

RUSSIANS FORCED TO RETREAT BEFORE THE ARMIES OF AUSTRIA

The stage of the war having twisted the horizon on all horizons of news from Belgium, just now perhaps the most potentially important news of the fighting, the British people were forced to content themselves today with the official communication from Paris and even a close analysis of this showed no marked change in the situation favoring either side.

From the east came tidings of a decided reversal in form, the dispatches both from Vienna and Petrograd indicating that the Austrian army at Przemysl had been reported surrounded, hopelessly outflanked and on the verge of surrender, had turned on the Russians with the aid of reinforcements, and forced them to retreat.

The first news of this kind during the morning came from the Austrian capital. It followed later by what purports to be a Petrograd admission that the Russians had abandoned the siege of Przemysl for strategic reasons, with the object of drawing up a new line against the Austro-

German army in other points in Galicia.

Whatever may be the truth of the situation, the Russians have been claiming an unbroken series of victories in their sweep through Galicia and the coincidence to today's dispatches, supplemented as they were by more circumstantial accounts from Vienna and a vigorous Austro-German offensive, seemed to promise important news.

The British and Belgian troops who retired from Antwerp before the German occupation with the exception of those now interned on Dutch soil as a result of having had to cross the border, have been swallowed as completely as if they had been buried under the ruined forts. For military reasons their positions and the sea of hostilities in Belgium must remain obscure until the turn of events brings them sharply to the fore again, as was the case when, after the fall of Antwerp, the British public learned for the first time that the British forces had assisted the garrison.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO ENTER HOME
 Some one attempted to enter the home of Luther Rice on East Seventh street last evening, and but for the timely appearance of Mr. Tetterton, who resides next door, and who is employed at the Crystal Ice Company on night duty, doubtless the robbers would have succeeded in their attempt. Those attempting to enter the home of Mr. Rice first attempted an entrance by means of the back door and finding this intact next endeavored to enter the kitchen door. Making too much noise they were frightened away by Mr. Tetterton upon his arrival between midnight and day. There is no clue as to the guilty parties.

The remains are expected to arrive here this evening via the Norfolk Southern and the funeral will take place from St. Peter's Episcopal church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by the rector, Rev. Nathaniel Harding. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

REGRETS HIS INABILITY TO BE PRESENT

CONGRESSMAN SMALL DEPRECATES HIS FAILURE TO VISIT PEOPLE OF THE DISTRICT WHILE CONGRESS IS IN SESSION.

The following letter has been received by the Daily News with reference to his inability to be present in his district during the present campaign. His letter explains itself:
 Washington, D. C.,
 October 12, 1914.

To the Citizens of the First Congressional District:
 I have not been able to visit the people of the district during the present campaign for the reason that Congress is still in session. Doubtless this fact is known by every one, but I take this occasion to express my personal regret at my inability to visit the several counties of the district.

At the date of this writing there is a probability that Congress will adjourn between the 17th and 21st inst. When adjournment occurs I will at once go to the district and in so far as the intervening time before the election will permit, I will fill as many appointments as possible.

I am deeply grateful for the re-nomination which has come to me by the Democratic party, but so long as Congress is in session I can best express my appreciation by remaining here and striving to render the best service in my power.

Very sincerely,
 JNO. H. SMALL.

OFFICERS DISCOVER A BOOZE STILL

LOCATED ABOUT TEN MILES FROM THIS CITY YESTERDAY ON THE WILLIAMSTON ROAD.

Deputy Collector Edward James and Deputy Marshal W. M. Cooper yesterday afternoon captured a 60-gallon still on the Williamston road, about ten miles from Washington.

About 100-gallons of mash was destroyed and three gallons of whiskey, in addition to the entire outfit.

The still was practically in full operation when the officers arrived, although there was no one present. The surmise is that the operators discovered the presence of the government officials and escaped to the woods.

BALL FANS ARE DELIGHTED AT SERVICE

The World Series of ball games between the Boston "Braves" and the Athletics in Washington has been in every way satisfactory. Mr. Thomas Blow, one of the managers of the New Theatre, assumed the expense in order to give the fans of this city an opportunity to witness the contest and was fortunate in securing the services of Mr. R. E. Pennington, of New York, to conduct the board. So far Mr. Blow has been working the board at a loss; this is to be regretted, for Washington always comes "across" in the way of sports.

Instead of Mr. Blow making expenses he should have a wide margin. Mr. Pennington is handling the electric board with skill. If this statement is not correct only a doubting Thomas should attend the New Theatre and see for himself. Mr. Pennington has had years of experience in this line of work and the consensus of opinion is that no better service of a similar character has ever been given to the fans in Washington.

The efforts of Mr. Blow to give the latest baseball news and the work of Mr. Pennington to assist him should be appreciated. The service is being admirably handled over the Western Union Telegraph wire under the management of Mr. Price. Taken all in all those who love and appreciate baseball have no kick.

WE MUST HAVE PUBLIC MEETINGS IN EVERY COTTON COUNTY.

There is just one thing now that can rescue our farmers from the situation the ignorance and pangs of a few have brought on, and that thing is through organization in every cotton-producing county.

We have already waited too long. Talk accomplishes nothing, and State meetings and South-wide meetings might as well be held in the clouds. We must go out into the highways and hedges and get the people organized in every county and every cotton market. Leaders must be chosen in every county who will have the responsibility of seeing what can be done about providing warehouse facilities, about securing loans from banks, and about securing holding places from growers of all classes.

Let the word go out to all the world that the cotton in the South is not in the hands of men who have lost their heads and are trying to give away their cotton to anybody who will take it. Let it be in the hands of those who are rushing to sell their burlap for the first men of potage offered, but that men have not in a thousand centuries—real men "who know their rights and know their duty"—and that these men are going to hold cotton for a fair and living price.

Let us have meetings in every county to plan warehouse and holding places and to see what can be done. Let us have meetings in every county to plan warehouse and holding places and to see what can be done. Let us have meetings in every county to plan warehouse and holding places and to see what can be done.

FINE SHOW LAST NIGHT NEW THEATER

Those attending the New Theatre last night were more than charmed with the pictures. At no time this season under the present management were the "movies" more attractive and interesting. There were three reels. Tonight the prospects were that the program at this well known play house will be more attractive. The management of the New Theatre is paying neither pains nor expense to please its patrons and all those attending will be amply repaid.

Robinson's Great Show October 19

Four of the enormous elephants belonging to Robinson's Famous Shows took a stroll through the streets of Salt Lake City while the show was being unloaded from the trains. They had been left temporarily in charge of his keeper's assistant while the keeper himself was called away for a few minutes. The big brutes seemed to know that they were not in strong hands, and they proceeded towards the produce market, which was only a block away. A wagon load of fresh vegetables, which had just been backed up against the curb, attracted their attention. The farmer and his wife immediately vacated the vicinity with remarkable suddenness, while the elephants proceeded to regale themselves upon the delicious garden truck. It took only a moment for the load to disappear, when the market policemen appeared upon the scene, only to find that they had urgent business at the tops of some tall telephone poles near at hand by this time the whole market space was in an uproar, and the pay people, horses and wagons disappeared was a caution.

At this juncture the circus men were seen coming on the run, and the elephants decided to give them a run for their money, for they dashed on towards Temple avenue at a rapid rate. Before them, like a drove of wild sheep, people on foot, in buggies, wagons and automobiles, dashed at wild haste. Market wagons rattled up the street distributing vegetables, fruit, eggs and other articles of their jump. Not for long. The circus men knew their business, and soon closed in upon the train, and in a few minutes the monster creatures were plodding peacefully towards the circus grounds. And their eyes gleamed with a look that said plainly, "We had a good time while it lasted."

Robinson's Famous Shows will exhibit at Washington, Monday, October 19, afternoon and night.
