

WESTERN BATTLE IS SLOWLY BUT SURELY GOING WITH ALLIES

The Battle Front, via Paris, Oct. 15.—Infantry and cavalry have been active since fighting during the last few days has been for several weeks.

Two thousand French Cuirassiers have distinguished themselves by a daring feat in swimming the river Iser where it flows deep and swift. They completely overtook the Germans who were awaiting them on the other side with machine guns and heavy artillery.

The French horsemen made a long dash during the night. One man swam the river with a rope that dragged over a cable which he stretched to a tree. The others, holding the rope, crossed singly with their horses through the swirling water.

At the opposite bank, the French drew up in line and charged the German flank at Mirville, driving the enemy back and opening the way for the passage over the river of a division of allied infantry, which later occupied Mirville.

The present war differs from all previous wars, inasmuch as no one knows just when a battle begins and when it ends. What is now known as the Battle of the Four Rivers—the Somme, the Meuse, the Oise and the Aisne—be regarded as ended and a fresh stage of the operations begun with the fall of Antwerp and the renewed appearance of a strong allied army in Belgian territory, where it has made its presence felt by the capture of Ypres.

Meanwhile the siege of the German positions further south has become merely desultory. Some parts of the line, where a perfect hall of shells was a daily occurrence five weeks ago, now are relieved by artillery fire only at rare intervals. An important point only 30 shells were fired throughout the 24 hours. The infantry on both sides is kept constantly on the alert, although the allies have found it possible to reduce the strength of the enemy artillery on the firing line.

The remainder of the ground allied forces at these various points are held in reserve within measurable distance, ready for any emergency. The cold and wet have made trench work very trying, but the allies are well provided with blankets and waterproof sheets. The soldiers also are combating the cold by means of sheets of parchment which they wear under their uniforms and which help to keep them warm.

Many of the advanced German trenches appear to have been abandoned and the allies were able to make much headway today where previously they had met with furious resistance. The idea prevails that the Germans are preparing to retire at the center and concentrate their energies further north where it is supposed they intend to make another attempt to break the allies' line.

It appears evident that the commanders of both armies have been awaiting reinforcements where they are most needed, and, in the meantime are feeling each other out. There is reason to believe that these fresh forces have arrived and have been assigned to their places so that a rapid development may be expected. The newly arrived German troops are thought to have come directly from Germany and are composed of second and third reserves, who need a period of pulling together before going to the front.

The allied commanders expect the Germans to deliver another powerful blow looking to the achievement of their one great objective—Paris. But this is awaited with confidence in the power of the allied armies to respond with a vigorous counter blow.

LOVES TRIBUTE

At Raleigh, on Monday, the 12th, in the soft glow of the twilight, the soul of Miss Mary Denton Prime passed into the glorious radiance of the Great Beyond, leaving a halo around the memory of her friends of a life rich in the fullness of Christian faith and godly fear. This faith sustained her during her resignation to say, "Thy will be done," in the last two years of her illness.

The numerous and beautiful floral designs were a tribute to the loyalty of the staunch friendship which she possessed. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Nathaniel Harding, assisted by the Rev. C. D. Malone, from St. Peter's church, where she was a faithful worshipper, and while the choir sang the beautiful strains of "Pass, Perfect Peace," and "Forever With the Lord," she was laid to rest by her mother in Oakland cemetery.

The pallbearers were: J. P. Haddock, E. L. Roper, J. P. Thomas, W. C. Early, J. P. Haddock and G. H. Haddock.

MRS. TAYLOR HOSTESS TO BOOK CLUB

THE ADDISCO BOOK CLUB WAS CHARMINGLY ENTERTAINED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON—PAPERS OF INTEREST.

The Addisco Club held its regular meeting yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. D. P. Taylor, in spite of the heavy downpour, quite a number of the members were present. The club was called to order shortly after 4 o'clock by the president, Mrs. B. G. Moss.

In response to roll-call, short items of current news were read. The first paper, "Myths and Legends of Our Own Country," by Mrs. W. B. Martin, was charming, with its vivid stories of witchcraft, fairies and Indian legends. Following this was a fine paper, by Mrs. F. H. Rollins, on "Patriotic Education and Preservation of Historic Spots," which was thoroughly enjoyed by the fortunate listeners.

A delightful salad course was then served, and the club adjourned, feeling more than repaid for having braved the elements.

CONG. SMALL ENTITLED TO THE CREDIT

THROUGH HIS EFFORTS ADDITIONAL CREDIT IN N. C. PLACED AND THE DISPATCHING OF MAILED ON LATE TRAINS.

In giving credit for the establishment of an additional work in the local postoffice of the city and too mentioning the fact that beginning today all mail deposited in the office here up to 1:55 a. m. would be dispatched, both North and South via the Norfolk Southern midnight train, inadvertently the paper neglected to state that the much-needed and essential contribution to the patrons of the office was mainly through the efforts of Congressman John H. Small. Mr. Small has ever been willing and anxious to help his constituency and this is but another instance of his doing so.

The Daily News gives below a letter just received from Congressman Small which explains this:

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16, 1914. Editor Daily News:

I have just read with interest in your issue of the 15th the item regarding the action of the Postoffice Department in authorizing the employment of a night clerk in our city postoffice. You state that this addition to the service was obtained "through the efforts of Postmaster Hugh Paul." While not wishing to minimize the aid rendered by Mr. Paul in securing this improved service, I would like to suggest modestly that I had some slight part in the work which made the employment of this clerk possible.

This additional clerk would be a great convenience to the business public. They should be enabled to deposit mail in the postoffice at a later hour for dispatch in the north and southbound night train of the Norfolk Southern, and the mail received on these trains should be distributed in the morning much earlier than at present.

Very sincerely,
John H. Small

"BELIEVE ME" DELIGHTS ITS AUDIENCE

ONE OF THE BEST ATTRACTIONS OF THE SEASON LAST NIGHT, WAS CLEAN AND REFINED.

"Believe Me," as presented by Billy "Single" Clifford, the Clifford Minstrel Maids and the Louverne Ladies' Band and Orchestra at the New Theatre last evening, was indeed a musical satire in two long acts, if the Daily News is given permission to coin the expression. The songs were fresh, bright and breezy, full of just the sort of melody that a musical loving public demands. Of course these present, not lovers of music could not appreciate the efforts of the company, but taken all in all—those who know what music is and those who do not, no attraction of the season at the New Theatre received more hearty applause, so much so that Mr. Clifford appeared before the footlights and expressed his high appreciation. The central figure of the attraction is a rollicking young Englishman. Naturally he gets himself in all manner of scrapes and his actions furnished much amusement to the audience. Mr. Clifford played the role of this gay young man, affording much fun and in addition delighted his audience with catchy songs.

The Weston Sisters were among the main features of the performance. Miss Mae Collins and Mr. Clifford, with their love waltz, was alone worth the price of admission. They had to repeat their stunt several times.

Miss Helen Clark charmed all with her beautiful solos. The "Musical" Walker, the cork man, servant of the conservatory, was there with the goods and through him the audience enjoyed many hearty laughs. His hits were up-to-date and catchy. There were many ludicrous situations and, too, laughable complications.

The attraction was clean, nothing to offend and the consensus of opinion is, and this paper heartily seconded it, that no better show has been on the boards this season.

The stage settings were attractive, the music superb, the acting good and the jokes and hits laughable.

Mr. Clifford and his excellent company can rest assured they will receive a good house in Washington upon any return date.

UNIVERSITY ENROLLMENT JUMPS FROM 512 TO 886 WITHIN FOURTEEN YEARS

(By S. H. Winters.)

Chapel Hill, Oct. 15.—The rapid growth of the State University within recent years focuses interest in the item recounting the development since 1900. The enrollment has jumped from 512 to 886 within the period of fourteen years. The Summer Session is the same length of time has expanded its numbers from 161 to 395. The money of the University in 1900 amounted $35; the present teaching force is $7,700,000 on the campus at the beginning of the decade were ten in number, the number now is 24. The courses offered show a corresponding increase in number—from 111 to 344. The value of buildings and equipment indicate a growth from $250,000 to $1,984,500. The 120th birthday, celebrated last Monday, was only a pause in the life of the institution. The board of trustees, in outlining a policy, emphasized the importance of "stop boasting about past history of the University" and "arouse ourselves to a realization of the fine work now being done, the splendid vision animating those who are making our University what it is, and the unlimited possibilities which would flow from a realization of these visions for the education and culture of our State." The realization of this constructive policy should be accomplished through these agencies, alive with action, for the propagation of the year's program: The North Carolina Club, the continued expansion of the North Carolina Debating Union, the enlargement of the scope of the correspondence courses, the service of legislative and municipal reference under expert authorities, and the University library loans of books and reference material.

The University Dramatic Club has chosen a drama from Bernard Shaw as the play which they will stage this season. "Arms and the Man," is the title subject, and the story is laid in the Balkans. The scenes are hinged around the activities of two of the States in warfare. The adventures which two rival officers encounter in their courtship to win the hand of a pretty girl furnished the main action. Shaw's wit and satire put a plenty of ginger and snap in the action of the play. As customary, the Dramatic Club anticipates two trips in the State for the presentation of the play—in the western and eastern sections of the State. The western trip is proposed for the month of December, and the towns that will probably be included are: Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Salisbury, Charlotte, Spartanburg, and Asheville. The Eastern trip comes in February, Raleigh, Greensboro and New Bern are the points favored by the club for visitation.

The completion of the University filter plant establishes a further safeguard against the contraction of typhoid fever by the students. The water heretofore used by the college plant has not been considered altogether as pure as the filter plant will insure. The filter plant has been in the course of the construction for over a year, and its completion renders it of far greater convenience for furnishing the student's room with a supply of water. Too, the plant opens the way and extends the invitation for the establishment of an ice plant and a laundry—two industries the unfiltered water made well-nigh impossible.

The Debating Council of the University is in communication with the universities of Vanderbilt, Georgia, and Maryland, prospecting arrangements for the securing of an inter-collegiate debate during the fall term.

Carolina's football team has the brunt of the season's schedule before it—University of Georgia in Atlanta October 17, University of Vanderbilt, in Nashville, October 24, and the University of Virginia, in Richmond, November 26.
