Evans, past grand master were among the other prominent men who spoke at the meeting. E. L. ### ARREST MADE

Young Man Is Found Near Where Still Was Discovered. Makes Two Stills That Have Been Found This Week.

Deputy Marshall James and Deputy Sheriff Williams this afternoon returned from Hill's Creek with a 55-gallon copper still, which they found in the woods near that section. They also brought back a young man by the name of Taylor, who was found near the still at the time the officers discovered it. Taylor has been placed in jail.

This makes the second still that has been found this week. Sunday morning Sheriff Windley and Mr. Williams found another one near the county home. It was not of the ordinary kind, but was worked through a system of pipes and showed considerable ingenuity in construction.

This makes thirteen stills that have been found and broken up since Mr. Windley assumed office—little less than a year ago.

For three months Dr. Jordan will give his entire time to visiting the 57 white schools, examining and reporting the special defects of school children, and to teaching health and health conditions to the school and the community.

On November 29, the same system of work starts in Northampton county. Dr. A. C. Bulla, of Asheboro, will be the physician in charge. Dr. Bulla has recently returned from Philadelphia where he took special training in the Philadelphia schools under Dr. Chas. S. Cornell. (By Eastern Press)
Kinston, Nov. 12.—A search that started Wednesday, was being continued today by Duplin county men who were seeking "Crum" Southerland, colored, 18, probably to lynch him. Southerland Wednesday morning attempted to outrage a 4-year-old daughter of D. Smith and wife. He was discovered with the girl by the child's mother in a corn crib on the Smith farm. The black fled at Mrs. Smith's approach.

The attempt occurred in the Leon section. Telephone communication today was impossible, and no report could be had from Leon. It was said on good authority, however, that the posse took Southerland and would probably be summarily put out of the way by the infuriated men.

OVER 6,000 PERSONS ATTENDED THE FAIR AT AURORA YESTERDAY

FAIR WAS BIG SUCCESS EVERY WAY

Floral and Live Stock Exhibits Were Excellent. Ladies Department Came in For a Great Deal of Attention.

With over 6,000 people there yesterday and with a total attendance of over 9,000, the Aurora fair closed last night, breaking all previous records in attendance, exhibits and every other department.

The special train, which left Washington yesterday morning, carried over 300 persons to the fair. About 200 of these went from this city, while the others were picked up from intermediate points. The train reached Aurora at 11:30, just in time to see the big parade of school children, which had already formed on the streets.

The floats in the parade were handsomely decorated with gay colored streamers. The children, who sat on top, gave their school cheers at frequent intervals, which, coupled with the music of the band at the head of the parade, and the applause of the spectators on the sidewalks, made more noise than Aurora ever heard at one time before. The marshals, on horseback, kept the roads clear. The different schools represented in the parade were Aurora, 4 floats; Campbell's Creek, 1; Idalia, 1; Edward, 1; Royal, 1; Bonerton, 1; Mt. Hope, auto float.

After the parade, the crowds drifted towards the fair grounds and the ever increasing number of admissions paid, caused proportionately increasing business on the part of the exhibitors.

The exhibits were admired by all. They were conveniently arranged and were closely inspected. The farm and poultry exhibit of B. H. Thompson, which consisted of corn, on the stalk and shucked, sweet and Irish potatoes, stock peas, mammoth pumpkin, black-eyed peas, clay and black peas, speckled peas, pea-vine hay, peppers, pecans, dressed hogs, beef, turkeys, chicken, sausage, quail and doves in a booth, all decorated with bunting and flowers, adjoining was a pen of 34 White Plymouth Rocks. This exhibit was the feature of the farm product division and the success of the fair, in a large measure, must be attributed to the untiring efforts of Mr. Thompson.

Among others, especially attractive, was the exhibit of B. T. Bonner, which included an assortment of 54 farm and garden products, including preserves and canned fruit. This exhibit came in for a large amount of praise.

The farm exhibit of C. L. Brown consisted of 50 varieties of farm products, adjoining which was his poultry exhibit of seven varieties of chickens, ducks and guinea hens. Among the lot was a coop containing a white bantam hen and young chicks, which attracted a great deal of attention.

L. T. Thompson and W. A. Holaday also had fine exhibits that were up to the high standard set by the fair. In fact, all of the exhibits were the best ever seen at any of the local fairs and compared favorably with products that were on exhibition at Raleigh.

Little Miss Carolina Dough had on exhibition a mammoth stalk of pop corn, containing ten ears.

T. E. Allen exhibited three stalks of corn, which measured fifteen feet from the ground.

The poultry exhibit consisted of 29 pens of chickens, 11 varieties; 11 pens of ducks, 5 varieties; 7 pens of turkeys, all of large size; 2 pens of geese, Hong Kong; 8 pens of Guinea hens, 1 pen of pen fowl.

Another department of the fair that attracted great attention was the ladies' exhibit, which was held on the second floor of the fair building. An excellent display of centerpieces, collars, baby caps, children's dresses and other articles of apparel and fancy work, was exhibited by Mrs. Ida Redditt of Edward. An excellent exhibit of work by the various grades of the Aurora graded schools also drew much favorable comment. The exhibits of flowers and ferns were shown by Mrs. Ann Litchfield and Miss Lottie Bonner. A knit counterpane, worked by Mrs. Sidney Warren of Edward, came in for much praise and admiration. Mrs. Warren is 72 years old and the work was only recently completed. She is the mother of J. L. Warren, of Washington. Another beautiful piece of work was a crocheted counterpane by Mrs. A. S. Fulford, of Washington. Probably the most elaborate display of crochet work was by Mrs. Sue Litchfield, of Aurora.

A number of excellent paintings and drawings were also on exhibition. The one that probably attracted the greatest attention was an oil painting of the Prodigal Son's return, by Miss Ruth Hudnell of Washington. This was an exceptionally beautiful piece of work. Miss Hudnell also had on exhibition five other paintings, all of which were greatly admired. Miss Lola Thompson, of Aurora, had on exhibition four pictures done in water colors, all of which showed that the brush was wielded by the hand of a talented artist. One of the group, worthy of special mention, was that of a glass containing a bouquet of flowers. In this department was also a picture of a beautiful red rose, done in crayon by Miss Violet Purser, a young artist of only 13 years.

The exhibit of canned fruits and preserves, which made special appeal to the men and which caused many a one's mouth to water, was the exhibit of canned fruits and preserves. The exhibit by Mrs. Dr. W. T. Porter was especially attractive, as was also that of Mrs. T. E. Guilford, which contained 44 varieties of fruits and vegetables.

One of the most attractive exhibits in the ladies' department consisted of two specimens of tanning worked by Mrs. G. A. Lane and Mrs. E. W. Hooker, also a luncheon set of 20 pieces, crocheted by Mrs. C. S. Winchard of Vandemere.

The culinary exhibits consisting of bread, cakes, butter and other edibles that appeal to the appetite, and all of which were "home-made" also came in for much praise.

The ladies' department was under the management of Mrs. C. G. Middleton, Mrs. J. W. Chapin, Miss Mary Guilford and Mrs. L. T. Thompson.

Postmaster N. Henry Moore, of Washington, had an attractive "parcel post" exhibit on display, which included innumerable articles, from a railroad engine to a pin, that could be sent through the mails.

The live stock exhibit was the best of any that has yet been seen at a fair in this section. This department consisted of twenty pens of hogs, seven of which were Berkshires, four Duroc, four Jersey, Essex, one Poland China, and thirty cattle of various breeds and ages.

There were thirty-three horses, mules and colts on exhibition, divided as follows: seven horses, two mules, one stallion, one Jack, eleven male colts, ten horse colts. A number of these colts would be prize winners at any county fair. In Richland township it is stated that there are more than 200 horses and mule colts under two years of age, probably more than in all the other townships of the county combined.

The amusement features of the fair came in for their share of attention and helped make the occasion a merry one. The flying horses were patronized by old and young alike. Mike, the Monkey Boy, held converse with everyone and "That strange girl" was seen by hundreds. Other shows were also well patronized.

Altogether, the fair was a big success—a success in every way. Everyone had a "big time" and everyone gave the citizens of Aurora the highest praise for their energy and progressiveness in getting up such a high-class event.
