- FOR SHERIFF
 To the Democratic Voters of Beaufort county:

 Having received many inquiries from my friends from the different sections of the county as to whether I will be a candidate for renomination and election and expressing their desire to vote for me again, I take this method to express to my friends my sincere thanks for their loyal support heretofore and if you think I am a worthy officer and have discharged the duties of the office well and carefully guarded the county's interest, then I ask you to give me your hearty support in the primaries and I will serve you as best I can two more years—serving your process and collecting your taxes as modestly as it can be done to collect as closely as I have since I have been your sheriff. By reference to the financial committee's reports you will find my insolvent lists for each year have been about two per cent of the taxes.

Now if you think a new sheriff, without experience, can do you better service and that you can save to the county money, by making a change, then it is to your interest and your duty, as I see it, to do so. If not the county needs every cent due it and if I am continued by my Democratic friends in the sheriff's office I can only promise to do what I have done, to give you my whole time and undivided service.

Again thanking you for your past favors and for your support at the coming primaries, I am,
 Sincerely your servant,
GEO. E. RICKS.

DOUBLY PROVEN.
 Washington Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This grateful citizen testified long ago.
 Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.
 The facts are now confirmed.
 Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.
 It forms convincing proof of merit.

R. A. Henderson, 156 George street, New Bern, N. C., says: "I suffered from a dull pain across my loins, accompanied by an extreme lameness in my back. I also had inflammation of the bladder and the passages of the kidney secretions pained me. Doan's Kidney Pills removed the lameness and pain and improved my condition in every way. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills, for I have been free from backache and kidney complaint since I took this remedy."
 Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Henderson had. Foster-Milburn Co., props. Buffalo, N. Y. adv

SALUTE AMERICAN FLAG IS REFUSED

 The following is a paraphrase: "Copy of your telegram of 8 p. m. last night was sent to the President with a copy of my reply to the effect that a protocol would be objectionable. The President replied: 'Your reply to O'Shaughnessy is exactly what I should have wished it to be. In no case should any concession of any kind, in detail or otherwise, be made.'"

"I talked with the President over the telephone when your telegram of 11 p. m. last night was received to the effect that Gen. Huerta had acceded to the demand, but only on condition that you sign a protocol. He repeated most emphatically his objection to any protocol or agreement. He insists that the salute shall not be fired as a matter of contract or with any stipulation that it be returned by us. It must be fired in accordance with international custom, as an apology for the insult offered. Gen. Huerta must trust that the United States will live up to the requirements of international courtesy in returning his salute when it shall have been fired. The proposed protocol is especially objectionable for it is so phrased that Gen. Huerta might construe it as recognition of the government, whereas the President has informed Gen. Huerta and the foreign governments that Gen. Huerta's government will not be recognized. Gen. Huerta's acceptance of the demand of Admiral Mayo must be unconditional, the details can be arranged directly with Admiral Mayo after Gen. Huerta announces that he will comply with that demand.

"Make it clear to Gen. Huerta that further negotiations are unnecessary. It is expected that he accept at once, in order that the incident shall be closed."

"At 9 o'clock a telegram was received from Charge O'Shaughnessy, but it was not conclusive and stated that he would call at the foreign office at 6 o'clock for a final answer."

"At 10 o'clock a telegram was received from Charge O'Shaughnessy conveying Gen. Huerta's final refusal. This was communicated to the President immediately by the telephone and he directed that a cabinet meeting be called for 10:30 o'clock this morning.

"Charge O'Shaughnessy's telegram in substance follows:
 "At 5:50 p. m. I called at the foreign office and was handed a note verbal by the minister for foreign affairs. The note states in substance that the government of Mexico is not disposed to accede to the unconditional demand of the government of the United States. It further states that the Mexican government is disposed to act according to the terms of the protocol which I have transmitted to you. I informed him that so far as this embassy is concerned the matter is closed, and that I immediately should inform my government that Gen. Huerta had refused definitely the demands of the government of the United States. A translation of the note will be cabled later."

"The President arrived at Washington at 8 o'clock this morning."

Battle Ground of Special Interest To The Confederate Veterans

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., April 20.—The bloodiest battle that was fought on Florida soil during the Civil War has a special interest to all who attend the Confederate reunion here May 6-8, inclusive.

Some sixty miles west of Jacksonville there is a railroad station bearing the name of Ojuatee. It is doubtful if any considerable per cent of travelers, when they bear the name of the station called by the train porter or flagman, know that one of the most deadly battles of the war was fought there, and that in point of numbers engaged the aggregate loss was greater than Gettysburg and Chickamauga.

The battle of Ojuatee was the climax of an attempt on the part of President Lincoln to restore Florida to the Union. On January 18, 1864, President Lincoln directed Gen. Gillmore, then in command of the military forces of the South Atlantic coast, to assist in constructing a government in Florida on a Union basis. The late John Hay joined Gen. Gillmore at Hilton Head, and at the head of some 7,000 men and twenty steamers they came up the St. John's river, landing at Jacksonville February 7. A few shots were fired at them by a company of Confederates, but the landing was accomplished without serious trouble.

The next day this army began its march into the heart of the State in three columns. The respective columns were commanded by Col. Jos. B. Hawley, of Connecticut, Col. William B. Barton and Col. Guy V. Henry. The column under Col. Henry travelled faster than the others and was soon far in advance of the remainder of the force. He surprised what was known as the Milton artillery, captured some of their ammunition and supplies, and reached Baldwin on the morning of February 10. The first serious fight of the campaign occurred at the crossing of the South Fork of St. Mary's river, where Maj. Robert Harrison checked him with two companies of the Second Florida cavalry. Seventeen Federals were killed and wounded in this fight. The Floridians lost five of their men. On the night of the 11th of February Col. Henry had fought his way to Lake City, where he encamped.

There were but few Confederate troops in Florida at this time, and fewer still that had ever seen serious battle. They were commanded by Gen. Joseph Finegan, a man possessed of great courage and good judgment, but inexperienced in war. Gen. Beauregard was then stationed at Charleston, S. C., and Gen. Finegan appealed to him for help. Gen. W. M. Gardner, commanding the Confederate force of a few hundred in middle Florida, was ordered to the assistance of Gen. Finegan. As chance had it, Colquitt's Georgia brigade was within reach of the scene of the impending conflict, and Gen. Beauregard ordered that splendid organization to double quick to Ojuatee.

While these preparations were going on, Gen. Finegan was confronted by an army of about 600. Chance gave Gen. Beauregard time to supply reinforcements. Gen. Gillmore, for precautionary reasons, ordered his army to entrench near Lake City and await developments. This delay was precisely what Gen. Beauregard wanted. His plan was to delude the Federals into the belief that no steps would be taken to assist the Florida troops. As a part of the plan, on the night of February 11, 1864, the batteries of Charleston harbor opened a terrific fire on Morris Island, the Federal stronghold, and under this excitement the Colquitt Brigade was withdrawn from Beauregard's thin lines and sent to Lake City. Orders were also sent to the Georgia troops under Gen. George F. Harrison to go to the relief of Finegan. It is a matter of interest and satisfaction that Gen. Harrison is now commander of the Department of Tennessee, United Confederate Veterans' Association, and resides at Opelika, Ala.

By concentrating this force, and calling to the scene all the troops in Florida, Gen. Beauregard massed an army of approximately 5,000 men in the vicinity of Lake City before the Federals were aware of his purposes. Therefore, when Gen. Seymour, in command of the Federals, moved from his position at St. Mary's February 20, he was confronted with a force almost as numerous as his own. Statistics in this instance, like those of practically all battles, are conflicting, but the Confederates had between 4,000 and 5,000 men, and the Federals between 5,500 and 6,000 in battle at Ojuatee. However, the entrenched Confederates numbering several hundred, were not actually engaged. Gen. Finegan feared that the Federals could not be tempted to attack the entrenchments, and after a little skirmishing for position, he ordered Gen. Colquitt to select the point where he met the enemy at the best place for deciding the issue, and that point happened to be two miles east of the railroad station of Ojuatee in a pine forest.

TUBERCULOSIS IN THE ORIENT.
 Tuberculosis is one of the most serious public health problems of the Orient. Active organizations to fight this disease have been formed in Japan, the Philippines, India and Australia. A movement is on foot for a national organization in China and in a number of cities local work has been started. While accurate figures are available, those who are in position to know claim that consumption takes annually from 500,000 to 1,000,000 lives in China alone. In India the death rate is fully as high, and on account of caste distinctions and active superstitions, the problem of prevention and treatment is peculiarly difficult. The Japanese government has taken a hand officially in the control of tuberculosis, and is cooperating with two well organized private associations. The death rate, while very high, is lower than in China and India. Under the direction of the United States Public Health Service a movement for the prevention of tuberculosis in the Philippines has also been organized. The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, with headquarters in New York, although organized especially for work in this country, has been large.
