He recommended the stablishment of a training school in the westers section of the state for teachers, similar to that at Green-ville, in the east, and dealt fully with the tuberculosis sithation, that he thought it better to stating that he thought it better to of this plague rather than keep the sanatorium at Montrose in existence at the expense of the state, where so few people would derive any ben-

The Governor was outspoken as regarding child labor and went on record as being opposed to working children of tender years in the mills and of working women a night.

He declared that the present sys om of taxation in the State was far from what it should be, saying that is that our property is not assessed for taxation as it should be and that the quadremnial assessment of property will be for the purpose of low-ering the tax rate if a more equitable listing of taxable property can
