Cotton Planters in South Told To Stand Firm and Don't Sell

Washington, Aug. 8.—In an address to the cotton growers and people of the cotton growing States made public, the Congressional committee, which volunteered several days ago to seek measures which would prevent serious consequences to the South because of the European war, declared:

"Our message to you is—stand firm. Sell cotton only as a last necessity."

Members of the committee headed by Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, after a careful investigation of conditions up to the present time gave it as their mature judgment that the least possible cotton should be put upon the market during the next 60 days, asserting that the agencies of the Federal government, both executive and legislative, were doing all possible to relieve the strain of the situation caused by the lack of transportation facilities and the danger of facing no market abroad. They called for unselfish cooperation among the farmers, merchants and bankers of the South for the common good and declared:

"It should be understood that we are not in the midst of a panic, nor is a financial panic possible under our new banking and currency law; and it is not necessary for us to throw our cotton upon the market at prices less than its real value."

The statement of the Congressional committee follows:

"We recognize the fact that cotton is the money crop of the Southern people, and any situation which vitally affects its value must be felt by all lines of commercial and industrial activities.

"While the condition of war in Europe gives rise to a situation which is serious, we believe that it can be greatly overcome if all agencies, national, State and local, promptly and vigorously respond to their respective duties.

"Your President, the several executive branches of the government, and your Senators and Representatives, are exerting every effort to devise means by which the cotton crop may be marketed at a price warranted by a normal law of supply and demand, and not by a condition caused by the European war.

"The important problems involved in this situation are:

"First—Transportation. It is essential that lint cotton and cotton manufactured goods, should reach foreign market where they may be consumed. We are confident Congress will pass within a few days an amendment to our shipping laws which will greatly facilitate transportation. We have no doubt transportation facilities will be available for cotton, and cotton manufactured goods, within a very short time.

"Second—Consumption of cotton. The European war must necessarily reduce temporarily the demand and consumption of our cotton. The State Department has cabled our consuls abroad for detailed information. From the information we have received, we are confident the consumption domestic and foreign of our cotton, will be much larger than is generally supposed. The mills of the United States and Canada will consume approximately half of our production, and the demand for American cotton by Great Britain and the Orient will not be greatly valued. Great Britain consumes nearly half our exported cotton. Eleven million bales of our cotton should be absorbed by the trade, even under the most aggravated conditions.

"These facts should be most reassuring, and should entirely dispel the idea that our foreign trade in cotton will be wiped out.

"Third—Money to market the crop and care for the surplus.

UNIQUE PARTY AT PANTEGO AUGUST 4TH

On the evening of Tuesday, August 4th, at the home of Mr. P. H. Johnson, of Panteago, there was a function which perhaps has not been duplicated in the county.

A party was given by Mr. Johnson in honor of his aunt, Mrs. Isora Scoggin, on the occasion of her 61st birthday. The unique feature of the party was that no one under 60 years of age was invited and that Miss Scoggin being a maiden lady still regards herself as being too young to entertain "men" and therefore all men were excluded.

The house was lighted exclusively by candles and an old-time supper was served in the same manner which was in vogue 60 years ago.

There were ten guests present and those old ladies sitting around the candle-lit table with their faces wreathed in smiles inspired by memories of other happy occasions presented a scene never to be forgotten by those who were permitted to look upon the spectacle.

They laughed and chatted as gaily as an assemblage of girls of today and the "old boys" who have been their partners through life, like the boys of today, hovered near, each anxious to claim his "girl" and each showing by his anxiety that the charm she once exerted over him had been strengthened by years of association.

Those present were: Mrs. J. W. Reepass, Mrs. Daniel Winfield, Mrs. J. S. Rues, Mrs. M. J. Whitley, Mrs. George Boyd, Mrs. Wm. Credle, Mrs. Minerva Windley of Washington, Mrs. Annie Wilkinson, Mrs. E. S. Waters and Mrs. Martha Jones, Mrs. C. P. Aycock came to pay her respects in place of her mother, Mrs. George Old, who was unable to attend.

The principal address will be delivered by Major F. Charles Hume, of Houston, for many years a member of the Magruder Camp. The monument is made of Texas granite—two rough hewn stones of little difference in weight, with a wreath carved in the centre of the top stone forms the modest tribute to the brave men who helped defend Galveston harbor for the South.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, It has seemed good to the Maker that our esteemed friend and co-worker, Mrs. A. S. Wells, should be taken to the spirit land; therefore, be it resolved

1st. That our W. F. M. Society has lost one of its beloved and faithful members, and to us her death is a personal bereavement. She was a child of faith and bore her afflictions with Christian strength and resignation.

2d. That her consistent Christian life be commended to our society as an example for each to follow.

3rd. That we tender our sincerest sympathy to the bereaved family and commend them to our Heavenly Father, whose grace is sufficient to sustain them in their grief.

4th. That these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, published in city paper, Raleigh Christian Advocate, and a copy presented to the family.

FRENCH ENVOY TO GERMANY IS HELD UP

Paris, Aug. 8.—Jules Cambon, French Ambassador to Germany, while on his way from Berlin to Copenhagen, was stopped inside the German frontier, according to official reports, and informed by the major accompanying him that he could not continue his journey unless he paid over 3,000 marks ($900).

The Ambassador proffered his check, but the major insisted on currency.

M. Cambon then borrowed from his traveling companions enough to make up the amount in gold, which he handed over, requiring the officer's word of honor he would be allowed to reach the Danish frontier. This was given.

The French liner France had not sailed from Havre up to last night, nor was it known when she would sail.

The French Ambassador to the United States, Jules J. Jusserand, is aboard the France and that steamer and the Chicago may sail together Sunday, possibly with a naval convoy.

PAIGE

A Greater Paige for 1915 at the Record Price of $1195

You cannot possibly appreciate the full significance of this announcement until you have actually seen the new Paige "36".

Then—like everyone else—you will agree that an absolutely new standard of value in the moderate price field has been established.

Paige cars have always been regarded as the patenmakers in automobile value, but now, all Paige records have been surpassed. For "this is the greatest Paige of them all"—and the price is only $1195.

If you seek an explanation of the extraordinary value which you will find in the new "36", consider, for a moment, the following facts:

In the first place this is a business organization. The destinies of the Paige Company are guided by ten men who have won national reputation as Manufacturers, Bankers, Lawyers and Directors of Giant Industries.

These men—known as "The Ten Associates"—were the organizers of the Paige Company and they have directed every phase of Paige activity from the very beginning.

Their combined experience and judgment have been exercised to correct the thousand and one leaks, weaknesses, and general "mistakes" which characterize a youthful industry.

As a consequence the Paige Company has suffered from no serious blunders or costly errors in Administration, Manufacturing, or Merchandising.

These men have insisted upon economical, efficient management.

They have kept the company clear of all bonded indebtedness—they have authorized only conservative capitalization—and they have guarded the quality of every cotter pin which goes into the construction of the Paige car.

With practically unlimited resources behind them, the "Ten Associates" have built well and strong.

They have made no compromises with their own convictions—they have deliberately started out to build the best car for the money in the world—and they have unflinchingly held to this ideal.

In the light of these facts is it strange that the Paige should have won such a signal success?

Is it strange that this company can achieve each year new standards of excellence which are impossible for the less experienced—less perfectly equipped—manufacturing organization?

Think it over carefully and let the local Paige dealer show you the new "36".

You will be surprised—just as others have been surprised—to see how much automobile value can be purchased for $1195.
