

AUSTRIANS FRUSTRATE ATTEMPTS OF RUSSIANS IN HUNGARIAN INVASION

Berlin, April 15.—The German war office today gave out this report on the situation in the Carpathians, dated Monday, April 13.

The Russian attempt with the army that was before Przemysl to force the invasion of Hungary has resulted in failure.

London, April 15.—England experienced a second Zeppelin raid last night a German airship making an extensive flight over the north-eastern coast in an unsuccessful attempt to damage shipbuilding works along the river Tyne.

Both the Russians and the Austrians continue to claim local successes in the Carpathians, but in general it would appear that reinforced Austro-German forces have checked the main Russian offensive in the region of the Usok pass.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd George has presided at the first meeting of the business committee which is to organize to the full the nation's resources in the production of war material.

Responsibility for the delay in the operations of the allied fleet against the Dardanelles again has been placed on unfavorable weather conditions.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 15.—A dozen bandits held up a New York Central fast freight train at Sanborn, nine miles east of North Tonawanda early today, stripped several cars of bolts and nuts valued at $50,000 and sped away in automobile trucks upon which they had loaded their plunder.

After forcing the engine crew to uncouple the locomotive and run it a short distance, the engineers and three other members of the train were lined up against a box car and placed under guard of a single bandit while the others looted the merchandise cars.

PREPOSTEROUS THE JAPANESE EMBASSY SAYS

Washington, April 15.—An official statement authorized by the Japanese embassy today characterized as "preposterous" reports that a naval base had been established at Turtle Bay, Lower California, Mexico, and declared "there never has been any intention on the part of the Japanese government to locate a naval base or occupy any territory on the west coast of Mexico."

Operations of Japanese warships in Turtle Bay, embassy officials said, were solely for salvaging the stranded cruiser "Amatsi." It was stated that while detailed reports from the scene had not been received, as the consul general at San Francisco was handling the matter, landing on the shore of the bay probably had been found necessary in connection with the salvage work.

IN LOVING MEMORY

A gloom of sadness was cast over the entire community Sunday morning, April 14th, when the angel of death entered the home of Mr. K. L. Barr of Choconutville, and claimed for its own his dear and loving mother, Mrs. Lena Barr, to live with him in that beautiful City on high.

She was born October 19th, 1832, making her stay on earth 84 years, 5 months and 16 days. She united with the Methodist Episcopal church at Providence, Choconutville, in 1876, and lived up to its faith till called to higher paths of light.

On January 21st, 1851, she was married to Mr. Eli Barr, and to this union were born five children, of which only three survive her, Messrs. H. L. and Sidney Barr of Choconutville, and Mr. Harmon Barr of Bath.

She was a great sufferer for years, but bore her sufferings with Christian fortitude. Her life was an open book, read and loved by all who knew her, and now that her work is ended on earth and she has gone to reap her reward why should we grieve for we know she is sweetly resting in the Savior's love.

She will be sadly missed in the entire community, as she was ever willing and ready to help and assist those who were less fortunate than she. It was indeed a pleasure to be in the presence of this good woman. She was ready when God called her. She had long listened for His voice.

She was a loving mother, a splendid neighbor, a devout Christian, of a lovable disposition, and liked by all who knew her.

She leaves three sons, one sister and four brothers to mourn their loss besides many friends.

She has only paid the debt that all must pay sooner or later. Can we ever forget her? Oh, no! We can never forget one we loved so well. She cannot come to us but we can prepare to meet her when parting is no more. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh, blessed be the name of the Lord." Oh, how lonely it is without her!

The burial services were conducted by Mr. L. H. Taylor in the presence of a large number of grief-stricken friends and relatives, at resurrection morn. May we all remember which she was laid to rest in the family burial ground to await the day when we shall meet her on that bright and golden shore where there will be no farewell tears. May the Lord comfort the bereaved ones. Dearest mother, thou hast left us never more your face we can see; but in heaven we hope to meet you. There where parting will never be.

One dear to our hearts is gone. A voice we loved is still. A place vacant in our home. That never can be filled. Written by a loving friend. LILLIAN BUCK.

BILL SLADE IS IN JAIL FOR ASSAULT

Bill Slade is confined in jail here charged with being one of the two darkies who on last Saturday night assaulted and shot Walter Cuthrell, night watchman of the Washington Buggy Company on Hackney avenue with intent to kill, and has been positively identified by Mr. Cuthrell.

Saturday night about seven o'clock Mr. Cuthrell discovered four darkies in the factory in the act of making a get-away with a sack of coal. He called to them to stop and they succeeded in getting away with theirs. Later in the night he saw two darkies coming towards the factory and went out and asked them what they wanted. He drew his gun and they grabbed him and proceeded to beat him over the head with same, and then shot him through the fleshy part of the left arm and ran.

Mr. Cuthrell then went to the home of Mr. L. I. Cadell on Third street and called him out and told him of the occurrence. Mr. Cadell attended to the wounded arm as best he could and had Mr. Cuthrell conveyed to the Washington Hospital where he was given proper attention. The wound did not prove to be dangerous and at this time he is doing nicely. The other darky has not as yet been apprehended.

THE ILL-FATED SUBMARINE IS FULL OF WATER

Honolulu, T. H., April 15.—The superstructure of the submarine F-4 is caved in and the hull is filled with water, from seepage, according to a report made by Chief Gunner's Mate George D. Stillson, who late Wednesday descended to the ocean floor and examined the wreck of the submarine earlier in the day.

Stillson, who made a partial survey of the hull reported that, aside from the damage to the superstructure, he was unable to find other holes and that the top plates were not crushed in. One of the lines used by the searchers in their attempts to locate the F-4 had fouled in the superstructure. Work was to be begun today. It was announced to free the fouled line and to make others fast to the submarine. Two lines are already fast to the wreck.

Neither Crilly, who was underwater two hours, nor Stillson, who was submerged for an hour and a half, suffered ill-effects, although according to official announcement by naval officers, the submarine is lying at a depth of 255 feet.

A board of investigators named Wednesday by Rear Admiral Chas. H. T. Moore, commandant of the Honolulu naval station, made an examination of the submarines F-1, F-2, and F-3, the remaining vessels of the flotilla stationed at Honolulu. The members of the board are Captain Sumner, E. W. Kruehle, Lieutenants Milton S. Davis and Hugh Brown, Captain Charles T. Westcott of Marines, all of the United States reserve navy.

THE DEADLIEST FOE OF GREAT BRITAIN'S IN THE PRESENT WAR

England is face to face with the great problem of dealing with the drink evil. During the past week the whole country has been brought to consider the possibility of absolute prohibition throughout Great Britain until the end of the war.

The statement was made that despite the fact that work was being carried on seven days in the week, the total working time on the average in nearly all the shipyards was actually less than before the war, and the average productivity of workers had decreased.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer replied that the reason why the government had not taken more drastic action on the liquor question was because it needed to be assured that it was backed by public sentiment, otherwise more harm would be done than good.

King George, Earl Kitchener, the War Secretary and all the cabinet ministers in London and many other prominent persons have announced their intention to abstain from alcoholic liquors for the duration of the war.

Britain consumes twice as much alcohol per capita as do Americans. The revenue from alcohol is 40,000,000 pounds ($200,000,000) a year, while the war is costing 60,000,000 pounds ($300,000,000) a month. Treasury officials estimate that they can very well afford to lose the revenue from alcohol if the stopping of its sales will shorten the war.

Earl Grey has suggested that the government should take over all licensed houses in specified districts as it has already taken over the railways and factories, giving the license holders a fair compensation and either closing the houses altogether or administering them on reform principles.

Thus England is facing the problem that Russia so successfully met early in the war, when she put in effect absolute prohibition throughout the country. France has outlawed absolute and Germany has very greatly reduced the manufacture and sale of beer.

Even in Mexico there is demand for prohibition. General Villa at Monterey last week issued a statement in which he tells of his enforcement of orders against the sale of liquor and declares that he would make Mexico a dry country had he the power to do so.

General Villa's statement is as follows: "Mexico will be without liquor when peace comes, if it is in my power. My country is now suffering from the drink traffic and the children of the poor are the sufferers. The president of a nation may not be a drinking man himself, but if he permits his people to indulge in this poison, he is showing himself a weakling. I do not permit my officers or men to use liquor, and I am doing my best to put liquor out of business wherever possible. When my troops reach a town, I order all saloons closed."

The deadly drink evil has thus become an unexpected target of all reforms of the present time. The best results of the terrible attitude of the nations and the liquor traffic? The Philadelphia "Ledger" says editorially that Lloyd George's speech marks a new epoch in the history of the attitude of mankind toward intoxicants; and coming from Great Britain, where the doctrine of personal liberty is almost a fetish, it is the more significant.

country is now suffering from the drink traffic and the children of the poor are the sufferers. The president of a nation may not be a drinking man himself, but if he permits his people to indulge in this poison, he is showing himself a weakling. I do not permit my officers or men to use liquor, and I am doing my best to put liquor out of business wherever possible. When my troops reach a town, I order all saloons closed.
