FAMES L. MAYO Proprietor, CARL GOERCH Editor.

WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA, NOV. 11, 1915.

Here's where we've got to do some hustling. It's only ten minutes until train time and then we're off to the big fair in Aurora.

Some of our brother scribers can find out more facts about us than we know ourselves. Here's a gem that came from a recent edition of the Kinston Free-Press:

Carl Goerch, who was raised up amongst multimillionaires, never expects to be rich. He is a newspaperman. Goerch's parents, at Tarrytown, N. Y., have for neighbors, Mrs. Shephard, who was Miss Helen Gould, and John D. Rockefeller, who, incidentally, will never go back to Cleveland, O., where his "official" residence used to be, because he is "sore" on the tax collectors.

WAR AND CHRISTIANITY.

Mr. Bryan finds President Wilson's national defense programme "a challenge to the spirit of Christianity."

In all his speculations on the subject of war and peace Mr. Bryan is guided by the assumption that all war is un-Christian and all peace Christian.

It may be doubted whether all peace—even the kind of peace which Mr. Bryan has in mind—lies in an essentially Christian direction. What pacifists mean by peace is a thing about which there is no very great clearness.

It would be a kind of peace which would offer to the spirit of Christianity a still more unmistakable challenge than President Wilson's plan for increasing our military force.

But assume that Mr. Bryan knows what he meant by peace, and that the peace in question lies in a Christian direction. Will such peace be promoted by this country disarming? If all nations were to disarm and to begin simultaneously the practice of Christian ethics the policy of disarmament might be practicable.

But Mr. Bryan's proposal is that this country expose itself to the armed force of a world in which no such foundation of Christian morality really exists.

To follow counsels of this kind might lead to national humiliation and disaster, but hardly, as things now stand, to anything like Christianity. Mr. Bryan's programme would not promote the general interests of Christianity; and they would certainly not promote the interests of this country.—New York Mail.

FIRST WEEK OF ILLITERACY ELIMINATION.

The first week of the illiteracy campaign, which is being waged throughout the State, has brought forth much encouragement. In honor the splendid teachers, who like their contemporaries of the other counties, are giving their services for the cause, report great progress. One teacher told The Free Press that she had about six in her class, consisting of old men and women, who when they came for the first lesson, could not tell one letter from another, and now after three lessons they are able to write their own names.

LEADER KITCHIN'S POSITION.

Congressman Claude Kitchin, the individual, will be opposed to the President's plans for defense, but Democratic Leader of the House Kitchin will not be opposed to the program. We should imagine that will be rather a difficult attitude to successfully maintain and will be liable to place Leader Kitchin in an awkward position. We cannot see how any explanation Mr. Kitchin may be able to make will alter the situation as affecting his official relation with the Administration as its accepted leader of party affairs in the House.

BRYAN EXPLAINS HIS ATTITUDE

Was Willing to Agree to Navy Appropriation With Gradual View of Disarmament.

(By Eastern Press)

Kinston, Nov. 11.—Mr. Bryan in commenting upon the subject of his address Tuesday, "The European War and Its Lessons for Us," said that he had selected this subject because he felt it was the most important one for the American people to consider today and that wherever he went he felt it his duty to discuss the subject as much as possible in order that the people of America might get a better understanding.

In speaking of the administration's preparedness plan, Mr. Bryan did not hesitate to say as he has been quoted before, that in his opinion the administration was wrong, that President Wilson was making a blunder in changing the time honored policy of the nation. "I was willing and would have agreed to an appropriation equivalent to that of the preceding year, although my plan has been to reduce the appropriation gradually each year, with a view to disarmament, but I could not endorse the plan of the administration which carries in the army appropriation alone an increase of more than thirty per cent."

Mr. Bryan deprecated the criticism that has been waged in different parts of the country against the so-called hyphenated Americans and said he, "There are no more loyal citizens in this country than those of German ancestry. We must have consideration for the land of one's birth. It is very natural that those men should incline to the German side of the conflict, but if America was drawn into the war tomorrow it is my judgment that the German-American element would enlist more largely in the American cause than any other of our people." Mr. Bryan, when asked what he thought the tariff would have upon the elections said the tariff is always an issue, of course; the Republicans make it so, but he seemed inclined to think that the question of preparedness and the policy of the administration on that score would have more bearing upon the outcome of the 1916 election and the destiny of the party than the tariff or any other issue that might be injected. He was very emphatic in his affirmation that the policy of the administration was wrong and that, unless modified and checked in some way, it would bring disaster to the party.

Melancholia. Melancholia does not mean depression of spirits. A man may be as depressed as it is possible to be and still not have melancholia. Melancholia is despondency on account of painful delusions. One of the two typical delusions of melancholia is that the unpardonable sin has been committed, that C. d. has been offended beyond redemption and that fall is to be the ultimate goal; the other is that of impending poverty. Everything is lost or is about to be. The patient and his family are going to end up in the poorhouse. His acts alone have brought about this terrible calamity from which there is no escape. It can be readily seen that a person having delusions of this type must be necessarily depressed. There is probably no form of insanity in which the anguish of the patient equals that of the melancholic. Life is one continuous horror.
