WHAT IS EMERGENCY CURRENCY FOR?

The question above quoted is being asked, very pertinently, by the New York World. It appears that with a billion dollars of emergency currency available, there has been a comparatively small issue of emergency notes. And yet bank credits in this peaceful and relatively prosperous country are quoted at seven, eight and nine per cent. while in England, France, Germany, Austria and Belgium, all engaged in a desperate and disastrous war, credits do not exceed seven per cent. and run as low as three.

The purpose of the emergency currency measure is presumably to benefit the public by providing credit at normal rates in times of financial stress. Just how it appears that the measure is benefiting the banks rather than the public. Not only are they getting an abnormally high rate of interest for such of their ordinary funds as they care to loan, but they are asking as high as nine per cent in many banking centers for currency or credit which, according to the Aldrich-Vreeland act, costs them only three per cent to begin with, and under the established rate for issuance can never cost them more than six per cent.

If money is so scarce as to justify the high rates in view of the present demand, by don't the banks issue more emergency notes?

While this is not true of Washington banks, it is a condition which exists in many places.

SOUTH AMERICAN POSTAGE.

While American business men are engaged in a supreme effort to establish closer and more profitable trade relations with South America, why should not the government co-operate through the postoffice department? Cheaper postage would have as much effect in the opening of larger markets in the Latin republics as any other factor whatever.

At the present time first class mail to South and Central America is subject to the customary foreign rate of five cents an ounce for letters. We have treaties with several countries, however, that establish the two-cent rate of our domestic letter postage. Thus it costs but two cents to send a letter to Mexico, Canada, Cuba, Germany, the United Kingdom or Shanghai.

It would doubtless be an easy matter to negotiate similar treaties with our Latin neighbors south of Mexico. Inasmuch as the whole North American continent is already under the sway of this typically American two-cent rate, it would be a perfectly natural thing to extend it throughout the hemisphere.

An all-American postal union would be the precursor of closer and more advantageous relations not only in business, but in every other department of civilized intercourse.

AMERICAN GIRL'S ABILITY.

Europe's brave women are the toast of the world. Burying their personal anguish in the great common anguish of nine countries plunged in war, they have taken up men's labor and added it to their own. Suppose such a call came to American women? How would they respond to it? McCall's M. Ford, director of the Y. W. C. A. recreation center, says: "If the American girl keeps her body as sturdy as her brain and heart, there is no task too big for her. The American girl of wealth and leisure is generally athletic. It is the girl who works for her living who must be encouraged to conserve and develop her physical energies. That is what we do here—supply a place where girls and women can keep their bodies in perfect trim without making a labor of it. They have fun while they grow strong. Given physical fitness, there is no work man does that woman cannot do."

Woman, especially the American woman, is a sort of "civil soldier" ready for every emergency. When her father loses money, or her husband dies, or her brother turns out wrong, the American woman is to be counted on every time.

Times haven't changed so much. It is only that woman finds she can best serve society in her own ways—the peaceful arts and industries, the forcing of good morals and manners, the civilizing of humanity, the building of the home. But if the need comes for her to load vessels, carry loads and lay bricks, of course she'll do it. It would be no harder than the work she does. Only different.

Teach and Practice Self-Denial. Teach self-denial and make its practice pleasurable, and you create for the world a destiny more sublime than ever dreamed of by the wildest dreamer.—Walter Scott.

Sermon Miscarried. Bishop Blomfield, famous English divine, received one of the most chastising comments upon a sermon that has ever reached a preacher. Once in his prophetic days, he found as he was going into a Buckinghamshire pulpit that he had left his sermon behind him. Compelled to preach extempore, he selected as an easy subject the existence of God, and pleased himself so well that he thought he would repeat the experiment. But on the way home he overtook a farmer and asked him how he had liked the sermon. "Well, it was a very good sermon, Mr. Blomfield, but I don't agree with you!" "Not agree with me?" "What can you mean?" said Blomfield. "Well, Mr. Blomfield, I think there be a God."

NOTICE OF SALE.

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain deed of trust made and executed on November 16th, 1913, by John F. Phillips and wife, Ruby Phillips, to Edward L. Stewart, Trustee, which said deed of trust is duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Beaufort county, in Book 180, page 162, the undersigned Trustee, will, on Thursday, the 15th day of October, 1914, at 12 o'clock, noon, at the court-house door in Washington, N. C., offer for sale, in the highest bidder, for cash, the following described real estate and other property, to-wit:

FIRST—That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Beaufort, State of North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows, to-wit:

All that certain piece or parcel of land situated just northeast of, and outside the corporate limits, of the city of Washington, N. C., in that suburb thereof known as Washington Heights, and being composed of all that portion of Washington Heights which lies on the east and southeast side of Maple street, and on the south and southwest side of Penn avenue, extending from Maple street to Ryan's door in Washington, N. C., and for sale, in the highest bidder, for cash, the following described real estate and other property, to-wit:

Beginning in the old John Latham, deceased line, at a marked tree, runs north 34 east to the west edge of the swamp; thence a northwesterly direction with the edge of the swamp to the William S. Grist line; thence north 65 west to the north edge of Coburns Branch, thence with the edge of Hoper Swamp to Robert B. Woodard's line; thence with his line south 25 west to the west side of the swamp; thence with the west edge of the swamp to a ditch at S. W. Boyd's swamp field; thence with the said ditch an easterly direction to the corner of said field; thence with the east side of said field, a southwesterly direction to the Jacob's patent line; thence with said line to the north edge of the swamp; thence with the edge of the swamp to Jno. Jacob's patent line; thence with said line to the beginning, containing fifty acres, more or less.

Saving and excepting from the operation of this deed all of the oak, juniper, and cypress timber which is now, or may be hereafter standing or growing on said lands and premises. Also all of the easements, privileges, rights of way, and powers granted in a deed for the above described timber and easements from S. W. Boyd and wife, dated July 17th, 1913, to Carolina Co-operative Company, which said deed is duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Beaufort county, in Book 178, page 458.

THIRD—Those certain rights of way and easements that are particularly described in a deed from S. Fleming to Atlantic Manufacturing & Stave Company, which said deed is duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Beaufort county, in Book 154, page 3, to which reference is hereby had for particulars of description.

Defects having been made in the payment of the notes secured by said deed of trust and application having been made to the undersigned trustee by the bona fide holder of said notes for a foreclosure proceeding, this sale is held to satisfy said indebtedness.

This 15th day of September, 1914. EDW. L. STEWART, Trustee. 9-15-4w.

Liquid to Put Out Fires. The nervous housewife who lives in constant dread of fire may, with very little trouble, make an extinguisher that will put out a fire if used at once. All she needs to do is to get three pounds of salt in a gallon of water, and to this add a pound and a half of sal ammoniac. This liquid should be heated, and when the fire is discovered, it should be poured on it.
