AGAINST TRIEVES.

During the past few weeks, there have been reported several cases of robberies. Thieves have entered different residences in the city during the night and in one or two cas-es, made a good "haul."

The burglars have usually entered the houses through a window, which had been carlessly left unlocked. Might we suggest that the residence owners exercise a little more care when locking up for the might?

it might also be a good idea for people, who intend leaving their houses vacant for a few days, a to make mention of this fact to the police before leaving town.

Arizona's World Wonder.

The Grand canyon cannot be described in measured terms. Every beholder sees it in a different form, just as the rolling clouds suggest different resemblances to the eyes of the beholder. Begin with the thought of the canyon thirteen miles wide, a mile deep, the Colorado river 200 feet wide imprisoned down in the denths between lofty. down in the depths between lofty weather stained granite and walls of weather stained granite and rusking wildly on its way. It is buried as deep that only now and then can you get a glimpse of what looks like a little durk ribbon of gray. Above the dlack granite walls of the river you see what you can easily imagine to be row after row of red brick skystrapers, projecting from the sides of the canyon at acute angles and always pinnacled by imposing towers.

Beit of the Old Oregon.

The cid beil which on Oct. 22, 1850, tolled from the sidewheel steamer Oregon the news to San Francisco that California had been admitted to the Union is now a part of the exhibit in the pioneer room of the Golden Gate park museum. This helricom of California history was the ship's bell of the steamer Oregon, which sailed from Panama for San Francisco soon after this state had been admitted to the Union. Sept. 9, 1850. When the steamer sailed through the Golden Gate on the morning of Oct. 22, 1850, and approached Meiggs wharf a sailor tolled the bell incessantly until scores of bell incessantly until scores of mall boats came alongside and learned what news the vessel brought. of San Francisco then heard for the first-time that their state had been admitted into the federal union, and festivities ensued. The bell bears the duscription "Oregon, 1848, New York.

China and the Telegraph.
China was confronted with a stiff problem at the introduction of the telegraph. It was hopeless to think of combining the western Morse dots and dashes in sufficient variety to express the 3,000 or 4,000 characters used by a fairly literate Chinese, not to speak of the entire 40,000 or so known to the highly educated men of that race. A phonetic system was barred by the phonetic system was barred by the fact that the same Chinese monosylla-ble means different things, according to the centext or intonation and also by the diversity of dialects. A Dane, Professor Schellerup, found the solu-tion. The 7,000 characters most comused are given their equivalents in a code of numerals and these nu-merals are telegraphed. Thus, "cash" in the code is 6.000. If any one wantin the code is 6.030. If any one want-ed to telegraph the number 6.030 itself would send the code equivalent; the words "six," "thousand" and

Be Careful When You Laugh.

Be Careful When You Laugh.
Few people know what dangers lurk
In excessive laughter. When we laugh our regular breathing is changed, comi g in quick, short respirations because the throat muscles are contracted. It is for this remon that; when laughling very heartily at some good joke, we have often to gasp for breath. At times we are obliged to hid our sides on account of the pain a hearty laugh causes us, owing to the partial suffocation of the lungs through the cutting tion of the lungs through the cutting off of these proper air supply. Every music in the body becomes contracted during a continued fit of laughter Often the Blood vessels in the face become confested, causing it to turn red and even purple. Should this congestion continue for any length of time apoplexy resulting in death might well occur. It is better in these circums stances to laugh until we cry, for the shedding of tears releves the congestion of the brain. Tears caused by grief do good in the same way, and that is how, after a great sorrow, many pasted fars to brain congestion and madness by the timer, shedding of a few tears—London Til Star. tion of the lungs through the cutting

Great Eaters, Great Breakfasts, Looking over the sized pages of Mor-ries Betbeck's "Journey In America," which extended through Ohio, we seemed this account of a breakfast at Rushville June 16, 1817), in Pairseld-county:

"A gentleman, myself and three children sat down this morning to a repast consisting of the following acticles: Coffee, rolls, blacuit, dry tonst, waffles a soft, hot cake of German extraction covered with buttern, pickers salted in fish from Lake Huron), veniculets, brolled ham, gooseherry plastewed currants, preserved cranberries, butter and cheese. For all this for myself and three children and four gallous of oats and hay for four horses we were charged 6s. 9d. (or about 11.05)."

First Chess Champion.

Authentic history locates chess in Persia in 700, and the word chess is known to be of Persian origin, coming from the word "shab," meaning "king," and chess has been considered a game for kings from time inmemorial. The game found its first home in Spain toward the close of the fifteenth century, and in 1501 fay Lopez published his treatise, which is recognized as the foundation of all, modern chess. His work, was republished in Vertice in 1534, and from that date the Italians became recognized for their chess dominance. The first chess champion seems to have been Paoil Rol, who defeated every master of his time, landed the chest of the chest of the champion seems to have been paoil Rol, who defeated every master of his time, landed the champion the challes the champion the champion that the champion the challes the champion that the champion the champion that the champion feated every master of his time, in-cluding Ruy Lopez himself. How Rough Diamonds Shrink.
The loss in weight in diamonds when going through the process of cleaving and chipping and polishing amounts to from 50 to 00 per cent on the average.

Aveordingly, the price-of a rough diamond will have to be advanced in the finished brilliant, saide from all other expenses, at least tweet to these to the expenses, at least twice to three times. With the well known "solitaires" the oss in weight is even greater, because loss in weight is even greater, because it is necessary to chip off so much more. Thus, the diamond Excelsior, which, in its crude raw state, weighed 971% carats, produced two brilliants, weighing together only 340 13-37 carats, with a loss in weight of 65 per cent; and the Culifon. originally weighing 3,024% carats, was reduced to 25 cars, with a loss of 67-35 per cent.

SHE LIKED SAILING.

Go the Wise English Spinster Lived Up

The following true tale is a most curious thismore of living well-on nothing a year without breaking the laws of the land. Many years ago a steam packet company of Liverpool wished to buy a piece of land which was been eligibors described her. She sold her land at a very low price, but insisted upon a clause being inserted in the agreement giving her the right at any time during her life to trave with a companion in any of the comwith a companion in any of the com pany's vessels.

When the agreement was close sold her furniture and went on board the first outgoing ship belonging to the packet company. For years this wise spinster lived nearly all the time upon one ship or another, frequently accom panied by a companion, according the agreement. This was always a pe the agreement. This was always a per-son who otherwise would have been a regular passenger, but who purchased her ticket at reduced rates by paying the spinster instead of the packet com-pany. The company offered her more than twice the value of the land if she would give up her privilege, but this she would not do. Her reply was, "You got the land cheap, and I like-sailing, so we both should be satisfied."

Open Spaces In Cities.

Along with the new keenness over social and economic reform England has developed a number of other virtues in the past score of years. One is an appreciation of the value of open spaces in cities, and one is the increased determination to preserve ancient landmarks. Every few months an article appears in the Times or some other 'Influential newspape 'acqualitying people with the danger that thranena some historical or long cherished spot, and usually the money necessary to save the property has been forthcoming—Indianapolis News. as developed a number of

The Art of Economy.

All economy, whether of state, households or individuals, may be defined to be the art of managing labor.

* Now, we have warped the word "economy" in our English ianguage into a meaning which it has no business whatever to bear. In our use of it it constantly signifies merely sparing or saving—economy of money means saving money: economy of time, sparing time, and so on. But that is a wholly betabrarous use of the word—barbarous in a double sense, for it is not English, and it is bad Greek, and it is worse sense. Economy no more means saving money than it means spending money. It means the administration of a house, its stewardship, spending or saving—that is, whether money or time or 'anything else to the best possible advantage—Ruskin.
