WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA, DEC. 13, 1915.

Another day and then comes the big barbecue at Old Ford. It is expected that over two thousand good roads advocates will be present.

If there is anything that will defeat the bond issue on January 4th, it will be the lack of registered voters.

If some of those, who are at present opposed to good roads, could have gone over some of the highways in the township yesterday or today, they would become the strongest advocates for improvements.

With snowstorms this early in the season, it looks like a fine winter—for the coal and wood man.

The Chamber of Commerce at Rocky Mount is planning to do some extensive advertising of that city. When it comes to location and resources, Washington is far ahead of Rocky Mount and the only reason that we haven't more people here is that the outside world doesn't know about us.

Greece is planning to demobilize her armies. There's many another country in Europe that would like to do the same thing.

A QUESTION OF CONCERN TO FARMERS.

We received a letter today from A. D. MacLean, one of the prominent attorneys of the city, calling attention to an editorial in last week's Saturday Evening Post on the subject of good roads, and how they concern the farmer.

A recent report by the Department of Agriculture suggests that the wagon haul from farm to shipping point of the marketed portions of the average corn, wheat and cotton crops costs farmers something like fifty million dollars a year.

Statistics gathered by township and county correspondents and field agents of the Bureau of Crop Estimates over the country give six and a half miles as the average distance from farm to market. Nine years ago—though the figures are not strictly comparable—the distance was somewhat greater.

"Of course the shorter haul had something to do with this; but, on the whole, roads must have been better too. An average day's haul of cotton has increased from seventeen hundred pounds to three thousand.

These gains have been more or less offset by higher cost of horses, of feed and of farm labor; but there is undoubtedly room for greater gains in the same direction.

PREPARE FOR PEACE.

The New Bern Sun-Journal brings out an excellent thought in the following paragraph:

"In addition to being prepared for war, it will also be well for the United States to prepare for peace, for when such is secured this country is going to have a glorious opportunity to increase its store of wealth and to own one of the greatest merchant marines in the world.

There is much that the United States could do toward "peace preparedness." The Sun-Journal makes mention of the merchant marine, which is an important project.

Congress is in session and "war preparedness" appears to be the prime subject for debate and discussion. Millions of dollars will probably be spent towards putting this country on a better naval and military basis.

'LOOKING BACKWARDS.'

China will again revert to an empire. The Republican form of government has proven too progressive a measure for her unprogressive people.

The United States prides itself upon being a progressive country, but there are people within its borders who are very similar to those of China.

They refuse to take an interest in the development of the community in which they live. When a plan is organized for securing better streets, new industries, or any other project that tends to increase the prosperity of the town or city in which they live, they do everything in their power to oppose it. There are on a footing with the Chinese coolies, as far as their idea of progressiveness is concerned.

We have a few men of this type right here in Beaufort county, but, thank God, they are few in number and although their opposition to certain movements is strong at times, it is always outweighed by the larger class of progressive and up-to-date men.
