little gay in its ref. and influential a journal as the New York Sun was a little gay in its ref-erences to the Secretary of the Na-vy. But there has come a change in the attitude of those unfriendly eritics, and they see that the Secre-tary is not a joke, but that he in-perhaps the most efficient official perhaps the most efficient official who has been in charge of this department of the government in this generation. Mr. Daniels has gone about the improvement of his department very vigorously. He has lopped off useless expenditures here and there and saved a great deal of money to the government, and has mastered the details of the business in a surprisingly short time. But in a surprisingly short time. But his greatest work as the head of the navy has not been in the ecosomical reforms he has instituted. He has established a system of edu-cation for the boys abord ship, and has offered them the opportunity has offered them the opportunity heretofore denied to them, of continual mental development under competent instructors. This is so simple and natural a thing to have done that it is a wonder it was not done lon gago, but as a matter of fact no other secretary of the Navy thought account when the secretary of the Navy thought account when the secretary of the s thought enough about the sailor boys to provide this sensible opportunity broader and better education Mr. Daniels has also stood for the morals and manhood of his men. He has not been so much absorbed in his personal promotion as to lose sight of the importance of throwing around the young men of the Navy every helpful influence. He has thought more of character than of gold lace. For his simple manners and democratic taste he has been rather shipply criticized by men with more beautiful.

on his American principles and has shown himself to be on of the best exponents of the American spirit in the Wilson administration.-Charity and Children.

The above certainly meets with our approval and we desire to add one enodrament to the well express-ed centiment of Editor Johnson. Secretary Daniels deserves all said of the navy, the most aristocratic of all the departments of our government, we have a man who is no afraid to wear a string tie and a slouch hat, and be a plain American in letter as well as spirit. We are proud that a Southern man and a North Carolinian cannot be swept off his fact by the tinsel splender of a department of the government that had forfeited the respect of the peothe country, but has stood pat

ENFORCE THE RULE,

and more too -Ed

He who comes late must stand until the end of the act. This rule has been adopted by the management of the New Theater, and it is a good one. People who arrive at theater on time are entitled to this protection. There can not be much protection. There can not be muon protection. There can not be muon excuss for being late at a perform-ance. When the curtain is sched-ance. When the curtain is sched-ance. 230 it should raise promptly on time as it did last night and those in their seats should not be disturbed by people who come straggling in late. Washington people are noted for being tardy on all occasions, and the theater proves no exception. Enforce the rule and they will soon learn to be in their seats before the curtain raises.
