use French in Official England. One may not be ignorant, perhaps that French, old French, remains as the language used in certain royal proclamations in England.
So when "the king's assent" is given before the throne in "the related chamber" the clerk cries in the language of our father, "Le roy le veut." ("the king so please"). If the bill that he is asked to approve is a money bill the clerk adds after a profound obeisance, "The king thanks his good subjects, accepts their benevolence and is pleased." The pronunciation on ascending the throne is preceded by the traditional call of the French heralds of former times, "Oyez, oyez, oyez."
Alas, that time has disappeared like old world of our country, and today the plangent English herald cries thrice to the people: "Oh, yes! Oh, yes! Oh, yes!"—[L. de Paris.

Kirschbaum Clothes

Huh!
"LITTLE old rain cloud scotting across the sky has no scares for me any more."
"Used to make a bee-line for the under side of the nearest grocery store awning at the slightest sprinkle. But a few drops won't hurt this Kirschbaum suit—not by a jugful."
No matter if your Kirschbaum suit is drenched, there will be no crinkly look that can't be quickly pressed out.
For Kirschbaum Clothes are all-wool and shrunk by the original London cold-water process. And they are the only ones at their prices which are hand-tailored and sewn with silk thread.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"--stamped on every biscuit--means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

THE SMART TAILORED SUIT HAS A FIRST PLACE IN THE WARDROBE

Smart, simple, of good lines, there is nothing more becoming to the American woman than the tailored suit. This has always been true, and despite its change this season from strictly tailored to semi-tailored lines, the suit continues to be indispensable to the smart wardrobe.
Many of the skirts are draped, many show the double or triple skirt, others again are perfectly plain. The coats are slashed and vested, and often there is a novel collar or attractive cuffs that add to the effect.
Materials are most attractive—velours de laine, plain or self figured; duvetyn, which is as supple and rich as velvet, and numerous novelty stuffs that are exceedingly smart.
Tweeds in almost invisible mixtures are modish for morning wear.
A smart suggestion for 7998-7994 is navy blue velours de laine striped in matter blue with white collar and vest. To copy 7998 in size 36 it requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material. In size 34 7994 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.
7998—size 34 to 44 inches bust measure.
7994—size 32 to 36 inches waist measure.
Each pattern 15 cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and inclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. Address Pattern Department.
