WASHINGTON NORTH CAROLINA, MAY 12, 1915.

Belhaven is making plans for an agricultural fair. Belhaven is raising money for a Carnegie Library. Washington—

John G. Bragaw, Jr., wrote an interesting statement regarding the Y. M. C. A. proposition, which was published in yesterday's issue of the Daily News. We would like to hear from some of our other prominent residents.

CONGRESSMAN SMALL'S VIEWS.

Congressman John H. Small yesterday expressed his opinion of the Lusitania disaster, which appeared in the Daily News and which aroused considerable interest and discussion on the part of our readers.

It is believed that the sentiment expressed by Congressman Small is the one that will be entertained by practically all thinking people in this country. As he stated, there is no question but that the wanton destruction of life was inhuman and brutal, but at the same time Germany was within her rights in sinking the Lusitania, although she was required by both the laws of war and humanity to give warning to the non-combatants and give them a chance for their lives.

A surge of anti-German sentiment is spreading over the country and the feeling against the warring Teutons is becoming extremely bitter. Should another disaster of the Lusitania variety take place, it is believed that the calm heads who are holding the reins in Washington will have a hard time keeping this country out of the struggle. The people will not stand much more and if Germany realizes the state of affairs here she will be exceedingly careful in her indiscriminate destruction of vessels and lives.

Give the clerks a holiday on the 20th and let them join the fun at Washington Park. Everyone is going to be there in the afternoon.

"Husbands are a good bit like exuses," says the Philosophical Spinster. "A poor one is better than none."

Neutrality proves that anyone can get into a fight, but sometimes it takes a lot of courage to keep out of one.

Even the spender may realize that it is better to be a moral tightwad than to squander a good reputation.

"It's easy enough to love your neighbor," says the Surbarban Sage "if he doesn't keep the chickens and you have no flower bed."

Sillious—"I don't believe in contradicting a woman." Cynicus—"Neither do I. Give her time enough and she will contradict her self."

Some people are never satisfied. They go South for the winter when they know very well they can get twice as much winter in the North.

When a fellow removes the cigars from his waistcoat pocket before embracing his sweetheart she may be justified in her suspicions that she is not the only girl he has ever loved.

Childish Retaliation. It has been rather cruelly said that a child's love of endlessly dressing head and face washing and otherwise beautifying her doll, comes from a desire to inflict on something else the corporal discipline which she herself receives from her nurse as she sternly laborable fate. No matter how hard she doesn't depend on life for its effectiveness, and we are all human.

Revised the Petition. Instead of forever praying for things that would be of doubtful benefit to us, how much better it would be to repeat, from day to day, this simple sentence of gratitude: "Thank you, God, that we can help those who are down."—Tulsa Blade.

Triumph of Mutes. It was but the other day when the triumph of the deaf and dumb faced me. It was a ship yard starting from Southampton to Canada. You know, the unheard shouts during the last hour from the shore. There were two deaf and dumb, talking quietly with their fingers to the brother or loved, who could reply. They were the only three that could talk freely among the unheard tumult.—London Chronicle.

Men's Inhumanity. "The men are always prating about men's inhumanity to man," observed Mrs. Cobb. "What have they to complain about?" "Plenty," growled Mr. Dabb. "Right out of every ten married men, nine are around trying to get along into trouble by advising their wife to get married."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Evidence. Professor—"You have a wonderful talent for painting." Muriel—"Dear me, professor, how interesting; how can you tell?" Professor—"I see it in your face."—Judge.

Georgia's Reward. Mrs. Brown Wright—"Gracie, why isn't your brother George at our party, too?" Gracie—"George's been a good boy all week, and mamma said he needs to come."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Choose the Chief Expert. Some Switzerland exports a much higher value in Swiss cheese than in Swiss turned.

Auto Party In Accident

Belhaven, N. C., May 12.—An automobile party consisting of Mr. Samuel Page of Jacksonville, Hyde county, and two of his friends en route to Washington Saturday night when near the town of Pantego had their machine to get from under their control, the result being that it turned turtle. Not only was the car damaged to the amount of about $75 but all three of the riders were more or less injured. Dr. E. S. Crede of Pantego, was summoned and rendered the necessary medical aid. A phone message was received here for aid and Messrs. William Sawyer and H. R. Paul promptly responded. These gentlemen doctored the car, which was a Ford, while Dr. Crede doctored the riders. Within a short while after the accident the damaged car was brought to Belhaven and soon put in shape for the completion of the journey. The occupants of the car had a narrow escape from serious injury.
