Old Pension. They had a roundabout way of bestowing military pensions in the old days. Witness this official communication from the British war office in the reign of Queen Anne. Her majesty, it runs, has been pleased to grant Pitton Minsull, a child, a commission as ensign in consequence of the loss of his father, who died in the service. And Pitton was at the same time granted furlough until further order, his army pay being sent regularly to his mother.

FARM STOCK

WINTER SHELTER FOR SHEEP

Wise Shepherd Will See That Arrangements for Protection of Flock Are Good and Sufficient.

The shepherd who is wise enough to be prepared for wet wintry days and cold winter nights does not dread losses from pneumonia, and the mortality in the lambing season of next February and March that will come from breeding ewes that have been weakened by exposure. As winter begins to draw a little nearer, he sees that his sheltering arrangements are all that they ought to be.

It does not matter whether the sheds used by the sheep are so very warm or not. But they must not be so open that the wind can whistle through them and there must be plenty of ventilation, says a writer in Farm Progress. Plenty of light and ventilation, and freedom from drafts are the main considerations. The warmth of the shed is less important than the necessity of a good, sound roof.

I never put more than fifty sheep in a single shed. More than that number will be hard to manage and the chances of accidents among ewes with lamb will be greatly increased. The shed ought to be about twice as long as it is wide and there should be ample room for every animal to lie down inside its doors without the appearance of crowding the place. The floor must of course be absolutely dry and remain that way.

A Shropshire Sheep.

built rack, made of slats palled about three inches apart. Put it out far enough from the side wall so that the ewes may feed at it from both sides.

Where the space is not great enough to allow the rack to be built out from the wall so sheep can feed from both sides, the bottom of the rack will have to be built slanting enough to slide a grain, hay, chaff, trashy bits of forage and leaves down to the side where the sheep are feeding. This will keep the far side of the rack from filling up with moldy feed.

Wheat Milk for Pigs. It is usually estimated that 100 pounds of skim milk are worth as much as a half bushel of corn for feeding purposes—that is, if corn is so wanted a bushel, 100 pounds of skim milk are worth 50 cents. In feeding pigs give three pounds of skim milk to one pound of grain. Skim milk contains 2.2 per cent protein, 5.3 per cent carbohydrate and about 0.5 per cent fat. It is practically all stomachic.

SENT CUSTER STORY

Telegrapher Who Flashd News of Massacre Just Retired.

After Fifty Years of Active Service John M. Carnahan Receives a Pension—Takes off $0,000 Words in Two Shifts.

Missoula, Mont.—The news of the Custer massacre was first told to the world in 1876 by John M. Carnahan then manager and operator in the Western Union office in Bismarck, North Dakota. After an active service of more than fifty years Mr. Carnahan has just been retired on a pension.

Mr. Carnahan began his career as a telegrapher in 1861.

In the fall of 1873 the Northern Pacific railway line had been completed as far west as Bismarck, N. D. Mr. Carnahan was asked to go to Bismarck and manage that office, and in the spring of 1873 he went there and the big chapter in the story of his eventful life began. For it was while he was at Bismarck that he sent to the world the account of the Custer massacre on the Little Big Horn in July 1876.

Fort Abraham Lincoln, the post of the Seventh cavalry and the headquarters of Brigadier General Custer, was at Bismarck. Mr. Carnahan won Brigadier General Custer's friendship and he became the personal friend of the officers at Lincoln. And so it was that he and the post surgeon rode out from the old garrison with the Custer expedition when it started in June, 1876, to punish the Sioux. The surgeon and the operator made the first twelve miles with the Seventh cavalry. Then they turned back with the last detachments which Brigadier General Custer led.

No word came back to Bismarck from the Seventh cavalry and its commander. But that occasioned no surprise. Expeditions of that sort were a common occurrence in those days.

It was on the night of July 5 when the steamboat Far West came down the river to Bismarck. The Far West brought the wounded of Reno's company and the official dispatches which told of the complete annihilation of the Custer command.

On the morning of July 6 Mr. Carnahan found on his desk in the telegraph office a carpet bag filled with official dispatches. There was an immense lot of them. He "flashd" the news to the East, and then settled down to the transmission of the official story to the department of war in Washington. It was eight o'clock on the morning of July 6 when he began his tremendous task. Not until five o'clock the following morning—21 hours—did he leave his instruments. Then for three hours he slept the sleep of utter exhaustion. He returned to his work, and for 20 hours he sat at his key. It was four o'clock the next morning when he checked off the signature of the last dispatch in that old carpet bag. He had sent 20,000 words in the two shifts.

For two days the eastern newspapers had been clamoring for news, and there was no one to send it. Mr. Carnahan could not leave his official work and there was no other telegraph operator within two hundred miles.

To the New York Herald, the Chicago Inter Ocean and the St. Paul Pioneer Press he sent as much of the news as he had strength to prepare. And that was the way the news of the Custer battle was sent out.

That was the big news article in the career of John Carnahan. But in the professional secrets of 33 years at a telegraph key there must be many incidents stored up which would stand the world if they were told.

OUR FORCING BOX

Is well and solidly built of 7-8-inch cypress wood and painted to avoid rotting. The dimensions are 12X14 inches at base, with an 8X10 top and depth of six inches.

The glass slide works in a groove at the top, permitting it being withdrawn at the will of the grower and also to facilitate easy storage from season to season. When the glasses and wooden portion can be kept separately, the wooden boxes being of such shape that they "nest" nicely, one within the other and take up very little storage space.

Cucumbers, Cabbage, Tomatoes and other vegetables are wonderfully hastened in their growth and productiveness by the use of these boxes, and in sections where they have been used growers have met with the greatest of success. No other methods of forcing has yet been devised and we suggest that orders be placed early as there is sure to be a great demand for them as soon as their true worth is recognized.
