SNEEZERS MEET IN WAYNESVILLE

Waynesville, N. C., Aug. 7.—North Carolina this year for the first time in several decades will witness a convention of "sneezers," the name to be a large body of those unfortunate who go through the latter portion of the summer in a state of tears and sneezes as a result of hay fever. On the summit of Mount Jamblyka, 5,000 feet above sea level, is the place, and August 27 is the opening date.

North Carolina through the possession of this unique record this year is proclaimed one of the five places in the United States where hay fever sufferers may be said to get their "kick" but immunity from their burden.

The strange boyhood, with the marriage proviso, was made by his uncle, Charles D. Schuster, of New York City. CITY BUYS A PULMOTER

Rocky Mount, N. C., Aug. 7.—With the effective operation of a paying basis of the first municipally owned gas plant in the State, which has been bought about within six months by the aldermen of the city, Rocky Mount, it was unanimously voted that the safeguard of a pulmotor for carrying in respirating persons who might be overcome with gas fumes be purchased. In this step Rocky Mount paves the way for the following equipment, which will be provided for the active use of the firemen, and gas and electrical departments of the city, or in fact, for those occasions and when a respiration of breathing might save a life.
