ART IDOLIZING TOIL.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 27 .- There opened here today in Carnegia Galleries one of the most remarkable art exfibitions ever shown in this country. only a short time and to be exhib ited in only five cities other than Pittsburgh. This collection holds a peculiar interest for Pitsburgh for the subjects of Meunler's work are taken largely from the life of the miner, the forge and factory worker and the laborer in the fields. The collection contains about 150 pieces of work, including sculptures, paintings, and drawings. The sculptured figures are not at all large, in fact some of them are not more than 18 inches high, but they are replete with vigor, strength and story. Meunier was born in-1831. peasant parents living in Etterback, Belgium. A few years of training in sculpture in the Royal Academy were followed by study of painting in Paris. In 1880 he came under the influence of a group of "realists," followers of Millet, who were working jn and around Belgium. From this time on Meunier turned to abor for his inspiration.
