WAR CLAIM SETTLED

$4,500 AWARDED TO LOCAL METHODIST AND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES.

$3,600.00 NET

80 Percent of $4,500 Paid for Legal Work. Action is Result of Long Procedure. Money Arrived Yesterday.

The U. S. war department yesterday sent the trustees of the local Presbyterian and Methodist churches $4,500 each in payment for war-time damages inflicted by Union soldiers on the church buildings of this city. The Catholic church, which was also razed during the war, was allowed $5,000 about a month ago.

In speaking of the procedure which it was necessary to go through before the above sums were finally awarded, J. F. Buckman, treasurer of the trustees of the Methodist church, stated this morning that the claim of the churches had been officially entered against the government about five years ago. Steps had been taken before that time to secure reparation for damages, but were unsuccessful. About five years ago a trial was held in this city, in which an official from Washington city represented the government. Among those who gave testimony showing that the destruction of the churches had been through vandalism were Mrs. Polly Cowell and Mrs. Mayo, mother of H. B. Mayo, of this city. Mrs. Cowell testified at the time that she had seen a Union soldier light a bundle of fodder, which started the fire responsible for the destruction of the church.

It was announced some time ago that the government had allowed the claim of the Washington churches, but the money was not received here until yesterday. The Methodist and Presbyterian churches had entered claims for $5,000 each, while the Catholic church had entered a claim for $5,000. Of the $4,500 which was awarded to the first two churches 20 percent commission was paid to the men who had the matter in charge. This leaves a net sum of $3,600 for each of the churches.

BEHAVEN BAFFLED BY BOVINE BOSS

At Least There Were Several of Them and They Caused Trouble.

Elizabeth City, July 9.—A milk-ruminative every-day cow belonging to Mrs. Claudia Spencer, of Pantego, Beaufort county, is at the bottom of a row that has arrayed the communities of Pantego and Behaven against each other, carrying both into court. And the end is not in sight.

A Behaven policeman got a halter on Mrs. Spencer's cow and its possessor, he says. No. It was six cows, instead of a cow, some to think about it. Mrs. Spencer got a warrant from a Pantego justice, for the arrest of Chief of Police J. Mack Paul, of Behaven, and the town of Behaven. The case came to trial and the Pantego justice fined Chief Paul and his town $50. Behaven and its Police Chief look an appeal.

Mrs. Spencer then got out claim and delivery papers and went to Behaven and got her cows. Behaven replied and got the cows back. Behaven then sold the cows to A. Miller, who, by the way, is one of the Behaven town councilmen. Mrs. Spencer got claim and delivery papers and took the cows away from Miller. Miller replied and got the cows away from Mrs. Spencer again. The poor cows are dumfounded and don't know just where they belong.

MAY MAKE A CHANGE IN 'TAUQUA'

REDPATH ASSOCIATION IS BEING CONSIDERED BY THE GUARANTORS.

WELL SPOKEN OF

Shown at Goldsboro This Year. Guarantors of That City Made Profit of Over $800.

Whether to secure the Swarthmore of the Redpath Chautauque association for Washington next year, is a question which is at present being debated by local Chautauque guarantors. It will probably be some time before a decision is arrived at although the matter will be discussed at the meeting of the guarantors Monday night.

The Redpath association has been showing at several cities in the State during the last year and is said to have given the highest satisfaction. They charge $2.50 per season tickets and allow the city a percentage over certain receipts.

A letter has been received by local Chautauque officers from the guarantors at Goldsboro, where the Redpath company showed this year. The letter stated that the company had given excellent programs and had a profit of over $800 had been made by the guarantors, above all expenditures. The Washington guarantors, during the two years that the Chautauque has been held in this city have failed to show a balance on the right side of the ledger.

The programs rendered by both associations are similar in many respects, consisting principally of lectures, hand concerts and musical numbers.

Did Not Sell Intoxicants

Penner Deal, of Aurora, Was Accused of Retailing Non-Spirituous Plum Wine.

(Special Correspondent)

Aurora, N. C., July 9.—It was stated today that the reason why the jury acquitted Penner Deal Monday on the charge of retailing liquor, was because it was proven that he did not sell intoxicating liquors. Mr. Deal, it was found, had been selling plum wine and this, the jury decided, was not intoxicating. There being no other evidence of any violation of the law, the defendant was liberated.

A NEW PAVING PRODUCT.

Concrete-Gravel Being Demonstrated at Kinston.

Kinston, July 9.—A North Carolina paving product is working splendidly on Kinston streets, according to Street Commissioner E. V. Webb. He has experimented with several blocks of "concrete-gravel," a composition something like small rocks, sand and clay. The material is far superior to sand-clay, with which hundreds of miles of West Carolina streets and roads have been paved during the past few years. Mr. Webb says, and is put down at a cost of less than 40 cents a square yard. Municipal authorities in other towns in this section are interested in the demonstration here. Mr. Webb will lay a number of blocks of the concrete-gravel. Chased with oil it is an ideal highway surfacing material, he declares.

Naval Militia Now At Gardner's Bay

Washington Boys Hope to win Silver Trophy For the Best Gun Crew at Target Practice

An interesting communication from one of the members of the Washington naval reserves, was received this morning, detailing the activities of the boys who are on their annual cruise with other divisions of the North Carolina naval militia. The letter, in part, reads as follows:

"We were furnished a tourist car at Washington and went on board it at 1:30 a. m. July 3rd. The New Bern invasion was already getting on the train. At Mackeys Ferry we took a special train and the Belhaven, Hertford and Elizabeth City divisions were picked up at their respective home stations. We arrived at Norfolk at 8:30 that morning.

"The men were immediately taken to the navy tug, where they stowed their hammocks and bags. They were then taken up town and given breakfast. The North Carolina brigade went on board the tug at eleven o'clock under Commander C. L. Morton, Lieutenant Commander Shipp, of New Bern, and Lieutenants Wilson and Rodman. Immediately upon arriving at Hampton Roads the men went on board the Kearsage where they were given their billets. By four o'clock all of the men had learned their stations and we were under way.

"As soon as we were out of Hampton Roads, the naval militia officer went on as officers of the deck. We headed north for Gardner's Bay, where target practice will be held. "The North Carolina men have from the forecabin to the quarter to mess and mess. Lieutenant Buys of Belhaven has the first and third divisions. With him as junior officer are Lieutenant Poppendiek of Elizabeth City, and Ensign Camp of Hertford. Lieutenant Brinn has the port side of the ship, with the second and fourth divisions. His junior officers are Lieutenant Symner and Ensign Small.

"Yesterday being Sunday, all hands were not called until six o'clock. The men immediately began cleaning ship. After breakfast they were called to quarters, when an inspection was made by Captain Christy and Commanders Lomp and Norton. Mr. Lomp is commander of the District of Columbia brigade. "All of the quartermasters and signalmen were then put to work giving signals. Among them from Washington were Lanier, Bonner and Swain. Pat Foreman is in charge of the engineering section, which includes the men from Washington to be with him Henderson, Lincoln, Hobbs, Sawyer and Bridges, he latter being assistant at the dynamo; Garies and Meekins, who are in the radio room, and G. Harris and J. Harris.

"Whitley and Gardner, in addition to their duties as boatswain mates, act as pullmen for the two tug crews, which we are counting on winning for Washington the silver trophy offered by the navy department for the best gun crew. "Claude Wynne and Joe Warren, as gunners' mates, are in the 12-in.

Local Farmer Lost $1,044.23

Interesting Account of Value of Keeping Money in Circulation. Kept $200 in Hiding for 40 Years.

A resident of Beaufort county recently purchased a piece of property, paying for it with $200 in gold, which, it was learned, had been in his possession for forty years. The man to whom he paid the money, deposited it in the Savings & Trust Co. and mentioned how he secured it. Upon request, J. B. Sparrow, cashier of the bank, was asked to figure out how much this amount would have been increased, had the original owner of the money placed it in the bank and allowed the interest to be compounded. The following letter was received from Mr. Sparrow on this subject this morning:

"The facts are these: A short time ago a gentleman, making a deposit at this bank, handed in two hundred dollars in gold, remarking that he had sold a piece of property and the purchaser told him he had had that gold for forty years, which in another forty years ago he had away two hundred dollars in gold, which during all those years had not yielded him one cent of revenue. It has neither costed anything of benefit to the community life, and has all that time been subject to loss by fire and burglary. He had his seed—so to speak—but where was the harvest?"

Now suppose he had placed that two hundred dollars in a well managed bank, where fire and burglar proof protection would have kept it absolutely safe, and in addition, would have been covered by insurance at no cost to the depositor. Drawing interest at four percent and compounded quarterly, at the end of forty years, he would have had to his credit in the bank, $1,344.23—or just $1,044.23 more than he had when he drew the two hundred dollars in gold from its hiding place.

These figures are the result of a careful calculation, and show on the statement exactly as they would appear on the savings ledgers of this bank, from the time the original deposit was made.

Idle money is useless, and you can do your paper and your people better service than to encourage savings and the keeping of every dollar at work. I will gladly cooperate with you in a campaign for thrift.

Very truly yours,
JOHN B. SPARROW,
Cashier Savings & Trust Co.

HOLT BURIAL AT DALLAS

Mother of His Children—Faithful to the End.

Dallas, Tex., July 9.—The body of Frank Holt will be buried here, it was announced today, because the woman he married five years ago in Texas "cannot bear to think of her husband lying in a distant grave."

"My daughter first yielded to your wishes that the burial be in Ithaca, N. Y., so she might be spared the ordeal of the funeral," said Mrs. Holt's father, the Rev. O. F. Senebaugh, in making the announcement today, "but later she insisted on Frank being buried here, where she expects to make her home."
