RECEPTION IN ANNOUNCEMENT OF MARRIAGE

Belhaven, Mar. 1.—Mrs. C. W. Smith entertained Saturday evening in honor of her cousin, Miss Ida Shavender, whose marriage to Mr. Chauncey Pogram of Hamlet, will take place on Wednesday, March 24. The guests were met at the door by the hostess, and ushered into the parlor where Miss Shavender greeted them—after which an appropriate contest was engaged in, the guest of honor winning the prize. Then the guests were shown into the dining room, which was decorated in pink and white. Cupid was suspended from the wall just over the center of the table. In his greeting he made known the archer had aimed well and struck the mark. The color scheme was carried out in the three-course luncheon. The first a salad course, second, pimented sandwiches and coffee; third, mints, served on double hearts, the hearts being given as favors.
Miss Weston made the announcement, in a very charming manner, which she found on her place-card. All the others giving toasts to the guest of honor, and responded to by the bride-elect. Those present were Misses Ida and Louise Shavender, Katherine Weston, Eva and Laura Thompson, Ruth Credle, Mina Thompson, Helen Guilford, and Cora Wilkinson.

INSPECTION OF THE LOCAL NAVAL MILITIA

Col. Thos. Stringfield of Wayneville, Inspector General of State Militia, assisted by Commander R. W. McNeely, U. S. N., Commanding U. S. S. Tallahassee, made the annual inspection of the Sixth Division, North Carolina Naval Militia, of this city, at the Armory here last night.
The Division assembled at 7:30 o'clock and were put through infantry drills, signalling, Butt Manual and big gun practice, which lasted until 10:30.
The inspection was rigid in its entirety, and the inspectors paid high tribute to the discipline and training shown, and pronounced them one of the most efficiently trained Divisions in the State, which was quite contrary to a report recently circulated throughout the State by an article in the News and Observer written by their Washington, (D. C.) correspondent.
With reference to all the Divisions, Colonel Stringfield stated, "that they have found the men qualified from the standpoint of seamanship, which has been acquired by actual practice aided by local conditions, which makes them invaluable as recruits for regular service."
It is gratifying to know that North Carolina ranks first in the naval militia gunnery in the United States qualifying on battleships.
These gentlemen have just completed the inspection of the First Division at Belhaven, and left the city this morning for New Bern where they will inspect the Second Division tonight.
WASHINGTON VISITOR.
Mr. Harold J. Washburn was a visitor in the city on yesterday from New Bern.

NEWSY NOTES FROM SCHOOL AND CAMPUS

One of the most interesting exercises that have been held in school was rendered on Friday morning by the Cornellian Club in the auditorium. There was a cornet solo by Mr. Selby Jones. Miss Gladys Allgood played a very sweet selection on the violin. Miss Ruth Butler rendered an instrumental solo. Miss Carlotta Nicholson recited "Bobby Shafter's Gone to Sea." A very instructive talk on the Roman matron Cornelia, for whom the club is named, was made by Miss Lila. The program was very interesting and greatly enjoyed by all.
Cornellian Club.
The Cornellian Club had for its program on Friday evening critical sketches on the important characters in the "Merchant of Venice." The program was very interesting and instructive.
The Preliminary Debate.
The members of the John H. Small Debating Society are making preparations for the preliminary debate which will be held on Thursday evening of this week. At this time the debaters will be chosen to represent the Washington High School in the triangular debate.
The query is "Resolved That the United States should adopt the policy of subsidizing its Merchant marine." Quite a great deal of interest is being manifested by the boys in this subject.
We are confident of sending out two strong teams. The debaters are: Affirmative, Elbert Weston, Jessie Woolard, and Charles Harding; on the negative, Walter Morrison, Ray Warren, Joe Wilkinson, William Ellis, and Whiting McElenny.
Etta Kappa.
The program for the Etta Kappa on Friday was a debate. The query was, "Resolved, That a miser is more injurious to society than a mendicant." The affirmative side was upheld by Isabel Warren, Thelma Buck and Mildred Smith, while the negative was upheld by Virginia Bell, Helene Hudnell and Margaret Whitely. The declaimers were Gladys Whitely and Mary Whitely. The papers on both sides were good, but it was decided by the judges that the affirmative won. The declamation was won by Gladys Whitely.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS AT TRINITY

Trinity College, Durham, N. C., March 1.—"Some Economic Effects of the European War upon the United States" was the subject of a lecture delivered recently by Dr. William H. Glassom, head of the department of Economics, in the Y. M. C. A. hall in the East Duke building. This lecture was the fourth and last of a series of lectures given by the faculty of the college upon the European war. "Events Leading up to the Present Conflict in Europe," "France and Her Relation to the War," and "The German Point of View" have been the topics given by the heads of the department of History, French, and German.
Dr. G. stated that one of the principal effects of the war upon this country was the demoralization of the South's over-sea cotton trade, because of which we have already lost over one hundred million dollars with Germany alone; and that the war was in large measure responsible for the unprecedented prices in wheat and had been entirely instrumental in protecting American sugar growers from the competition which would have resulted from the present tariff. The war has increased the cost of living, but has developed many American industries and has given us a large trade balance with Europe. In contrast to the blow dealt the railroads by the war is the excellent opening for South American trade offered the shipping industry.
Last Friday evening our basketball team was defeated by Wake Forest on the visitors floor by the score of 23 to 12. This was the second game in the series; the first was won by Trinity, but Manager Lambeth has decided not to play off the tie.
On Saturday the team faced the A. & M. quint at Raleigh, and closed the season with a victory of 28 to 17. Elon and Wake Forest will play shortly for the state championship.
Baseball practice has been going on for some time. Six "T" men are in college and there is abundant new material. Coach C. B. West cut the large squad by twenty-five men today and states that he is gratified with the progress of the men this early in the season. A grandstand and two bleachers are nearing completion on the new athletic field, in preparation for the opening game of the season, March 19. The seating capacity will be about fourteen hundred.
Prof. E. C. Brooks, of the Department of Education, returned Saturday from Cincinnati, where he attended the superintendent's section of the annual meeting of the National Education Association.
The fifth periodical to be published at the college will be "The Trinity Alumni Register," a quarterly publication to appear shortly. It was first proposed at the last meeting of the alumni in June, and work has now begun on the first issue. Part of the magazine will be devoted to campus activities, communications from former students will be received; and there will be space for editorials and special articles. The first issue will contain a complete register of former pupils, their years in college, dates of graduation, present address and other facts of interest concerning them. This data has been compiled by Prof. R. L. Flowers.

LADY LUXURY CAPTIVATES WASHINGTON

A capacity audience greeted "Lady Luxury" at the New Theater last night and it was no more than she could properly have expected, for such a dainty, capricious, winning Miss deserves the best. Fresh from the Casino, blithesome and gay, she preened her butterfly wings for a brief space amid the idle rich gathered at her bidding to assist her in celebrating her coming into her inheritance, only to find that her heart was with her Texas lover and that true love needs no luxury.
Forrest Huff, as Sam Warren, of Texas, plots with Uncle Van Cuyler (J. W. Herbert) to teach Lady Luxury that all is not gold that glitters, and in a plot of unusual coherency and plausibility from the fertile pen of Rida Johnson Young, succeeds in doing so to the satisfaction of all, including "Lady Luxury" herself, so admirably impersonated by Florence Webber.
Emilie Lea, as the Russian dancer whirled, spun, and kicked her way into the hearts of the audience, especially in the "Poster Dance," in which her costume was as bizarre as the music and the steps. And who ever knew of Russian dancer without a case of towels? The loss of hers, with the subsequent recovery, complicated the plot. Sam J. Burton, as Harper, the family's old colored butler, was excellent as was Miss Fiteroy as Mrs. Draper-Cowles, a part which scarcely gave her fitting opportunities. Donald McDonald and Jean Polittier, as the favorite brother of Lady Luxury and daughter of Mrs. Draper-Cowles respectively, sustained their splendid reputations, though Maud throw McDonald over at the end for the fascinating Count Pinasselli (Arthur Albro), whose voice was well tested in "When I Sing in Grand Opera."
The twenty musical numbers provided by William Schroeder were all so charming and useful that it is difficult to discriminate. Probably "Pick a Pickaninny," by Miss Webber was the most catchy, though her "Dream On, My Prince" and "Longing for You" were liberally encored. "That Rag-tag Dance," by Mr. McDonald and Miss Lea, and the ensemble numbers, were most effective.
The Casino "beauty chorus" was fetching; some said it was a pity more was not seen of it, or them, and the costumes was up to the standard. Taken as a whole it was the most capable cast ever seen here in a musical comedy and one that will long be remembered, and it is to be hoped that this is a forerunner of others in this class.

HOLDUP AT CHOCOWINY.
Robberies and holdups are getting to be a very common occurrence at Chocowinity. On Friday morning about three o'clock as the night agent for the Norfolk Southern Railway Company, Mr. Ray, was closing the door of the office he heard somebody say "don't close that door." When he turned around to see who the party was he looked down the barrels of two revolvers in the hands of a white man with a mask on. The mask man demanded that he open the door, and at the point of the pistols he forced the agent into the office and made him open the safe. However, there was no money in the safe, which it seemed was the highwayman was after, as he did not molest anything else.
In the early part of Saturday night some one forced an entrance into the ticket office through the window in the waiting room, and broke open the ticket case, also opened the safe. Again no money was found and nothing was noticed missing.
