The Child. The most sacred thing in the commonwealth and to the commonwealth menwealth and to the commonwealth is the child, whether it be your child or the child of the dull faced mother of, the hovel. The child of the dull faced mother may, for all you know, be the most capable child in the state. At its worst it is capable of good citizenship and a useful life if its intelligence ha quickened and trained. Several of the strongest personalities that were born in North Carolina were men whose very fathers were unknown. We have very fathers were unknown. We have all known two such who held high places in church and state. Presid Effot said a little while ago that the Enot said a little while ago that the ablest man that he had known in many years' connection with Harvard university was the son of a brick mason. The child, whether it have poor parents or rich parents, is the most valuable understoned resource in the total ents or rich parents, is the line the state, ble undeveloped resource.
