21,000 BBLs. OF POTATOES IN 3 DAYS

ALL RECORDS OF SHIPMENTS IN BEAUFORT ARE BEING BROKEN. 174 CARLOADS

65 Carloads Shipped Yesterday. Record Season for Farmers of the County is Expected.

Record shipments of potatoes are being made from districts in Beaufort county through Washington to northern markets. The A. C. L. dock is one of the busiest places in the city these days and hundreds of barrels may be seen there as they are loaded into the freight cars. Indications are that the farmers of Beaufort county are going to have the most successful potato season that they have ever enjoyed.

Sixty-five cars of potatoes were shipped out yesterday, 57 the day before, and 52 on Tuesday. This makes a total of approximately 21,000 barrels that passed through Washington in the last three days, representing about $37,000 in money.

Most of the potatoes were shipped to Washington over the Washington & Vandemeer Railroad.

The market price yesterday was $1.75. Today it is $1.50.

HAWKINS NOTES.

We had been intending for some time to say some nice things about the Daily News but Rev. Mr. Broom and others were ahead of us, so we are hoping it will continue to improve daily.

Sunday School at this place is still growing. One of the things that appeals to all young people, the annual picnic, was discussed Sunday last. It was decided not to have the picnic June 13, as was first agreed upon, but to wait until later in the season when there would be more leisure hours.

Invitations are out announcing the marriage of Mr. James E. Woodard and Miss Cora Baynor Wednesday night, June 16th. Thus another tune bride goes to the altar.

Our farmers are very busy now. They are growing tobacco and cotton again this year and trusting the prices will be good. We cannot help but hope that they will not be disappointed.

GOOD-ROADS "CYCLONE" SWEEPS OVER COUNTY; AGITATION IS GENERAL

100-Per Cent Mystery Remains Same

No Change in Situation. Liquor Still Remains at Police Headquarters.

No change has taken place in the "100-per cent mystery" in the last 24 hours. The trunk of liquor still reposes in police headquarters and no claimant has made his appearance, in spite of the fact that the trunk contains about $100 worth of liquor.

Jim Snort—you all know Jim—he's a regular son-of-a-gun when it comes to writing poetry—composed the following conglomeration while in a trance yesterday afternoon. It goes to the accompaniment of soft music and unravels as follows: The Hundred Pint Mystery. (By James Snort)

'Twas a beautiful night in the month of June, That marked the close of a lovely day, And the roses smiled at the silver moon, And bluebed and bowed in his soft white ray.

The dredging-traps and the chug-chug boats, Were lulled to sleep on the waters calm, While musical cats and billy goats, Enjoyed the chorus of a nightly psalm.

There was no gulle in the hearts of men, As they closed their eyes for a night's repose— Like peaceful-bears in a cozy den, With six mosquitoes on every nose.

But, alas! the stillness of the night Was broken by the sound of the Norfolk train, And two policemen came in sight To take a look at "Lusty Jane."

And as no hoboes were in sight, The "coppers" went to the baggage room, To see if everything looked right, And catch a whiff of each perfume.

At last the scent of "monkey rum" Came briskly floating on the breeze, As if some man were drinking some Out on the lawn among the trees.

The "cop" could not mistake the smell, As he "had been there" years before; No mortal man could fool him well With all-confusing scents galore.

And now some trunks were rolled inside, And yet another trunk they saw, The smell still swelling on the tide, Good evidence of broken law!

And now they opened wide the trunks, Their goodly contents to survey; And there, instead of usual junk, They found the longings of the day.

One "copper" raised his tearful eyes And with a sigh, looked heavenward, The other said, "Tho' in disguise, I'll bet my soul it's awful good."

And then a little toast was said, The same, we offer here again; And as you bow a solemn head, We hope from laughing you refrain.

The Toast: "Now in this tranquil hour of night, As the moon shines down but dim, And faintly smiles on the rose-bush bower,

As the rose-bud smiles at him, We hold right here in sacred trust, The blessed cream of this fair land, 'Were we not 'cops' right here we'd 'bust'!

We'd drink this booze to beat the band. But as it is, my dear old chum, We will not take a single drop; Of course we would be "going some,"

But booze won't mix with any "cop."

SAYS BARRR.

A painter's brush certainly could improve the looks of many homes in Washington. It will make the property last longer, as well as enhance in value. Now if any painter wants to pay for this add let him send his family down to BAKER'S STUDIO.

Interest in Movement is at Fever Heat. Many Meetings Are to be Held.

AURORA ESPECIALLY ACTIVE

Delegation From That City Will Meet With Commissioners of Craven County. Meeting to Be Held in Chocowinity, Washington and Other Places.

Interest in the "good roads" movement in Beaufort county is increasing daily. All parts of the county are joining in the general clamor for better roads. A number of meetings have already been held in the rural districts. Others are planned for the near future. Never has there been a greater agitation for the improvement of the highways in this section.

Reports from Aurora state that a series of meetings are being planned by the residents of that city. One will be held in Aurora in the next few days. Another will be held at Blounts Creek. Meetings will also be held at Clay Bottom, Chocowinity and other points along the route from Aurora to Washington. A delegation from Aurora will meet with the commissioners of Craven county in order to interest that body in improving the roads leading out of Aurora, as the residents of that city have to travel several miles along the same road which leads to both Washington and New Bern. A joint committee from Washington and Aurora will meet with the road commissioners of Chocowinity township in order to enlist the assistance of those men in the movement. Big developments are expected within the next week or two. A general meeting is to be held in Washington to which residents from all parts of the county will be invited.

"No trouble to raise funds here. Can get the money easily and also lend assistance in the way of providing men and teams to do the work," stated a prominent resident of Aurora this morning over the telephone.

"I am willing to be one of twenty men to give $250 towards the road to Aurora and the one to the Martin county line," declared a leading merchant of the city last night.

"I am willing to do the same," another man, who overheard the remark, "Put me down for $100," stated another.

Good roads are being discussed everywhere. Many of the business men of Washington have stated their willingness of contributing liberally to the work. Farmers in the county have also promised to give financial aid and lend assistance in the way of providing men and teams. Interest is at fever heat. The agitation is general and extends to the most remote parts of the county.

Popular Couple Are Married

Fred Millison and Miss Annie Bridgeman United in Marriage. Left Last Night for Ocracoke.

Fred Millison and Miss Annie Bridgeman were married last night at the home of the bride, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. M. Snipes, pastor of the Methodist church. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Ocracoke, where they will spend their honeymoon.

In few, if in any marriages in Washington, have the contracting parties been as popular as are Mr. and Mrs. Millison. They number their friends by the hundreds in the city and country. They have always enjoyed the respect, esteem and love of all who know them and if the wishes of their many friends will have any effect on their future life, they are bound to be blessed with infinite happiness and prosperity.

Mr. Millison is head of the firm of Millison & Son of this city. His bride is the daughter of Seth Bridgeman. The wedding was a quiet one and attended by only a few intimate friends and relatives.

"ZUDORA HERE TONIGHT AND OTHERS.

Washington, D. The note formally asks Germany to safeguard American lives on American ships. The alternative is not stated. It also repeats the assurance that the Lusitania was unarmed when torpedoed and gives Germany an opportunity to submit any evidence that American officials did not execute the task of inspecting the ship thoroughly. Friendly terms marked the document.

In a statement which was issued last night, ex-Secretary of State William J. Bryan has stated that he will issue another statement today. "An appeal to German-Americans," he terms it.
