Liquor Case Tried This Morning

Geo. J. Studdert Represents Ben Edwards in Case Which Came up Before Recorder Windley.

The case of Ben Edwards, charged with having in his possession more than one gallon of whiskey was brought up in the Recorder's Court this morning.

The trial was by jury; the first trial ever held in the Recorder's Court of Beaufort County. The jurymen selected were Charles Hearne, L. W. Guthrie, Jesse R. Jones, R. A. Brady, John S. Sparrow and Ed. Cutler. Attorney H. C. Carter represented the State in the case, while Attorney Geo. Studdert acted as the defendant's representative. The court room was crowded with spectators.

There were three witnesses examined. Policeman Roberts was the first to be questioned. Mr. Roberts, with Officer Pedrick found the liquor on Edwards. Cavannah, the express agent at Chocowinity was put on the witness stand after Roberts and was questioned regarding the shipments of liquor made by Edwards. It was found in the inquiry that Edwards had had the liquor shipped in care of J. T. Byrum. Sam Sanders, who drove to Chocowinity with Edwards after the whiskey was the third and last witness.

Mr. Studdert in charging the jury, claimed that it was not known to whom the liquor belonged and that Roberts did not have the authority to arrest the man, as he was not duly deputized by the Recorder. He claimed that the mayor had no right to swear in policemen and that according to this, the policemen of Washington could make no arrests.

Judge Windley read the search and seizure act to the jury, summed up the testimony and then asked the jury to retire.

Just before going to press the jury came out and announced the verdict of "guilty." The sheriff left the court house in search for Edwards, who had been excused when the trial adjourned. He will probably be sentenced this afternoon.

WILL MAKE HARD FIGHT AGAINST TARIFF BILL

REPUBLICANS IN THE SENATE WILL CENTER THEIR ATTACK ON THE FREE SUGAR AND WOOL PROVISIONS — LAFOLLETTE HAS AMENDMENTS WHICH AMOUNT TO PRACTICALLY A NEW BILL.

Washington, June 13.—Republican leaders in the Senate are working hard in preparation to their fight against the Democratic tariff bill now being rounded into shape for debate.

Senator Penrose, ranking Republican member of the finance committee, is to lead the opposition on the floor after the bill is reported. The measure probably will not reach the Senate until June 30. Senator Smith, of Michigan, is preparing to lead the fight against the sugar schedule and Senator Smoot will command the anti-free wool debate.

Senator LaFollette, who has amendments which amount practically to a new bill, plans to make a speech that will extend over a week. Others who are preparing long tariff arguments include Senators Borah, Cummins, Weeks, Lodge, Root, Burton, McCumber and Gallinger.

The minority members of the finance committee are already at work on their report.

Majority members of the finance committee continued today their consideration of sub-committee changes in the Underwood bill, resuming discussion of the metal schedule. It was reported today that the sub-committee, in addition to putting pig iron and ferro manganese on the free list, had also transferred steel ingots and billets to the free list, because the House had put steel rates in the undoubtable class.

M'GOORTY IN MINERS' BAY ROUTH

Butte, Mont., June 13.—Eddie McGoorty and Jimmy Clabby will box here tonight as one of the features of "Miners' Union Day," the biggest holiday in the mining regions. The weight will be 155 pounds at three o'clock. Frank Mulkers, manager of Clabby, held out for 155 pounds at three for several days, but McGoorty refused to concede the poundage. It will be the second battle between McGoorty and Clabby. A short time ago they met in a ten-round contest at Denver, Colo., and the bout was pronounced a draw. Since then both men have claimed the shade on points.

LAUNCHING OF THE LARGEST STEAMSHIP

"VATERLAND" IS 950 FEET LONG Fifty Feet Longer Than the "Imperator." One Hundred Feet Wide. Constructed of Steel Plates.

(Courtesy Popular Mechanics Magazine.)

On April 3, 1913, the "Vaterland," the largest ship ever built, was launched at Hamburg, Germany. This ship measures 950 feet in length and 100 feet in width, being 50 feet longer than the "Imperator," the largest ship ever previously launched. The hull of the "Vaterland" is constructed of steel plates of unusual strength, is provided with an inner shell extending well above the water line, with the idea of avoiding such disasters as that of the "Titanic." The vessel also has both transverse and longitudinal bulkheads, an added element of safety. Some idea of its size may be gained from the fact that more than 1,500,000 rivets, weighing 2 pounds each, were used in the construction of the hull. The largest locomotive ever built could easily be run through the smokestack, while the funnels extend 69 feet above the deck, the height of an ordinary six-story house. The rudder weighs 90 tons, and the stock on which it swings 110 tons, but all is so delicately balanced that the rudder responds to a touch on the wheel nearly a mile away.

The vessel will be propelled by steam turbines of the Parsons type. In the accompanying illustration the "rotor," or revolving part of one of these turbines, is shown, ready to be installed in the "stator," or outside casing. Both the rotor and stator carry blades varying in size from a few inches at the small end of the turbine to nearly two feet at the large end. These act reciprocally in converting the force of the steam into a rotary motion. Each rotor weighs 135 tons and carries 50,000 blades, all of which are placed by hand. Each of the large turbines is capable of developing 22,000 horsepower and the total available power exceeds 70,000. The outer casing of each turbine is 25 feet long and 18 feet wide, while the propeller shaft is 18 inches in diameter. The "Vaterland" will be equipped with searchlights of 80,000 candlepower, the largest ever constructed, which will be carried high on the foremast.

FRIDAY, THE 13TH

THIRTEEN GRADUATES OF SUSSEX HIGH SCHOOL RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS TODAY.

Sussex, N. J., June 13.—Thirteen seniors of the Sussex High School regard themselves as singularly favored of fortune because they are to receive their diplomas on June 13 in the year 1913. The combination is something that would not be beaten again in centuries, they declare, and they are tickled mightily at the prospect.

The elders of the village are predicting dire disaster for the young people who are about to enter the world under such a handicap. They tried to get the Board of Education to change the date, but the board put it up to the pupils and the latter vigorously opposed any scheme to spoil the "jinx."

J. D. Odum of Greenville arrived here yesterday on a brief business visit.

WASHINGTON'S SCHOOL SYSTEM

(By S. C. Newbold, former Superintendent of Washington Public Schools.)

You request that I give you an article discussing some phase of Washington's life, perhaps its schools. Since you make this request I trust I shall not be considered as being presumptuous in making any statement about the schools now.

It would naturally be embarrassing to me to say anything with reference to the organization or any possible success the schools may have achieved the past few years. However, I feel that I may say that the schools in Washington now are at least reasonably well organized. I believe an excellent superintendent has been secured for the coming year, and I know that the members of the faculty who have been elected will easily take rank with the best in North Carolina.

The Public Schools here, as they are now organized, furnish to the children of Washington a more diverse training. I believe, than any other one school system in North Carolina. This is true when you take into consideration that the children may enter the kindergarten at five years of age, and if they attend continuously and advance one grade each year, they will graduate at the age of seventeen well equipped to enter any of the colleges in North Carolina, to enter any of the ordinary business activities, and to take a man's or woman's part in ordinary every day life.

In my judgment the greatest task, I may say the supreme task, before the Washington Public Schools is the training of the boys and girls in right conceptions of life, teaching them to observe the proper moral relations with one another, and encouraging them to develop genuine character. All thinking people know that there is a tendency at this time towards laxness in morals, and therefore a consequent degeneracy of character.

If I may be pardoned for expressing a personal hope in this matter, I would say that my best wish for the schools is that a determined, persevering effort shall be made in pointing the boys and girls of Washington to the lives of men and women in history and whom we meet in every day life, who have developed character and made a reputation for uprightness and integrity in all the relations of life.

In concluding this rather rambling hurriedly dictated article, I desire to express the opinion that the people of Washington are indeed beginning to realize what the public school system means, and that I believe the people generally will stand solidly and squarely by the schools, thus giving encouragement and inspiration to the superintendent and his faculty. I believe the schools will from now on make more rapid progress than they have made at any time in the past, and that the spirit of harmony and co-operation will grow from year to year.

There are many things that I should be glad to see accomplished by the public schools. These I shall confidently expect to learn about in future years.

I desire to say in this closing paragraph a word about another institution, which I believe also has a most hopeful and useful future, that is, the Public Library. It ought to be encouraging to those who have taken a part in establishing this much needed institution to know that since the library opened less than two years ago, 14,576 books have been circulated.

Wishing you and both these public institutions continued success and prosperity, I am,

Very sincerely,
S. C. NEWBOLD.

PINETOWN VOTES SPECIAL TAX

SPECIAL SCHOOL TAX ELECTION HELD WEDNESDAY.

CARRIED BY 14 VOTES

THIS MAKES FOURTEENTH RURAL DISTRICT WHICH HAS VOTED TAX SINCE SEPTEMBER 1909.

A special school tax election was held in Pinetown Wednesday. There were 95 registered voters cast. There was a majority of 14 votes in favor of the special tax. This tax will amount to 30 cents on the $100 valuation of personal property and 90 cents on the polls.

This is the fourteenth district that has voted a special school tax since Superintendent Vaughan has had charge of the school system in the county, September, 1909. Another election is pending and will probably be held on July 15th and will include Washington Park.

The Pinetown tax is the first local election held in Long Acre Township.

AT THE LYRIC.

Browder and Browder made a big hit in their singing, talking and dancing act last night. The couple received prolonged applause for their excellent acting and versatile method of entertaining.

The act will be appreciated more when the public are informed. Miss Browder received a telegram a few hours before going on the stage and which informed her that her brother had died. In spite of the tidings she appeared before the audience and tried her best to entertain them.

GLOBE WALKER AWEARY.

New York, June 13.—Policeman Barnbald of the traffic squad was at Broadway and Forty-first street yesterday afternoon when an ancient and wayward man, carrying a heavy knysack, said:

"I've got no money and no place to go, and I wish you would lock me up and send me back to France."

He said he was Louis Grandjean. Nine years ago he left Paris to walk 45,000 miles and visit all corners of the world for a prize of $10,000. He was tired of wandering.

The "Self-Interest League" of America.

The most natural, the most human, if not the most altruistic, bond is that of self-interest.

There are thousands of associations, leagues, and societies all over the country that bear witness to the untiring force of a common, personal cause.

The biggest society in the country is one that has no president, no by-laws, nor, in fact, any specified organization. Yet practically every man and woman belongs to it.

It is the Society of Newspaper Readers. Their only bond is that of self-interest.

All men and women know that in order to be able to hold their own with their neighbors they must learn what the newspapers have to tell them, not only in regard to general events of the day, but also in regard to the specific activities of the locality in which they live.

The advertisements in the reliable newspapers are no less important and are very apt to be of more lasting value in this matter of self-interest.

Being a member of the league means that you are up and doing, progressive, and alive to your own welfare.
