish sanitary individual drinking cups to passengers on all trains and a large supply of cups of the collapsible paper type has been ordered. As soon as the cups have been received each conductor will be furnished with a supply and any passenger desiring a cup will receive one free of charge on application to the conductor. Notices to this effect will be posted in each coach.

Furnishing drinking cups to passengers on the large number of trains operated by the Southern Railway will involve a substantial expenditure which is being undertaken to provide for the convenience of patrons of the railway. All common drinking cups have been removed from trains in compliance with United States government regulations and the statutes and ordinances of many states and municipalities.

Hereafter passengers on Southern Railway trains will be put to no inconvenience or expense in regard to drinking water and at the same time will not be subject to any possible infection through the use of the common drinking cup.

YESTERDAY'S SERVICES AT METHODIST CHURCH

A large and attentive congregation was present at the First Methodist Church yesterday morning. The pastor preached out of First John 1:9, emphasizing the necessity of the confession of sin, and urged its encouragement by reason of the assurance that God will be faithful and just to forgive and to cleanse.

Learning "Home Efficiency"

"Home efficiency is as important as business efficiency," says Louis Brandeis.

Home efficiency is not difficult to practice, and if applied to your buying will save you money, worry, time, and effort.

Common sense is the first step toward efficiency in shopping. Consider how to use your time and money to best advantage. Know where to shop. This in turn requires thought on the things you need, the money you can afford to spend, and the values to be had. Effort may be saved by shopping at the proper hour, shopping by phone, or by anticipating your wants and placing standing orders.

SHARPSHOOTERS RETURN FROM GOLDSBORO

The rifle team, composed of nine men from Company D, of the Second Regiment of the Washington Light Infantry, under command of Lieut. L. N. Woodard returned home yesterday morning from Goldsboro, where they had attended the annual target practice provided for the different teams of the Second Regiment. The boys report a pleasant trip and state that the scores made by them at the match were very much better than those of previous years. The Lumber Bridge team won all prizes.

PRESIDENT TAKES SHORT VACATION

President Wilson spent Saturday and Sunday on the presidential yacht Syph somewhere on the Potomac River near Chesapeake Bay. The doctors advised him to take a few days complete rest from business affairs and suggested a short boat trip. The president agreed willingly, and accompanied by his youngest daughter, Eleanor, and a secret service man, started for a short trip on the Syph. He took with him a large supply of magazines and other light reading matter.

The president will, in all probability, return to Washington this morning.

NOTES FROM BINGHAM SCHOOL

The Kallisthenic-Polemia Literary Society has elected the following contestants and officers for the commencement exercises. Debaters, Will Scarborough, Merton Summerville, McCallum McSwain and Kester Club; Declaimers, Joshua Garnett, Lee Hesterman, Fred Blakley, Mason McSwain and Knott Proctor; President, Kester Cobb; vice-president, John Mikell; Secretary and treasurer, Wm. Compton.

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Association, the following officers were elected to represent Bingham for the season of 1913-14, namely: President, Wm. Compton; vice-president, McCallum McSwain; secretary and treasurer, Leland McConnell; baseball manager, Fred Blakley; football manager, Wm. Compton.

The Agriculture course, recently established at Bingham, is proving to be a great success. This course is in charge of Capt. Hugh R. Clinkcales, who is a distinguished graduate of Clemson College, S. C. The course takes up the soil with its composition, moisture, ventilation and temperature; plant life, including the food required by plants, their reproduction, transplanting and improvement; the improvement of soil by drainage, irrigation, tillage and proper crop rotation; as well as by the application of manure; the planting of legumes and the proper use of commercial fertilizers. The course also takes up the proper treatment of field, orchard and garden crops, the weed, insect and bird enemies of crops and their remedy. The domestic breeds of the various domestic animals and their different uses, together with many other practical subjects, such as the care of farm tools, etc.

The Bingham farm of several hundred acres is used in connection with the school. Col. Gray is very much interested in the best methods of farming, building up of land by proper drainage and fertilization, the planting of legumes, etc., the raising of the best stock and other improvements. In consequence of this, Capt. Clinkcales feels that the class can have a practical illustration of what they learn in their text books by what is being done on the farm. The Agriculture Course has awakened great interest and is a success. The class is large and the instruction is given.

The football and baseball season for the year 1912-13 has resulted in a number of victories for Bingham. The school claims the championship of the State in football, being the claim on the winning of 75 per cent of the games played. In

MORNING LOOK ATTENDED BY BIG CROWD

Recorder W. B. Windley was kept busy until after the noon hour this morning trying three big cases before a crowded court room.

George Artus, colored, was charged with stealing a suit case from Bill Mack, also colored, which contained personal effects of said Bill to the extent of $25 worth. George plead not guilty, but the evidence was against him, and the recorder soaked him for $25 and costs.

The case which consumed most of the morning was that against W. L. Jerniga, of the county and E. H. Hudson of Washington, both white, for assault. This case was fought out to the bitter end, Attorney H. S. Ward, appearing for Hudson and Attorney A. D. MacLean for Jerniga. Mr. Ward indulged in much wit at the expense of some of the witnesses.

For example, he was interrogating a witness who admitted he had had a drink or two the morning of the occurrence in question. "Do you ever get drunk in town?" asked Mr. Ward.

"No," replied the witness, "I never get drunk in town."

"Then you mean to say, do you not, came back Mr. Ward, "that you always come into town drunk?"

At this point the witness became confused. Both Messrs. MacLean and Ward, made earnest pleas for their clients.

But in spite of their eloquence, Recorder Windley found both guilty, and taxed each with a five dollar fine and half the costs.

When the morning's court was over, the consensus of opinion among the spectators who crowded the court room was that Recorder Windley had brought in a goodly amount of revenue for the city.

POINTS OF INTEREST AROUND REUNION CITY

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 20.—The battlefield at Chickamauga has many points of interest to those survivors of both armies who fought there, but Snodgrass hill, or Horsehoe summit, is to Chickamauga what the Little Round Top is to Gettysburg. It was there that the consuming flames of battle rose highest and enough blood was shed to make "Chickamauga a Mecca throughout all ages."

The late Charles A. Dana, assistant secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet, who was with Rosecrans as war correspondent, sent the following message east after the battle of Chickamauga: "Chickamauga is as fatal a name in our (federal) history as Bull Run."

This message was filed with the telegraph company here after the repulse of Rosecrans at Chickamauga, probably after Rosecrans himself, with his staff, had reached Chattanooga in safety from that bloody field.

Their lives in Chattanooga today a big hearted Irishman who came away from Chickamauga with Rosecrans, and if you will ask him who got the better of the fight at Chickamauga he will tell you without hesitation that the Rebels did. He will also describe the panic that seized the forces under Rosecrans, and the speed at which they fled back to Chattanooga, turned to Chattanooga to decide upon a new line of action, this Irishman will laugh.

But Snodgrass hill, as stated in the foregoing, was the bloody spot of this great battle, if in fact any spot was bloodier than others. The conflict at this point, as most readers are aware, took place Sunday evening. Gen. John B. Gordon describes the fight for the possession of this historic hill as follows:

baseball, out of nine games played, only two have been lost. Only two match games of tennis have been played this spring, but both of them have resulted in victories for Bingham by large scores.

STORMY TIMES WITH STRIKERS IN ASHEVILLE

Asheville, April 20.—Asheville's Sabbath quiet, accentuated during the forenoon by the absence of the trolley cars from the streets, was later broken by scenes of disorder. News of the arrival in town of some score of men imported by the Asheville Power and Light Company to break the strike flashed telepathically and so by the time these men reported to be strike breakers by trade from New York had reached the Langren hotel a mob of several hundred men and boys had assembled in front of it. The proprietors of the hotel no sooner received these guests through their portals than they began to devise means of getting them out.

Wanted to Eat 'Em Alive. This presented many difficulties, for the temper of the crowd was to eat the visitors alive, judging by what was said.

The strike breakers were hurried into an upper room. "Arboreal spirits led the mob to the top of the entrance steps. One policeman with sand in his craw very positively bade them stop there, reminding them that they were in the act of breaking half dozen laws. Three or four other officers lined up with him and the crowd was held at bay, if, as a crowd it had any real intention of violence. This situation continued for an hour or more. There were rumors that the men had been spirited out.

WOMES DEFY HATPIN LAW. Boston, April 20.—"Pardon me, madam, your hatpin extends more than the limit allowed by law."

"Well, what about it?"

"Will you please tell me your name and address in order that I may get a warrant for your arrest for violation of the hatpin law?"

"Certainly. I am Joan of Arc and second cousin to the King of the Cannibal Islands."

"And the address, please!"

"My husband owns a pineapple grove in Montreal, Canada."

"Thank you, madam."

Then the polite Boston police officer, if he is really desirous of following the law to the letter, will go to the city police court, take a blank application and ask the honorable court for a summons for the arrest of one "Joan of Arc of Montreal, Canada," for violation of the anti-hatpin bill which went into effect today.

A police officer has no legal right to arrest a woman for violating the new law. According to the wording of the bill, which has been duly passed, engrossed, signed by the governor and laid away to go into effect in 60 days, a woman who wears a hat with the pin protruding more than half an inch and the point not protected by some safety device can be fined as high as $100.

The only drawback about the bill is that she cannot be fined on a street corner and must be brought to court; and as the law fails to specify that police officers shall have the right to arrest without a warrant, getting the offending women to court would appear to be somewhat of a job, according to a police official.

Mr. Charles L. Abernethy of Beaufort was seen yesterday upon the streets of Washington.

Mr. Fred Warwick of Norfolk is registered at the Louisa.
