PEOPLE GETTING TIRED OF R. R.'S CONDUCT IN STATE OF N. C.

Editor Daily News:—I desire to give you a few points on our trip to the New Bern fair.

Promptly at 9:55 o'clock October 29th, we boarded the train at the Norfolk Southern depot, this city, with the hope written and published promises of the management of the Norfolk Southern that we would arrive in New Bern on time to take in the educational part of the fair and other attractions of that day. But our expectations and anticipations were blighted, for when we reached Chocowinity, we were informed that the train was one hour late. Before this hour passed we were told by the great in charge he train was two hours late. We were actually detained at Chocowinity four hours and ten minutes—arriving at New Bern 4:45 o'clock, p. m.; thus the fond hopes of those on board were blasted by the Norfolk Southern for the day by their not arriving out their published contract after receiving the hard earned money of those on board. Several on board took the Raleigh train back to Washington after having to spend most of the day in the lonely station in the woods at Chocowinity which the Norfolk Southern say it to build at this lonely spot or the benefit of the good people of this community instead of at Chocowinity proper. While we persuaded those returning to continue the trip to New Bern with us but we give them credit now for having more wisdom than those of us who persisted on the trip even though they may have to sacrifice what they did for their tickets—guess they now more about the kind of service he N. S. gives the travelling public. So arriving at New Bern at his late hour all we could do was to spend the night with the good people in the city on the Neuse. This brings us to Thursday morning, October 30, which dawned upon us fair, bright and cool—thus banishing the gloom and despair of the previous day's sad experience with the N. S. management and treatment of the travelling public.

Promptly at 9:30 we took passage in a boat for the great Eastern Carolina fair arriving all safe at the rounds 30 minutes later. We immediately proceeded to take in the exhibits were very good considering the storm of September 3rd. The poultry exhibits were good, while not large in numbers; the many work of the ladies department consisting of embroidery work, quilting, cooking, etc., was very good, and deserves great credit. The arm and agricultural exhibits were very good, showing modern and up-to-date improvements in this line. The stock exhibit, consisting of horses, mules, cattle, sheep, hogs, etc., did fairly well.

The balloon ascension was pronounced a success by those who know—reaching a height of over 6,000 feet, landing unhurt in the waters of the Neuse. The racing was claimed to be fairly good by those who claimed to know. The 6-footed hog was quite an attraction as well as a curiosity. There were the usual games of chance and fakirs attending such places and as usual were liberally patronized. At 5 p. m., we left the grounds for the ferry landing. We found many boats waiting to take the crowds back to the city where we rested or a short while, took supper and at 8 o'clock we went down to the star Theater and enjoyed ourselves for an hour then made our way back to the Norfolk Southern depot in order to be on time to board the train at 10:30 as had been advertised for that place called "home" and found hundreds of people crowded in and around the station who had been led to believe along with myself that we were to leave for home at 10:30. Seeing a large crowd around the bill board casting my eyes in the same direction I saw that the train that we were all to take marked 12:45 a. m. One could see on the faces of that vast crowd disappointment—they having

Feature Singing Act and Excellent Pictures

Billy Lamont and his Singing Girl again greeted their audience at the Lyric last evening in new songs and specialties that drew large applause. The singing of Mrs. Lamont was one of the main features and no artist ever appeared here that had a more perfect and sweet voice.

Matinee and night performances today closes their engagement, and those who have not seen this act will miss an opportunity of hearing some of the best music ever presented.

As slated for Tuesday's engagement at the Lyric, "A Daughter of the Confederacy." This feature picture will be shown in three thousand feet of film and the only feature that has been made exclusively for the Southern exhibitors. No doubt with the wide advertising and publicity that has been given this feature they will play to a packed house.

Today's program offers a feature in military life, "For the Cause," and one that can be appreciated.

C. H. Bowers, of York, Pa., is a business visitor here today.
