The races of the Rose Tree club have been run over the same historic course since its foundation in 1859, which makes it one of the oldest in this country. At each meet these races grow more popular.

These horses must be ridden by farmers or farmer's sons who have never won races except those given for farmer's horses.

MRS. COLEMAN BURIED HERE ON YESTERDAY

A wire was received here yesterday morning announcing the death of Mrs. S. D. Coleman at her home in Norfolk and that the remains would be brought to this city for interment. Mrs. Coleman was a sister of the late Captain A. M. Hawkins, for several years division superintendent of the Norfolk Southern railway with headquarters here. The body arrived on the afternoon Norfolk train and carried at once to Oakdale cemetery where the services were conducted by the Rev. J. T. Gibbs, D. D. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. M. Kear, George J. Baker, E. R. Mixon, C. G. Morris, M. T. Archbell and A. W. Thomas. Mrs. Coleman was a consistent member of the Methodist church and was well and favorably known in Washington. The remains were accompanied from Norfolk by Mrs. A. M. Hawkins and Mrs. Aubrey Hawkins.

On account of the illness of Conductor Upton of the Norfolk Southern, the preliminary hearing of Charles McCleave and Richard Keys, the two negroes charged with assaulting him with a deadly weapon, a pistol, while the train was running between Norfolk and this city last week, will not come off until Friday. A ball entered the coat sleeve of the conductor and another ball went through the coat of the negro. Both escaped without injury. The negroes were stealing a ride and when ejected from the train pulled their guns and began to shoot at the train crew. There were three negroes in the bunch one of who is still at large.

SPECIAL SOCIAL CALENDAR OF SUNDAYS 1914

Report of the Committee To Churches outlines the Plan. Sixteen Sundays of National Character.

A suggested calendar of social Sundays has just been completed by a special conference committee appointed to study this subject. In the calendar sixteen Sundays of a national character are indicated, of which six are for furtherance of social propaganda. The full report is made public from the office of the National association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis today.

The committee which has studied the subject consisted of Phillip P. Jacobs, assistant secretary of the National association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis; Orlando F. Lewis, secretary of the prison association of New York and Rev. William T. Demarest, secretary of the home missions' council. The committee has canvassed all of the various associations that have had or are interested in special Sundays for the observance of their respective movements through the churches. As a result of the work of the committee, the following calendar has been suggested for 1914.

- including a number of stated church and national holidays: January 4, New Year's Sunday; January 25, Child Labor Sunday; February 8, Lincoln's Sunday; February 22, Washington's Sunday; April 12, Easter Sunday; April 19, Sabbath Observance Day; May 10, Mother's Sunday; May 17, 1913 Sunday; May 24 or 31, Memorial Sunday; June 14, Children's Sunday; June 23, Independence Day Sunday; Sept. 6, Labor Sunday; October 25, Prison Sunday; November 23, Thanksgiving Sunday; November 29, December 6, Tuberculosis Day; December 20, Christmas Sunday.

Commenting on the situation, the committee says: "One of the results of this investigation was the revelation that the number of special social Sundays now being observed on a national scale is much smaller than has been generally supposed. Only six special Sundays not specifically designated by the calendar are at present observed on any considerable scale throughout the country. These are Child Labor Sunday, Mother's Day, Peace Sunday, Labor Sunday, Prison Sunday and Tuberculosis Day. The other special Sundays in the calendar given above are all fixed by certain national or religious holidays, such as Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day or Christmas."

The report of the committee will be submitted to the Federal Council of Churches, representing most of the Protestant denominations, to the Roman Catholic church authorities and to all other church organizations which can be interested in this movement. The aim of the report is to secure the co-operation of all of the churches of the country in movements for social betterment.

LOCAL FANS ARE JUBILANT OVER RESULT

Washington base ball fans, those catering to the New York end of it were jubilant yesterday afternoon and justly so, for their favorites won from the Athletics with hands down. The opening game proved to be a send-off for the admirers of Connie Mack's aggregation. A fellow can tell by the expression of the countenance written on the citizen he approaches whether he favors the City of Brotherly Love or the metropolis. Of course a few dollars exchanged hands as is usual in such cases. One fellow, who is putting all he has for Philadelphia won out to his delight in the opening contest and he was greeting his sidepartners with smiles on Tuesday; yesterday, however, he wore a different expression—for on the first day of the series he pocketed $15, and yesterday he had to draw it forth and deposit it in the pocket of the other fellow. This is the way of the world. First the rain then the sunshine.

The betting aggregation of Washington today is more careful. The fellow who comes out on top today is to be presented with a free ticket to the world series next year.

CITY'S NEAR POET AWAY ON HIS JOB

From all appearances Washington's near-poet is now in New York witnessing the contest between the Giants and Athletics. This paper is in receipt of a wire inquiring as to whether one of the local fans, particularly a member of the famous quartet is minus a telegram. It is stated upon good authority that a copy of a message was picked up on Broadway this morning which reads as follows: "Give my love to Broadway. My respect to Herald Square. Tell the girls of 34th street. That I'll soon be there."

As yet this paper has been unable to locate the sender of this message. It would appear from the above that the fellow who wired the above wishes to take in not only the game of ball, but the sights of the city as well. More particulars furnished later by the Daily News reporter.

M.E. SUNDAY SCHOOL HOURS NOT CHANGED

The officers and teachers of the First Methodist Sunday school at their meeting held last night immediately after the regular prayer-meeting service after considerable discussion decided to have the Sunday school to meet in the morning at 9:45 during the winter. While the sentiment has been divided among the school as to the proper time for meeting the majority for the morning hour ruled at the meeting last night so in consequence the school will assemble until further notice each Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock.

AMONG FEATURE EXHIBITS OF LIVE STOCK AND COUNTY PRODUCE OF EASTERN CAROLINA.

THURSDAY FEATURE DAY

FREE ATTRACTIONS DAILY IN FRONT OF THE GRAND STAND—GREAT CROWDS EXPECTED

The finishing touches have been added and all is now in readiness for the great Eastern Carolina fair to be held in New Bern on October 28, 29, 30 and 31. For weeks the office and directors of the fair association have been planning for this event and they have succeeded in arranging every little detail so that when the fair is thrown open to the public on the opening day the visitors will have the opportunity of attending the greatest event of its kind ever held in the Old North State.

One of the main features of a fair is its exhibits of live stock and also the exhibits of country produce. The exhibits of live stock and produce and a so of fowl, birds fair to eclipse anything ever held in the state. Hundreds of dollars worth of valuable prizes have been offered in these departments and these have been an incentive to exhibitors to do their level best.

No fair is complete without amusement and this feature has been looked after very closely. Along the midway will be found the greatest variety of attractions ever gathered in this section at one time. Right here it will be well to state that there will not be a single attraction allowed to enter the grounds which cannot be seen by the ladies and children. The Eastern Carolina fair is a clean one and the officers intend to maintain this reputation. There will be freaks of all varieties on display, big snakes, old plantation shows, the palace of mystery, chutes, chutes, cane racks shooting galleries and hundreds of other places where the visitor can get amusement for a small sum.

Wednesday and Thursday will be the big days. Wednesday is "Education Day" and every school child in this section of the state has been presented with a free ticket to the fair. Ben J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction will deliver the address for this occasion. Mr. Joyner is a speaker of ability and every person in this section who is interested in the educational advancement and development of the state should hear him.

Every day there will be five attractions in front of the largest grandstand in the state. The famous flying Glendales, one of the best aerial acts in the world, will give performances daily. At a great expense, the management have secured the services of Willis & Lewis, the king and queen of the acrobatic world. This duo recently closed an engagement at the New York hippodrome and are featuring the bounding hay wagon. This is a thriller and is sure to please.

Every day there will be horse and motorcycle racing and more than a thousand dollars are being offered as prizes to the contestants in the events. Speed kings from all over the country will participate in these events and it is safe to say that the races will be real thrillers.

The railroads are offering special rates to New Bern during the week of the fair and numerous special trains will be operated during the week. Information as to the rates can be obtained from any ticket agent or by addressing J. Leon Williams, the secretary of the fair association.

Another thing that will interest the visitors is to know that there will be ample provisions made for their entertainment while in the city and that there will be no raise in the prices in any way. The rates at the hotels, boarding houses and cafes will be just the same as usual and no fancy prices will be charged. Stay the entire week if you can and if you cannot do this, why stay as long as you can, and have the "time of your life."
