THIS DOG CATCHES FISH Water Spaniel Supplies the Needs of Owner and Neighbors in Indiana.

Aurora, Ind.—James C. Duggins, a farmer, who lives on the Loughery Creek, has a water spaniel that is noted along the stream for its method of catching fish. The dog has caught several hundred pounds during the last few months for his owner and his neighbors.

AT 91 LIKES HARVESTING Kansas Man Rides on the Rods to Reach Farm Job From Lead Him.

Wishita, Kan.—Peter Coughlin is hard at work in the harvest field, despite his ninety-one years, and likes it. He so wrote to W. M. Woods, superintendent of the Sedgewick County Home here, after reaching Great Bend where a job had been promised him.

Coughlin has a son in Tonkawa, Okla., but refuses to accept aid from him. The old man assumed the name of Joseph Munson to save his relatives from humiliation.

A week ago he went from here to Great Bend on the "rods" of a Missouri Pacific freight.

Tramp Told Heavily. Veiga, E. D.—William Corcoran, a local market gardener, hired a tramp to cut the weeds and grass around his plot of ground yesterday while Corcoran gave his attention to duties elsewhere. When he returned he found that the tramp, in an excess of zeal, had cut down not only the grass and weeds, but also the potato plants, thus destroying the crop.

"Vanderbilt." The name of Vanderbilt has gradually been constructed from three words laid down. At James, the earliest of Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt's ancestors to emigrate from Holland to America, used to spell his surname Van Der Bilt, and so did each of his eleven children. Cornelius, his grandson, and the founder of the family wealth, at ways wrote his name Van Derbilt, but expressed a wish that his children should write it as one word. His eldest son compromised between his father's custom and his expressed wish by leaving a space after the first syllable—"Van Derbilt." On old Cornelius' death the name is designated "Vanderbilt," but on the gorgeous mansion built for Cornelius II it appears as "Vanderbilt."

OLD JAIL AT PORT-AU-PRINCE

This is the antiquated jail at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, from which a large number of political prisoners were taken, blind and shot by order of President Guillaume Sam, who was assassinated immediately afterward.

NEW ARMY IS FIT SUGGESTS NEW CALENDAR

French People Are Well Pleased With "Keecheenaires"

By FREDERICK PALMER. (International News Service.) British Headquarters, France.—The "Keecheenaires," as the French peasants call the new army, have joined "Tommee Akoons," the regular, and the "Teretoreals" at the front. Tommee begins to feel like the oldest inhabitant. By the way, he does not like to be called "Tommy," though the world persists in a word which is as objectionable to him as "Jacky" is to the American Bluejacket. The British regular did all the fighting for the first five months of the war. He had his jokes at the expense of the Territorials, who are about the same as our National Guard, when they arrived. The Territorials thought that they were made soldiers when the war broke out; but they were drilled some more and set to digging reserve trenches behind the line. In the spring they had their turn, and the Canadians, too.

"Don't be downhearted! There are still some Boches left!" the Territorials join the regulars in saying to the new army. Beside the new army the Territorials feel like G. A. R. men.

"It's kind of you! We knew that you could have killed them all off, if you had wanted to," the Kitcheners reply.

"Don't charge too fast! Wait for us to catch up!" call the regulars.

"We'll wait on the Rhine!" answer the new army.

Well named is the new army. It has brought a new element into life at the front. When I heard the tramp of a company past my window the other morning I guessed they were new army men by the peculiar vigor and precision of their tread on the pavement. They bore the stamp of long route marches over English roads and of the merciless formal training of the drill ground.

If the average old-timer of the trenches had to run five miles against the average new army man he would be blown half away and the new army man would trot past the goal an easy winner.

The other night when one heard some soldiers billeted in a barn singing one was certain without asking that they were new army men.

The British regular rarely sings in camp or on the march. Neither elated or depressed he plugs along doing his day's work. As the new army downs it he will be outnumbered but unchanged.

Those new army men were singing "God Save the King" before they lay down in the straw for the night in the land of France which was all so new and strange to them and so commonplace to the veterans. Their fresh young voices were pleasant to the ear.

"It is good. The Keecheenaires sing and whistle as they march," say the French peasants.

Everyone hopes they will keep on singing.

If there is any ornament which is obsolete at the front it is the sword. The sword is the officer's symbol of authority; the sign that he is on duty. In place of it the officer at the front wears his sword belt. His sword along with countless other swords has been checked outside the cloakroom of war along with his umbrella which no one thinks of carrying at the front.

You cannot tell him from the other officers except by his eagerness and his battalion insignia.

For ten months the new army had waited for its Mecca. Its soldiers have read all about the effects of modern shell fire. They know what they are in for. Learning, they came among experts expecting to be assigned a great deal as novices by the old hands, and except for the veteran regular's little jokes at their expense they have had found everybody very kind.

"We need you—and there can't be too many of you," say the old-timers. "It's you who must finish the job which we have begun."

There are men in this new army who have incomes of ten thousands a year digging trenches beside a man who had not a shilling when he enlisted. University graduates taking their baptism of shell fire as privates who "put up" with men who can hardly read and write.

"We like the Keecheenaires," said a Frenchman. "Cover up all classes shoulder to shoulder the same as in our army. Rich or poor, a man is nothing except the life he can give for his country."

NEW ARMY IS FIT SUGGESTS NEW CALENDAR

New York, Sept. 6.—A new calendar with thirteen months in the year and requiring all persons born after the 28th of each month to find another birthday, is proposed by the Rev. H. P. Hames, who preached yesterday at All Angels' Church in West, Eighty-first street.

Mr. Hames' calendar is unique. He adds another month to the year and calls it "Holiday" for lack of a better name. In the new scheme of things each month of the year contains twenty-eight days.

Each month begins on Sunday and ends with a Saturday. This arrangement provides one extra day in the year and this day or these two days in a leap year would be added to December and both be made holidays.

The calendar provides that all holidays shall fall on Monday and that Easter shall be a stationary feast on the third Sunday in April.

Mr. Hames came to the United States twelve years ago from England. He was ordained a year and a half ago and came to New York in September.

WAS SEA SICK, LOST HIS MONEY

Norfolk, Sept. 6.—Cynic affirm that the mighty dollar is the controlling power of the universe, and that a man will look out for that when he has lost interest in other things less material. Yet under stress of certain circumstances, a man loses interest even in the currency of the realm. Sea-sickness is calculated upon to cause a man to lose intense interest in everything except a billeted passing out. While under a severe attack of sea-sickness on board the Old Dominion steamer, Madison, Friday afternoon on route from New York to Norfolk, Ernest Austin, a middle-aged white man, so far lost interest in his own affairs as to entrust his suitcase, containing all the money he had with him, to a stranger. When he recovered from his attack of mal de mere somewhere between Old Point and Norfolk the stranger had disappeared, and so had Austin's suitcase, and incidentally his money.

NEWS FROM NEARBY CITIES

A tiny black maid made a heroine of herself at Cape Lookout when she saw the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Springle fall overboard, into deep water. The maid, only eight or ten years old, immediately went after the child, although she could not swim. Both were rescued.

The Salvation Army is caring for young Nathan Watson, the son of Mrs. Rosa Watson, a New Born woman, accidentally killed this week by the discharge of a gun she had set for chicken thieves. The boy was suffering with fever when his mother was killed.

Greenville's Board of Aldermen has determined upon the compulsory installation of sanitary plumbing in every home and place of business within the corporate limits.

The little daughter of Riley Lawrence, at Otway, bitten by a rattlesnake, had a narrow escape from death. She will recover.

Twenty New Bern youths will be at the University of North Carolina this fall.

AIRSHIPS HAVE BEEN SEEN FLYING OVER JONES COUNTY

(By Eastern Press) New Bern, Sept. 6.—The citizens of Pollockville, Jones County, and that immediate vicinity are very much worked up over the visit to that section on two nights during the past week of two airships which were presumably of a very powerful type. During the first part of the week there was a report current that these ships had been seen but as only one man claimed to have seen them, but little credence was placed in the story.

Thursday night, however, five persons saw the big air craft as they sailed over the town. Among this quintette who saw the ships were William Coston and Alex McDaniel who were out on a raft and Grover Williams and Jack Rhodes who were on land. According to the statements made by these gentlemen the airships first came in view between 11 and 12 o'clock.

COPPER AS HARD AS STEEL

Maine Blacksmith Claims to Have Discovered Centuries' Lost Art of Tempering Copper.

Milbridge, Me.—James Walter Foss, the village blacksmith, sixty-seven years old, says he has discovered the centuries' lost art of tempering copper. He shows copper knives that will whittle long shavings from a hickory wagon spoke, and a copper draw shave that slices the knots in the toughest ash hoop pole. He cuts a mortise in an oak heart plank with a copper chisel and he has a copper razor which the village barber says is about the slickest tool he ever handled.

These tools were forged of discarded soldering coppers from the sardine cannery, bits of copper wire and an old copper kettle. They may be ground, whetted or honed like steel. Foss says he can make a copper file, or a copper hand saw, or anything with a cutting edge and of any degree of hardness.

He says that he hopes to get enough out of his discovery to spend his last days without work and then the world is welcome to it. He is sixty-seven years old and thinks he has worked long enough, but until he made his discovery it looked like years more of labor for him.

STAND ON ANCIENT RIGHTS

Northwestern Indians Insist on Fishing Without Licenses According to Old Treaty.

Bellingham, Wash.—Attorney-General W. V. Tanner came here to confer with County Attorney W. P. Brown relative to issuing informations for the arrest of Indians for alleged illegal fishing. County Attorney Brown having declined to issue informations recently for the arrest of five Lummi men, had been picked up by a deputy State fish commissioner. Mr. Tanner was advised that until cases now in the courts are settled one way or the other no more informations will be filed.

The Indians are defending their stand under the treaty of Territorial days, giving them the right to fish when and how they please on ancient and accustomed fishing grounds. The fish commissioner is attempting to compel the Indians to take out licenses.

MOUNTAIN LIONS ARE SCARCE

Huntmen in Northern Counties of California Have Practically Terminated the Breed.

Sacramento, Cal.—Reports to the state comptroller indicate that the huntmen of the northern counties of the state have practically exterminated the mountain lions. Last month only four mountain lions were killed in California, as against close upon 200 for the same period a decade ago.

Three of the four were killed in the southern counties—one each in Los Angeles, Tulare and Kern, the fourth one being killed in Humboldt county. The bounty paid for the pelts by the state was $50 for June.

Indications are that efforts of stock raisers during the past quarter of a century have resulted in the practical extinction of the animal. Bounties have been paid upon 22,000 mountain lions in the past 25 years.
