Gift of Making Friends.
Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of things, but, above all, the power of another.—Thomas Hughes.

The liver is the straight road to health. If your liver is right, you are right. Everybody's liver goes bad once in a while; gets lazy or stubborn or sick or clogged up.
Whenever your liver rebels, don't take a horsewhip to it in the form of Calomel or violent purgatives or even harsh cathartics. Such treatment is sure to result in much damage.
It's easy to coax your liver to do its duty by using HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS, a remedy that firmly but gently compels it to do what nature intended it should.
HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS Get gently but surely on the bowels,

Youthful Diplomat.
Harry is small but diplomatic. The other day he wanted his mother to come out on the veranda with him.
The mother, being busy, refused, and Harry invented various expedients, from informing her that he was tired and lonely to complaining of a pain in his tummy, in the hope of inducing her to change her mind. Finally he called sweetly: "Mother, dear, I don't want you to stay out here if you don't want to, but I do want to kiss you very much." Mother came out.

SOMETHING TO PONDER OVER Relationship Tangle Should Prove Al-turing to Those Fond of Puzzling Complications.
An instance of relationship that almost defies the skill of a Philadelphia lawyer in defining it came to light the other day in argument over the probate of the will of the late Mrs. Catharine Suhrer of Brooklyn.
The testatrix, who was Catherine Faust, came from Germany to America in 1850 at the age of sixteen. She married Philip Sohn and by him had three children. Sohn was later confined in an insane asylum for a time and on release fled abroad.
Seven years later, believing her husband dead, Mrs. Sohn married Eugene Suhrer. Three children were the result of this second marriage.
Then Suhrer heard that his wife's first husband was alive. At the same time he became enamored of his stepdaughter, Catherine Sohn.
He had his marriage annulled and married the former stepdaughter.
Here's where the tangle began, for Suhrer shortly became the father of three children by this last marriage.
Thus Suhrer was the son-in-law of his first wife. He was also—taking account of the first marriage the inheritor-law of himself. Finally he was grandfather by marriage of his children by his second marriage, because his second wife was daughter of his first wife and his first wife was his second wife's children's grandmother.
There are many more degrees and conditions of entanglement such as the relationship of the late Suhrer children to the first Suhrer children.
They were half-brothers and sisters, and at the same time nephews and nieces.
All of this mixed-up relationship was well illustrated on Monday by litigation over the estate of Mrs. Suhrer died and her will came to be divided. It is not settled whether she was to be regarded as a widow or as a divorcee matter what course

BEST TO AVOID LITIGATION
Appellate Court Costs in England
When it is Anything Like a "Big Case."

Charles Reade, in his novel, "Hard Cash," has one of the characters therein, Joshua Falslove, a Yankee, observe that British justice is a prime article, but it comes high. Cecil Cherterton, a newspaper writer, is held to be the responsible person for articles published in two British papers, wherein charges of conspiracy and corruption of two high officers of the state for the purpose of benefiting Godfrey Isaacs, who is related to one of them. This is the noted Marconi financial case.
And here is a list of the counsel and their fees. For the prosecution: Sir Edward Carson, 1,000 guineas—a guinea is a little more than five dollars —and 100 guineas a day; F. E. Smith, 670 guineas and 65 guineas a day; R.
D. Muir, 420 guineas and 45 guineas a day.
For the defense: E. Wilde, 350 guineas and 60 guineas a day; Rigby Swift, 250 guineas and 50 guineas a day; E. Purcell, 200 guineas and 40 guineas a day.
This means £3,084 in retaining fees for counsel and £378 a day in addition as long as the case continues. Following which, for this is but the beginning, there will be "pippins and cheese to come."

To Give Children Birthright.
The advisability of legislation in New York for the benefit of children of marriages entered into in reliance on divorces which the New York courts will not recognize is indicated in the decision of the court of appeals in Baylis vs. Baylis. The decision shows that legislation is necessary in order that children of a marriage entered into in good faith may be relieved of a slur on their names and a grave disqualification as to the rights of property. The court held that the statute providing that where it appears that a marriage was contracted by at least one of the parties in good faith and in the full belief that the former wife or husband was dead, or without any knowledge by the innocent party of said former marriage, the children of the subsequent marriage are deemed to be legitimate children of the parents, does not include a contract in which the innocent party acceded on the erroneous belief that the other had been legally divorced.

Gentle, But Effective.
Representative "Bill" Murray of Massachusetts every now and again comes through with a good tale, as witness whereof the following polite way of calling a man a liar:
"No, I would not call Mr. Blank a plain and unvarnished liar. I would not call him a prevaricator, nor would I intimate that he was a perverter of the truth, or even inclined to exaggerate upon circumstances, but if I should see him walking down the street with Annasia upon one arm and Sabira upon the other, I should be inclined to believe that he was in the bosom of his family"—Washington

SPIRITUALISM AS A SCIENCE Noted Writer Explains Why in His Opinion the Growing Cult Should Be So Considered.

I call spiritualism a science, for it professed to yield its results by experiments which could be repeated, tested and compared on the accepted laws of evidence; to attain a world of spirit that took shape and form and practical intelligibility, in ordinary rooms and under very nearly ordinary circumstances." It said: "Seeing is believing, handling is proof." It did not require you to take the medium on trust.
It had no priesthood, no dogmas; for its central statement, that the living could have intercourse with the dead, was not a truth to be received on the word of another, but a challenge which whoso would might verify. Moreover, though some have questioned if the name of religion can rightly be attached to spiritualism, it does without doubt bring its adepts back from doctrines of the lecture room or abstract theory to that primitive condition of thought in which religion finds a main beginning. For religion is the problem of the "next world," call it how you will. And spiritualism undertakes to solve the problem by the scientific method, exactly as the chemist answers our inquiry—for instance:
"Does radium exist?"—by putting a sample of the thing sought into our hands. Neither the chemist nor the medium is a priest, any more than the class or the inquirer can be termed disciples. Experiment, in both cases, determines the ground of affirmation.— William Barry, in Atlantic.

SILLY IDEA THAT DIES HARD Average Man, in Throes of Discontent, Finds Solace in the Phrase, "Pass a Law."

In the course of an interesting discussion in the department called "The Interpreter's House," in the American Magazine, appears the following:
"When something happens that we do not like, what is the first thing we say? 'There ought to be a law against it.' Every time! That is the unconscious tribute we all pay to the quickest, the most naive and stupid superstition in a world where all superstition dies hard enough—that all you need to do to stop anything is to pass a law against it."
"No amount of experience, apparently, will free the minds of men from the incubus, the hoodoo, of this extraordinary superstition. No matter what the issue! If you want to stop gambling, spitting, combinations of capital or of labor, prostitution, college fraternities, the high cost of living, arson, saloons, monopoly in restraint of trade, the turkey trot, burglary, tips, walking on the grass—whatever it is, there is only one thing to do—pass a law against it. Then everybody will be contented; everybody will believe that the offense will cease at once, or at least as soon as you have gotten a sufficient number of people in jail. Only get enough laws passed, and, above all, if you can only get enough people in jail, you have realized the average man's millennial hope."
