

RECORDER DISCHARGES YOUNG DEFENDANTS FOR ALLEGED CRIME

A very interesting case was heard by Recorder W. B. Windley at the City Hall yesterday afternoon. Joseph Dixon, aged 17, and Henry Smith, aged 15, both of Chocowinity, were indicted under the charge of manslaughter. The Recorder after hearing the evidence discharged the defendants. The facts leading up to the hearing were as follows:

Last Sunday morning Elijah Elks, a boy reputed to be 14 years of age, went to Bear Creek at a point which is known as the "Bear Creek Swimming Hole" for the purpose of bathing. The little fellow could not swim so he pulled off his clothing and was sitting on the back of a small boat with his feet dangling in the water when Dixon and Smith appeared on the scene. Dixon and Smith pulled off their clothes; they both could swim, and proceeded to the boat where the Elks boy was. Elks asked them not to get in the boat as he could not swim. One of the boys got in the boat and in leaving the boat she dipped and filled with water. The Elks boy went to the bottom and did not return any more to the surface. The Dixon boy made every effort to save him. The body was found about an hour afterwards. The warrant for the Dixon and Smith boys were sworn out by Isaiah Elks, a brother of the deceased.

THE SERVICE LAST NIGHT ENJOYED

There was another good service at the First Baptist Church last night. The congregation was large and attentive and a pious spirit of devotion seemed to pervade the whole house. The evangelist preached a really great sermon from two of the greatest texts in the Bible: John 3:16 and Ephesians 3:18-19. The subject was, "The Love of God, Standing Four Square." He emphasized the four infinite dimensions of the love of God—breadth, length, depth and height as taught in these two texts. The appeal was logical, earnest, tender and powerful. There were several requests for prayer and one received for baptism. Near the close of the service, while preparation was being made for the administration of the ordinance of baptism, several bold testimonies to the goodness of God as manifested in their lives. This rich spiritual service found its appropriate consummation in the administration of the ordinance of baptism to five happy converts.

The text for tonight will be Isaiah 53:6—"For the Redeemer is shorter than that a man can stretch himself on it, and the covering is narrower than he can wrap himself in it." At three o'clock Sunday afternoon there will be a meeting for men and boys at which it is expected that there will be a great crowd of men and boys. After this service the evangelist will preach for the colored brethren.

H. G. LA BREE WEDS LADY IN SPARTANBURG

The following clipping from the Spartanburg Herald of Spartanburg, S. C., will prove of interest to the Daily News readers of this city where the groom is well and favorably known:

A marriage, interesting society throughout South Carolina and Florida, which came as a delightful surprise to the many friends of the young couple, occurred yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Jones on Alabama street, when Miss Lottie Legare Jones and Harry Guy LaBree were united in marriage. Only the immediate family were present. An improvised altar was erected of palms, ferns and smilax in the front parlor. Dr. J. S. Watkins, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, using the impressive ring service.

The bride's blonde beauty was enhanced by her particularly becoming suit of lavender moire silk with hat to match. She wore a lovely corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride roses.

Mr. and Mrs. LaBree left immediately following the ceremony for Asheville where they will spend their honeymoon at the Landgren hotel. On their return they will be at home in Washington, N. C.

The bride is a general social favorite in her home city, where she will be greatly missed by her many friends. Possessed with a particularly happy disposition and many lovable traits of character, she has endeavored herself to a large number of friends. The groom is secretary and general manager of the Paige-Detroit Sales Company, with headquarters in Washington, N. C. He is well and favorably known in this city, where he was formerly located. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. LaBree of Miami, Fla., his father being a prominent planter.

THE SISTERS STILL PLEASE THE PATRONS

The Gay Sisters are still pleasing large crowds at the New Theater last night they gave another performance of "James Birthday Party" and it was enjoyed by the large crowd in attendance. Tonight they will give a complete change of program in which they will present "Dr. Saw Bones," a comedy that is full of good singing and dancing and comedy all the way thru. If you do not wish to miss a good evening's entertainment do not fail to attend this popular play house tonight. There will be as usual three reels of good pictures. This troupe is certainly making a great hit here.

DAVE TAYLOR TO MANAGE THE TEAM

Mr. David T. Taylor, the oldest son of Dr. David T. Taylor, who is a student at the University of North Carolina, is to be the captain of the next year University football team. This is the first time in the history of the University where a sophomore student was honored with this high and exalted position in University athletics. Mr. Taylor will be a junior this year. His position on the team is left half back. He was elected in Richmond last fall after the banquet given the team in the palm room at the Jefferson Hotel. A Daily News man in talking to Mr. Taylor this morning learned that the prospects for a winning team this year are the best in a decade and unless something unforeseen happens North Carolinians will be more than proud of this year's work. Mr. Horace Cowell, son of Mr. J. F. Cowell, is also a member of the team. His position is right guard.

They expect to go in training at Waynesville, N. C., on August 1st and M. A. Paul of South Creek, N. C. coach T. G. Trenchard, the well known Princeton man until September 1. The first game of the season will be played at Chapel Hill September 26. The opposing eleven will be Richmond College. This paper feels sure that under the leadership of Mr. Taylor the boys will give a good account of themselves.

CLARK STORE IS A CREDIT TO THE CITY

A Daily News man paid a visit to the Clark store this morning and was delighted to see the marked improvement in this already attractive emporium. Mr. I. H. Morris, the manager, kindly showed the paper man around. The color scheme of the interior is white and green with oak fixtures. The shelving has been lowered and the unsightly counter removed, giving way to up-to-date show case counters of the latest design and pattern. The store is now divided into departments, viz: Ribbon department, Hosiery department, Ready-to-Wear department, Millinery Department, Lace, Embroidery and Trimming department. The dress making department of the store will be under the management of Miss Eva Ballard and the millinery department under a first class milliner.

Mr. Morris states that on the second floor of the building there will be installed a ladies retiring room and if any of the ladies clubs of the city desire to hold meetings they are welcomed to this room gratis. The alterations of this store are surely a marked improvement and this paper congratulates Mr. Morris upon his unique scheme.

YOUNG MAN DECIDES TO LEAVE CITY

Mr. C. G. Lyon, Jr., who has been connected with the Taylor's Pharmacy for the past three years, has accepted a position with the Crescent Pharmacy at Scotland Neck, N. C. Mr. Lyon during his residence in Washington has gained a wide circle of friends who deplore his decision to leave for another town. Mr. Lyon is a native of Ayden, N. C. He is a young man of ability and bids fair to occupy an enviable position as a druggist among his competitors. He has the best wishes of his numerous friends for abundant success in his new field of labor.

WASH. BOY WINS PRIZE AT COLLEGE

Another Washington boy has "made good" as they always do. This time the Daily News takes great pleasure in giving the following story from yesterday's News and Observer which states that Mr. John A. George son of Mrs. Christian George and brother of Mrs. C. C. Coppedge, won the prize at Richmond College with his paper on the best research work of the year. We clip the following for the benefit of the readers of this paper and no doubt it will be read with genuine pleasure by the young man's many friends here:

State Librarian Miles O. Sherrill has received from Richmond College a letter of recognition of service which was rendered by the State Library through Mr. Sherrill recently when a request was made for certain information to be used by a North Carolina boy, Mr. John A. George in a thesis "The Loyalists of Virginia." The thesis won the prize. The letter reads as follows: "Miles O. Sherrill, State Librarian of North Carolina."

"My Dear Sir:

"We are returning herewith the advance sheets of the 'Index' so kindly loaned to us in May. You will be interested to know that Mr. John A. George, the brilliant young Carolinian for whose thesis 'The Loyalists of Virginia,' we asked the information, won with this paper the prize for the best research work of the year. Indeed the authorities of our State library pronounce it the best piece of historical work ever done to their knowledge by a student.

"With our thanks for your courtesy,

Very truly yours,
"M. G. RYLAND."

When the request was made for the book, it was not out of the hands of the printer but the advance sheets were secured by Mr. Sherrill and mailed to Mr. Ryland.

GAS BOAT SCHEDULE.

The gas boat Arcadia leaves Washington each Tuesday for Bay-side and South Creek. She carries both freight and passengers. The Arcadia is well equipped for this business and every attention is paid to the passengers taking passage.

Norfolk, Va.—Four people were killed and scores injured in a collision between an electric train on the Virginia Power and Passenger Company and a coal train on the Virginian Railroad at 12:30 Thursday morning at Fairmont Crossing, about three miles from Norfolk. Only one of the dead was identified. In a hat found beside a body was the name Samuel K. Cuthrell.

The electric train loaded with men and women left Ocean View at midnight and would have arrived in Norfolk at 12:45 o'clock. At the Virginian Railroad crossing, trainmen say the gates were down and a coal train of seventy cars was passing, en route to Roanoke. The electric train crashed into the gates and into the freight train.

The electric train made up of two coaches, both of them made of wood, crumpled up after the collision and passengers were hemmed in the wreck and were released only after men from residences near the railroad cut away the broken seats and timbers that held them prisoners.

Many of them had broken legs and their heads were bleeding. Women screaming for water could be heard for blocks and scores of people residing at Fairmont Park went to the scene with bandages and water.

Ambulances from all the hospitals in Norfolk were sent to the scene, and scores of doctors hurried there in automobiles. Reports reaching the city from the scene of wreck stated that fifty people were killed and the police department rushed a squad of police to the scene.

A young woman apparently 30 years old, died after reaching a hospital. No one knew her name. She wore a gold breast pin with the word "Annie" engraved on it. Just before she died she asked for Rev. Father Doherty, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church of this city.

O. K. Atkinson who was on the front car of the electric train escaped with a broken leg.

United States Has Named Terms For Recognition

Washington, D. C.—The United States yesterday instructed John R. Silliman, American consul at Saltillo, to inform General Carranza that if he arrives at a peaceful agreement with the Carbajal government for the transfer of power at Mexico City, recognition will be extended to the resultant administration.

The expectation of the administration is that arrangements will be made for peaceful entry of the Constitutionalists into Mexico City, or in case Carranza and his generals finally refuse to accept President Carbajal pending the holding of an election.

President Wilson believes other nations will not recognize any new government until the United States has indicated its attitude. For that reason he thinks the Constitutionalists will be very careful in their procedure.

The President is understood to have no objection to Carbajal except on the score that he derived his power from Huerta, and is willing to accept his if the Constitutionalists will agree, as provisional president until elections.

White House officials were confident that the Constitutionalists would be temperate in their acts when they enter into Mexico City, believe there is no danger of wholesale killing or looting.

Senor Riano, the Spanish Ambassador, called upon Secretary Bryan to make representations for the safety of Spanish citizens in Mexico City. He was unable to say whether the Spanish embassy would continue to represent Mexico in the United States under Provisional President Carbajal.

Official dispatches threw no further light on the destination of Huerta and other refugees of his party. Should his escort take him to the American lines at Vera Cruz, the Mexican soldiers probably would not be permitted to pass through unless they surrendered and consented to be interned in the same way as other Federals on the border. The American army would not turn them back to be executed by Constitutionalists outside Vera Cruz.

General Funston in a dispatch to the War Department today made a mention of Huerta's plans but expressed the belief that in consequence of the dictator's resignation there would be defections from his troops on guard along the railroad and that the deserters would come to Vera Cruz.

It was explained at the War Department that no effort will be made to keep such soldiers out of Vera Cruz. At first it was the idea that they should be interned, but later it was decided they would be permitted to come in provided they laid down their arms.

Many diplomats in Washington think President Carbajal may be disposed to accept the terms of the Plan of Guadalupe, which provide for the naming of Carranza, Constitutional chief, as provisional president, pending elections throughout the republic.

All doubt in Washington over the course Huerta might now pursue was dispelled by the report that he had left Mexico City, presumably for Puerto Mexico. There, it was believed, who would follow in the steps of Porfirio Diaz and board ship for Europe.

While President Wilson and Secretary Bryan were silent after the announcement of Huerta's resignation, they were noticeably optimistic over prospects for early adjustment of the problem that has vexed two administrations and threatened to plunge the United States into a foreign war. The Washington government will not recognize the new provisional president, but the understanding here is that he will hold office only until arrangements can be made for Carranza's occupation of Chapultepec Castle.

Carbajal, it was believed, hoped only for the declaration of general amnesty for the forces that have opposed the northern armies, and certain property guarantees. The Constitutionalists have declared they would not enter into negotiations with Huerta's successor, but hope was confidently expressed that some basis of peace might be found.

Government Supervision Importations Of Live Stock

In case you are a breeder of live stock and desire to import a number of animals for breeding purposes or possibly a purebred bull, boar or ram for the improvement of your herd or flock, it will be well to know that the Federal Government maintains a strict supervision over the entry of such animals into this country. The same close scrutiny is exercised over deer, goats or other pet animals, which foreign travellers sometimes wish to bring home as pets or as mementoes of their travels.

In either case it will be advisable to defer making a purchase or engaging space for the animals on steamship until you have ascertained just what requirements govern importations of such animals.

By Act of Congress, the Secretary of Agriculture is given authority to make such regulations and take such measures as he may deem proper to prevent the introduction or dissemination of any contagious, infectious or communicable disease of animals from a foreign country into the United States.

Under such authority, regulations of the Department of Agriculture require that any person contemplating the importation of cattle, sheep, and other ruminants, and swine, from any part of the world except North America, must first obtain from the Secretary of Agriculture two permits. One of these permits upon presentation to the American Consul at the port of shipment will entitle the specified animals to a clearance; the other will assure, subject to inspection, their reception and entry subject to observation in quarantine at the port of entry on the date prescribed for their arrival or at any time during three weeks immediately following. The law allows for any unavoidable delay through bad weather or other cause in the steamer's schedule.

Three animal quarantine stations are provided on the Atlantic seaboard near the ports of Boston, New York and Baltimore for the detention of imported stock. The animals imported in this regulation are cattle, sheep, goats, and other ruminants swine and colts, shepherds of sheep dogs. All animals from parts of the world other than North America are subject to this quarantine regulation.

If no disease develops while the animals are detained at the quarantine station the owner is permitted to ship them to their ultimate destination in this country.

All animals of the classes named and which are subject to both inspection and quarantine must be entered through these ports.

Cattle from Great Britain, Ireland and the Channel Islands are held in quarantine for a period of thirty days. If from other countries, except those of North America, the quarantine period is ninety days counting from date of shipment. Sheep and swine from any part of the world, except North America, are subject to a quarantine of 15 days.

The Department of Agriculture receives periodically official reports from various foreign countries concerning conditions as regards existence of certain communicable diseases of live stock. These enable the Secretary of Agriculture to determine countries from which certain animals can not be imported without danger to the live stock of the United States. No permits are granted for importations from such countries. For instance, owing to prevalence of foot and mouth disease and other communicable diseases in countries of the Old World and South America, importations of cattle, sheep, other ruminants and swine have for several years been forbidden from countries other than Great Britain and North America. This work is aimed to exclude communicable diseases, a number of which are unknown in this country, any of which, if introduced, would result in great loss to our live stock industry.

Persons interested may obtain the latest regulations (B. A. L. Order 209, effective July 1, 1914), on application to the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
