JAMES L. MATO, Proprietor. CARL GOEBEL, Editor.

WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA, JULY 30, 1915.

'Greenville needs hospital,' says a headline in the Greenville Reflector. Editor Biggs evidently fears that some of the editors of other newspapers in this section of the State are going to follow up their recent remarks against him with personal attacks.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION.

Anti-saloon enthusiasts, who recently held a convention at Atlantic City, declared that national prohibition would be in effect in this country by 1920. It is hardly possible that prohibition advocates will be able to work this miracle in five year's time, but granting that they can, there are a number of problems which this country will have to face and the people will have to contend with.

The United States government realizes millions of dollars in revenue from liquor dealers. Many thousands of people are employed in breweries and distilleries. Their families are dependent upon them for existence. If the lid is clamped down upon the liquor business, something must be done to make up the deficit in revenue that will follow; something must be done to provide employment for the men who will be thrown out of work and something must be done for their families.

Many other lines of business are dependent upon the liquor business—manufacturers of wagons, barrels, bottles and other accessories that the business demands; farmers, glass factories, automobile manufacturers, etc. All of them supply the liquor men with material which the latter require. There is no question but that some of them will suffer when this source of revenue is cut off.

Up to now, prohibition has not been declared in any of the States in which there are large breweries or distilleries. As a result, it is largely only the saloon keepers who have been affected. But with prohibition in effect in Wisconsin, Missouri and other northern and western States, a serious problem is presented.

There is no question but that the country as a whole would be better off without the liquor business. Every thinking and moral man realizes that. But in the meantime, some steps should be taken in order to alleviate the blow that will fall upon thousands—yes, millions—of men, when national prohibition goes into effect.

Our attention has been called to the fact that some of the residents of the city, who have peas or corn for dinner, appear to be desirous of advertising the fact by throwing the shucks out in the street. It has been suggested that this practice be discontinued until the city can afford more rubbish wagons so that every street may be cleaned up daily. In the meantime, it would be well to use barrels as receptacles for the shucks.

It is reported that Henry Ford is considering locating a new assembling plant in North Carolina. Raleigh, Charlotte and New Bern are beginning to stir up things. Washington—well, all we can say for Washington is that it is located on the Pamlico.

All of our contemporaries are hereby notified that the request for suggestions as to appropriate slogans for Washington is hereby withdrawn. The Greenville Reflector committed the final outrage by hinting that 'Wallow in Washington' would make an excellent slogan for us to use.

WHO PAYS THE BILL?

The big war in Europe is costing millions of dollars a day to keep up. Additional millions are being spent by the various countries in securing more guns and ammunition. Germany is declared to be in a state verging upon bankruptcy. Russian finances are also declared to be low. England is raising more money through special taxation. Austria has almost reached the bottom of her coffers. The other countries are also beginning to impose heavy taxes upon the people in the effort to keep their armies at the front. Even if the war should come to an end tomorrow, there would be a grave financial problem for the warring countries to contend with.

But there are no indications that peace will be declared at any time in the near future. In the meantime, the stupendous cost goes on.

Who is going to pay the bill? Will the United States be forced to make gigantic loans in order to aid the European countries out of their difficulties? Will the American people be made to suffer for the slaughter that is going on now? Will we be besieged with vast hordes of poverty-stricken immigrants who are unable to bear the heavy burden of taxation in their own countries and who come to the United States for relief? What is the answer?

A prominent figure in financial circles is recently quoted to have said that the whole world would go bankrupt if the war lasted for three years longer.

The Interstate Cooperaage Company plant in Belhaven recently suspended operations. Our correspondent who resides at that city informed us that about 750 men had been thrown out of employment. A day or two later, we noticed that some of the other papers in the State has raised this figure to 800 and 900. Yesterday the Virginian Pilot gravely declares that 1,500 men are now idle at Belhaven.

NOTICE. I have this day called as administrator of the estate of Sarah E. Harding below the clerk of the Superior court. All persons holding claims against said estate are requested to present them to me, duly verified within two months from this date.

Lay-to for a spell and swing on this:

You'll start an old-pal-party via a pipe or a makin's cigarette quick as a flash, as soon as you realize it's a live bet to let your good money rub up against some Prince Albert tobacco. Why it's like beating back to the bushes for old-home week, P. A.'s so friendly, so chummy-like.

You see, Prince Albert lets you hear the song of the joy us jimmy pipe and the makin's cigarette all the day long! The patented process takes care of that—and cuts out the bite and parch!

PRINCE ALBERT the national joy smoke

Just hands you home-made questions like these:

Were you ever pipe-happy? Did you ever hit a brand that just pushed pleasure against your palate? The kind that sort of teased your smokeappetite for some more fire-up, then another—and so on right to the pillow-period!

Well, that's P. A. no matter how you hook it up—pipe or cigarette. It just jams joy into your system! You nail that fact hot off the bat, because it's case-cards information! And handed out to you for personal and immediate attention as being about as real and true as you've heard since Hector was a pup!

P. A. is sold in the tippy red bag for the price of a jitney ride, 5c; tidy red tin, 10c; pound and half-pound tin humidors—and the classy pound crystal-glass humidior with the sponge-moistener top—that's not only a joy us thing to have at home and at the office, but it keeps P. A. in the highest state of perfection.

LETTER CARRIER IS ARRESTED

Kinston, N. C., July 30.—F. A. Jones, a former rural mail carrier residing in Duplin county, is under $200 bond for his appearance at the Federal Court in New Bern on the charge of robbing the mails. Jones is alleged to have appropriated jewelry, candy and other articles for his own use. A mail sack was fished up by a small boy angling in a stream on Jones' route, which contained some matter that had been entrusted to his charge.

BRINGS DAIRY TO YOUR DOOR

Lorain, O., July 30.—Milk direct from the cow to the kitchen, with all the lost motions eliminated, is the chief feature of a dairy operated here by Julius Binder. With the permission of the city board of health, Binder drives a Jersey cow about the city, milking her at the door of his customers, according to their needs. Binder was required by the city to wear a white suit, a bell on his cow, and to keep his dairy at all times in a sanitary condition.

KINSTON WANTS TO BE A PORT

Kinston, N. C., July 29.—Local business interests are participating—not dreaming of—the making of this city North Carolina's farthest inland port. The Chamber of Commerce is making elaborate investigations of old records and compiling facts and figures, as argument to the government in favor of the improvement of Neuse river. That an eight-foot channel will be had within the next few years is not doubted.

THE STIEFF

Tone A Quality Tone From every standpoint of tonal values the Stieff tone is a quality tone. Throughout the entire range of the instrument there is an evenness, a velvety smoothness that speaks the work of a master hand. Stieff tone is a rare combination of unlimited volume and sympathetic singing quality. Stieff tone is evidenced the imagination to conceive and the skill to produce an instrument of extraordinary quality. Chas. M. Stieff Leon S. Steele, Mgr. 211 Gray St. Phone 1102. Norfolk, Va.
