CARRIAGE BUILDERS' TECHNI- sumding a few days with her cousing CAL SCHOOLS.

One of the most modern develop ments in the educational field is the effort to establish in all our institutions of learning courses of instru tino which will tend toward "making a living" rather than simply to educate with a strictly "cultural"

end in view.

Saturday night. As a result of the agitation carri ed on by individual educators and os industrial organizations. there have been established in simost every large city courses of tech nical studies, usually chosen with ref Barr were out driving Sunday after erence to the predominant industrieof the city or State in which the school happens to be located.

One of the trade organisations earliest to see the advantages of dance at the home of Mr. Nig Hardspecial technical training as a means for advancing their industry, was ing Priday night. the Carriage Builders' National Association, which established a large school for vehicle draftsmen in New York City in 1880. A committee of prominent carriage builders collected $5,490 in that year for the purpose of starting this school, which has now been in continuous operation for thirty-five years.

During the last few years the necessity for similar schools in other cities has made itself felt, now, in addition to the parent insti to hundreds of resident and correct iding students, there are flour tabing schools for carriage builder in Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other prom inent vehicle manufacturing

The carriage builders can thus be shown to have been ploneers in the present movement for industrial adin the agitation for good roads, a subject in which the entire cour try has now become interested.
