HOLBROOK PASSED AWAY AT THE FOWLE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL THIS MORNING

Herbert M. Holbrook, who was born to his partner H. H. Miles in the rubber barbers shop early Thursday morning, died at the Fowle Memorial hospital early this morning between seven and eight o'clock. Death was caused from internal hemorrhage. After that remains were prepared for burial they were moved from the hospital to the home of the deceased on Bonnar street.

Holbrook who was shot in the right breast and right thigh just before the crash, showed signs of sinking yesterday early in the afternoon and gradually grew worse until the end. At first signs were expressed for his recovery and while everything known to medical skill was suggested and done he passed away. After the difficulty between Holbrook and Miles, Holbrook was carried to the office of Dr. John G. Brien, where he remained all day Thursday until late in the afternoon when he was taken to the hospital. At before stated through the Daily News, the citizens had discussed practically nothing else since the shooting. It has been universally deplored and sympathy goes out to those bereft of their loved one and too to the family of Miles now in fall for the crime.

The entire city saddened as both principals while only residents here for the past few years have become popular, each enjoying a wide circle of friends.

Holbrook is a native of Huntersville, N. C., a small town near Charlotte and is said to be about 25 years of age. He came to Washington about three years ago and engaged in the barber business and last year in connection with H. H. Miles leased the Fowle Barber Shop and were doing business together until Thursday morning when the dispute arose ending in the shooting at Holbrook and his subsequent death. Holbrook in November, 1912, was happily married to Miss Annie Bott Shelton, one of the city's highly esteemed young ladies. Their married life was a happy and joyous one. Holbrook was a manly fellow—possessing traits of character that always attract and draw. His going is indeed sad but the ways of providence are mysterious and while we cannot understand, some sweet day we will.

Miles hails from Kershaw S. C., and has been here several years. Last year he married Miss Maud Paul, another one of the city's popular young ladies. The shooting and its sad ending as before stated has cast a gloom over the city.

The funeral of Holbrook will take place from his late residence on Bonnar street Sunday afternoon at three o'clock conducted by Rev. H. B. Bearlight, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a consistent member. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

METHODISTS WILL HEAR NEW PASTOR

Rev. E. M. Snipes to fill his pulpit for first time Tomorrow Morning and Evening.

The congregation of the First Methodist church on tomorrow will for the first time have an opportunity as well as pleasure of hearing their new pastor, Rev. E. M. Snipes. Mr. Snipes and wife arrived here from Roxboro, N. C., on Saturday evening last, and are now at the parsonage on West Second street. Mr. Snipes comes to this city bearing with him a high reputation both as a preacher and a man and so doubt he will be greeted by large congregations at both services tomorrow.

The subject of the new pastor for his opening sermon tomorrow morning will be "The Highest Attainments Come Through Service." After the sermon the Holy Communion will be celebrated.

Sunday school, E. R. Nixon, superintendent, will meet promptly at 9.45 a. m. Good music at both services. Polite and attentive ushers. All strangers in the city have a cordial invitation.

Is Convalescent.

The many friends of Mrs. A. M. Dumay will be pleased to learn of her convalescence. For the past several weeks she has been confined to her home with sickness. To know that she is recovering is gratifying to her friends throughout the city.

Al Bridwell Has a Birthday

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 3.—Al Bridwell, the popular shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, will doubtless receive congratulations from many friends tomorrow on the occasion of his thirtieth birthday anniversary. Al was born on a farm near Portsmouth, O., and had been playing professional ball since his nineteenth year. After a season or two with the Atlanta team of the Southern league and the Columbus American association team he entered the big show in 1906, as shortstop for Cincinnati. From Cincinnati he went to the Boston Nationals in 1908, to the New York Giants in 1908, back to the Boston's in the latter part of 1911, and from Boston to Chicago in 1912.

COUSIN DEAD

Mrs. A. M. Dumay and Mr. Edward L. Merrill received a telegram today announcing the death of their first cousin, Miss Alice Wilber, which occurred in the city of Cincinnati, Ohio, yesterday. Only about two weeks ago they received the sad news of the death of their aunt.

CHICAGO'S POOR HAVE REAL HOTEL

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Chicago's bread line has been abolished and in its stead, the city has, for the first time in its history, a new hotel where real beds can be had for five cents a night and where meals are furnished at from one to five cents each. Charles Dawes, former comptroller of the currency, who has been the host to the unfortunate in the bread line, is the founder of the hotel which bears the name of the Rufus Dawes Memorial. It represents a father's memorial to a dead son. Connected with the hotel are free baths and a free employment agency.

CARR OPENS BASEBALL SCHOOL

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 3.—Chas. C. Carr, one of the big men physically and otherwise of the minor league baseball for years has opened a baseball school for baseball players. The Cleveland Club has turned over to Carr's charge twenty-five young players, whom that club intends to turn over to Portland, Toledo, New Orleans, and Waterbury for further seasoning. President Somers of the Naps figures that a year can be gained here by the youngsters, and that $10,000 spent thus will be well worth spending for the results to be obtained. Other clubs will send a number of men later.

A CHARMING AT HOME ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Mrs. J. M. Harrington Entertained at Auction Bridge. Three Course Luncheon was served.

Mrs. J. M. Harrington charmingly entertained a large number of friends at her home on Pierce street last evening from 7.30 to 12. Auction bridge was played and a three course luncheon served by the popular and gracious hostess. No social affair of the Yuletide season was entered into with more merriment and no so home during the holidays was more enjoyed.

Mrs. Harrington is a woman of charming personality and judging from her first at home she will occupy an enviable niche in Washington society in the future as amiable entertainer. Her lovely home was the city's popular and attractive enlivened with beautiful decorations and illumination, the color scheme being red and green. Those present were Mesdames Lee Davenport, Claude Carrow, James Ellison, William Rumbley, Walter Greene, Norfolk, William Gervill, Richmond, S. B. Eldridge, E. W. Ayers, H. B. Mayo, J. E. Matthews, A. M. Dumay, A. L. Bowers, J. P. Bowers, John Isenogle, J. H. Hodges, J. B. Moore, N. L. Simmons, Ed. Mallison, C. B. Bell, J. G. Blount, J. H. Small, Paul Tillery, Raleigh, Judson Blount, Rocky Mount, W. E. Jones.

Misses Christine Stancil, Hill, N. C.; Mae Ayers, Anne Cox, Mary Carter, Katie Moore, Ava Bell, Winnie Nicholson, Eliza Branch, Helen Kugler, Pearl, Campbell, Adeline Mayo, Stella Ayers, Plymouth.

All left for their respective homes voting Mrs. Harrington a vote of thanks for a most charming and delightful evening.

NEW THEATER

COMING FEATURES

"The Last Days of Pompeii" occurred in 79 A. D., almost contemporaneous with the events of "Quo Vadis" and many of the customs, habits and dress were the same, and for that reason Mr. Geo. Kleine has endeavored to put as much originality as possible in his production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" which is announced for two days at the New Theater beginning Friday, January 9th, with matinee Saturday. This is particularly true in the amphitheater scenes which occur in both stories. In Pompeii Mr. Kleine has omitted many of the details that were to be found in the same episode of "Quo Vadis" and has succeeded in making a series of pictures that are both original and effective—retaining many of the thrills.

FOREST NOTES

There is promise of a large turpentine industry in the west and southwest, the raw product being supplied by the resinous gum of western yellow pine.

German pencil manufacturers are looking to California's incense cedar for pencil wood. The establishment of a pencil factory in California is not improbable.

More than 120 million board feet of timber was given away free by the government last year to settlers and miners living in or near the national forests.

There are 1 maple in the United States, most of them being eastern species. The most valuable, not only because of the product of its sap but also of the lumber, is sugar maple.

RAISE FOR 4,800 MEN

Camden, N. J., Jan. 3.—When the motormen and conductors of the Public Service Railway of New Jersey, 2,800 in number, went to work today, it was under a new scale of wages, giving them an increase in pay. The maximum scale raised from 38 cents an hour to 50 cents. The minimum will be 23 cents for beginners.

OYSTER-ROAST AT MR. DALLEY'S LAST NIGHT

Given by Young Men in Honor of Miss Mabel Dalley's House Guests. Occasion much Enjoyed.

One of the most pleasant social functions of the holidays took place last evening at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dalley on East Second street when several young men of the city gave an oyster- roast in honor of Miss Mabel Dalley's house guests for the holidays. Merriment and enjoyment reigned supreme during the entire function and all left for their respective homes carrying with them memories of not only a sumptuous repast, but too, gratefulness to those who were hosts.

This charming home has ever been a mecca for at home and attending last evening will ever remember the occasion. Those present were: Misses Muriel Hadley, Ada Suggs, Georgia Herndon, Kingston, N. C.; Elsie Buckman, Olive Jordan, Lillie Freeman, Justine Carmalt, Lucille Rhodes, Emily Harris, Pat Harris and Mabel Dalley. Messrs. Lawrence Gardner, Guy Labree, Ralph Hodge, Albert Willis, Allen Chaucery, Charles Meekins, Frank Wright, Charles Wright, Elsie Phillips, Claude Jordan, Harry Keas, Roy Bachelor, T. W. Rouse, Edmund Buckman, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dalley.

Dominican Congress to Meet

Santo Domingo, Jan. 3.—The Dominican congress will begin a special session tomorrow to discuss the validity of the recent elections and to consider and act upon other matters of public importance. Jose Bordas Valdes, provisional president of the republic, has issued a public announcement of his intention to abide by the decision of the congress on the results of the election.

Heavy Rain and Wind

Washington was visited early this morning with a heavy rain and wind storm. It was the severest since the memorable blow of September 3. In the low places of the city water is standing over a foot deep.

Communion Service Tomorrow

Tomorrow at St. Peter's church after the sermon by the rector, Rev. Nathaniel Harding, the Holy Communion will be administered. The rector will be assisted by Rev. C. D. Malone. All are cordially invited to be present. Evening prayer with sermon at 7.30 o'clock.

Jury View Body

Coroner Joshua Taylor and a jury viewed the body of the late Herbert Holbrook at his home this afternoon. The coroner and jury will hear evidence in the case at a later day.

KELLINGER'S INSOMNIA

By DOROTHY DUNN.

Kellinger couldn't sleep. All his life he had been bothered that way. For no reason whatever sleep would suddenly desert him and when it abandoned Kellinger it abandoned the rest of the family, meaning Mrs. Kellinger and the buldog.

When Mrs. Kellinger would announce sadly to their acquaintances that Tom had begun waking up at one o'clock and staying awake till six or not going to sleep at all until half-past-three it was exactly as tragic as though she was breaking the news that he had fallen a victim to the suicide habit or had begun murdering people again after a short vacation. Those to whom she spoke always had an uneasy feeling that they ought to send flowers or something.

Kellinger absolutely refused to go to the doctor about it. He said the physician would merely ask him if he had embelized any trust funds or had anything else on his conscience, and would appear annoyed because he hadn't.

"It's just nerves," Kellinger would say in martyred tones. "I wake up and then I begin thinking and I can't stop. I worry about what would happen if ten years from now a long, hard winter should set in and I didn't have any work. Then there is Uncle Dave, who has just invested all his money in

United States Supreme Court Reopens Monday

GIVES SUPPER IN HONOR OF LAW FIRM

A. D. MacLean gives six-course Supper to some members of Bar and others.

Mr. Angus D. MacLean gave a supper at his home, corner of Main and Pierce streets last evening at 7.30 o'clock in honor of the new law firm of Small, MacLean, Bragaw and Rodman and Judge W. M. Bond, of Edenton, N. C., who has succeeded Judge Stephen C. Bragaw on the Superior Court bench by appointment from Governor Crutcher.

The palatial home was beautifully decorated for the charming event the color scheme being red and yellow. A six course supper was served. Both Mr. MacLean and his charming wife proved par excellence in their role of hosts and all present partaking of their hospitality will ever remember the occasion. Those present were: Judge George H. Brown, associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court; Judge W. M. Bond, Edenton, N. C., of the Superior Court bench; Judge Stephen C. Bragaw, Hon. H. S. Ward, Junius D. Grimes, H. C. Carter, city attorney; Norwood L. Simmons, William B. Rodman, Jr., Col. W. H. Williams and A. M. Duthay.

"If Tom didn't have such an absurdly tender heart!" Mrs. Kellinger would sigh proudly. "That is, she sighed proudly till the sleepless streak had continued for some time, and then she grew peevish from lack of slumber. At first she would read aloud to Kellinger or would arise and, descending to the kitchen, would concoct unholy two o'clock lunches of fried eggs andwiches to lull him to sleep. Later she took to making remonstrances. Following these heart to heart talks, Kellinger gave up coffee and cigars and once in a while managed to sleep the night through, but more often he didn't.

"If you were twins, now," Mrs. Kellinger murmured reproachfully one night at three o'clock at Kellinger, who sat propped up socially against the bedpost with the reading light on full blast. "I suppose I shouldn't mind being awake like this. I'd expect it. But I don't mind telling you secretly that I'm (yawn) getting aw-aw (yawn) fully tired of it! I'm just dead for sleep!"

"Are you sleepy, dear?" Kellinger asked, in hurt tones. "What wouldn't I give to feel that way!"

"Whereupon Mrs. Kellinger felt ashamed of her desire to sleep and read aloud from "The Theory of Hot Water Heating" until she toppled over, sound asleep.

Kellinger really suffered. He said if it kept up much longer he would go crazy, he knew. All the Kellingers' friends were intensely interested in the situation. By their advice Kellinger drank hot milk before retiring, drank cold milk, put a hot water bag under his head and then an ice bag, stood on his head and walked on his hands, breathed in six times and out six times, crossed his fingers and counted jumping sheep.

When they were out in the evening Mrs. Kellinger had the habit of watching her husband nervously, and if his eyelids twitched she would grat the person next to her and moan: "Tom is going to have another sleepless night!" she would say. "He is getting the blinks! Poor man! I don't know what is going to become of him! Isn't it awful! Dearie!" to the afflicted one, "Get over here where you won't get the cigar smoke—it makes you nervous, I know!"

All of this happened before the arrival of Mrs. Shandis, who had known Kellinger at the disillusioning age of ten, and had never outgrown the habit. The first time she was present at one of these sad exhibitions she transfixed the Kellingers with a disgusted glance and spoke her mind.

"Stuff and nonsense, Tommy Kellinger!" said she. "I never heard of such tomfoolery! I never saw a person put on the airs you do! Are you any better than any one else that you can't sleep as the rest of us do? You say that your life is without reproach, and if it is there's no excuse for your not sleeping. The ideal! Smoke that cigar and drink that cup of coffee and go home and go to bed and go to sleep! You're a perfect goose! I think the trouble is that your head is only big enough for one idea at a time,

Democratic national committee has called upon the party organizations to celebrate the day with special reference to what has been accomplished by the present administration.
