HOW TO SELECT CORN EARS

WASHINGTON, N. C. NOVEMBER 3, 1918.

The first point in judging a sample of corn is to determine its trueness to the type or breed characteristics. There are breeds of corn like breeds of cattle which have peouliar colors or forms which distinguish between breeds of corn of the same color, but this may be learned by experience in handling corn of various breeds. In pure corn of any breed there are certain marks which may be safely recognized.

Take the shape of the sar, for example. The ideal sar is cylindrical, not too crooked or too tapering, it is as difficult to find an ear of corn perfect in shape as it is to find cows. Aborses and sheep with perfect forms. The shape of sare or the different varieties of corn differ as widely as the shape and form of the different pure breeds of cattle. Each class and variety has a characteristic shape peculiar to itself. The most desirably shaped ear is cylindrical from butt to tip. Where cars are inclined to tapes, it will be noticed that two or four rows, as a rule, are dropped near the middle of the ear. In judging the corn ear, take into consideration the

The ear at the left is too short and thick, although good in other respects, the second is a desirable ear, the third has an enis ged but and irregular rows, while the fourth, at the corn is grown. The shape of the corn is grown. The snape of a desirable ear for southern or central fillinois would differ in many respects from the most desirable ears for northern Wisconsin. The shorter growing season in the north demands a shallower kernel and a smaller ear to enable the corn to mature.

DISEASE MAY BE PREVENTED

Fatal Malady of Canker Sora Mouth Pigs Every Year.

The loss of little pigs from this disease annually is extensive, but largely might be prevented by proper care. The cause of the discase is infection of slight scratches of the nose, month and gums by what is called baciline necrophorus. This germ is present normally in the intestines of hogs and been dropped. The disease, therefore, is most likely to attack pigs kept in insanitary yards and buildings, and the contagion lurks there from year

To prevent the disease, sows and pigs should be provided with clean buildings and yards. Be sure to have the bedding fresh and dry. ild be cleaned out often and kept free from filth. Disinfectants free from filth. Disinfectants and land plaster should be used in the pens daily. At birth the sharp teeth of each pig should be carefully nipped off with sharp pinchers but more of each pig should be carefully nipped off with sharp pinchers, but more harm than good may follow if the gums are cut or bruleed during the operation. Treat the cankers by scraping each ulcer thoroughly and rubbing it lightly with a lunar caus-tic pencil. Afterward swab the af-fected parts twice daily with a five per cant solution of permanganate of potash.

The Nude in Art.

It might be well to bear in mind that when a real artist paints or models the nude human figure he does so usually from an accurate knowledge and intense admiration for the most wooderful of God's creations. And it is a remarkable fact that no great artist ever drew, painted or sculptured anything vulgar, for great art means knowledge and intelligence of a high order, and no person of knowledge and intelligence is consciously vulgar.
