And in a Hurry.
A Chicago doctor says it is possible to know when a person is telling lies by feeling the speaker's pulse. Detectives, press agents, fishermen and vice others should take to wearing wristlets.

Scene From the Great Book Play, "The Winning of Barbara Worth."

We have been told that the public is being weaned away from the regular theatre. That vaudeville and moving pictures are supplanting the spoken drama. There is no gainsaying the fact that for the past three years inferior plays, especially those dealing with forbidden topics, also so-called "musical comedies" with cheap, tawdry costumes and poor equipment have had hard sledding, and at present, that sort of entertainment is practically obsolete. But the love for that which is good and wholesome in the spoken drama did not die and never will. The wonderful success of "The Winning of Barbara Worth," Mark E. Swan's dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's bright, breezy story is an example of the survival of the fittest. Not in recent years has a play met with such instantaneous success. Admitting that the tremendous sales and great popularity of the book is the principal factor in attracting such crowds to the box office, there is also that intangible something in the title of the play with its suggestion of a strong love interest, too. Gertrude Barker plays

Barbara. She is winsome and attractive, not merely pretty. The supporting company, headed by Theodore Hardy, is one of the strongest on the road. The scenery is all that it should be. The opening scene, La Palma de la Mans de Dios, (The Hollow of God's Hand) is a marvel of stage realism. The sand storm, which closes the prologue is a triumph of mechanical skill. "The Winning of Barbara Worth" comes to the New Theatre tonight with the strongest endorsement, and a delightful treat is in store for all. Indications point to a packed house, for seldom has an attraction been better advertised.

Lawyers Still Use Quill Pens.
The quill pen is not quite extinct in London. The legal profession, which is very conservative, clings to it tenaciously, and none of the courts could be completely equipped without a plentiful supply of good goose quills. Have you noticed what an indispensable accessory the quill is to counsel, whether in ostentatiously taking a note, making a speech, or in helping a point a warning finger at a foe?

NEWS FROM PUNGO.

We were glad to have a good heavy shower Sunday afternoon and hope it destroyed some of the mosquitoes that have been worrying us for some days.

Miss Matilda Paul returned Monday from Columbia where she has been visiting friends.

Misses Lucy Harris and Rena Smithwick are visiting friends and relatives at Pinetown for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Paul, R. W. and Luther Paul spent Sunday with friends and relatives at Mt. Olive, Hyde county.

Miss Ruth Allen, of this place, was married last Wednesday night to Mr. W. G. Craft, of Kinston. They left Thursday for City Point, Va., where they expect to make their home.

Rev. J. R. Smith, of Kinston, N. C., preached for us a few nights last week, also Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS DISCUSS PLANS

Good Meeting Held at the Church Last Night.

A well-attended and enthusiastic business meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the Baraca class of the Methodist church.

Practically the entire time of the meeting was consumed in discussing plans for fall and winter work, during which time it is expected that this department of the church will prove to be an able auxiliary towards the general uplift work of the church at large. A number of plans were mentioned and discussed which, when formulated and put into effect, will be the means of a very successful work through this very important channel.

The next meeting will be held at the parsonage Tuesday night, Oct. 6th. It is expected that every member will be present at that time to make further suggestions and familiarize themselves with the plans already outlined.

Good Tobacco Is High

HIGHEST PRICES OF THE YEAR

$50, $40, $30

Gentlemen: Prices on our market took a big jump on Wednesday of last week, and have continued to advance every day since, and yesterday and today prices on good color tobacco are extremely high.

The common grades of first pullings are not as high as they were on the opening, and the short burnt tips are not high, and we look for no advance in them, but the better tobaccos are selling to please anyone.

Our market has all the buyers from the five big concerns and all the independent orders are represented here, therefore we know we can offer you every inducement to come to our house and to Washington to sell your tobacco. With the finest lighted house in this state to show your tobacco, and make it look to the best advantage we feel certain we can please you and send you home drumming and pleased with our work and prices. We do not play any favorites, but get every cent we can for every man's tobacco.

Wrappers are high, and farmers who grade tobacco should be very careful to get them out. They will bring high prices on my floor. As I have said above prices on tobacco with color and free from green are higher than they have been for the past two years right on my floor. Some prices made today and yesterday: A. D. Bennett, $9, $12.50, $14.25, $16.50, $18, $20, $30. C. F. Row, $7.50, $9.75, $10.50, $12.50, $13.25, $14, $15.50, $18.50, $40. H. E. Wallace, $7.25, $8, $11, $16, $20. Harmon Robinson, $12, $12.50, $14.50, $16, $16.50, $17, $20, $24. Alonzo Robinson, $10.25, $15, $20. Jno. H. Griffin, $8, $8.75, $12.50, $15.50. Jas. A. Robinson, $7.75, $9.50, $10.50, $11.11, $14, $14.25, $16.16. Butler & Rumley, $7.25, $10.25, $11.25, $14.50, $15.50, $19.50. A. C. Coaltrain, $8.75, $12, $15.50.

Come to see us, and we will work hard for you.

Yours truly,
