TO GIVE HOSPITALS IN EVENT OF WAR

Two Institutions Are Pledged by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury.

WILL CARE FOR 200 PATIENTS

Pledge Has Been Made Through Pennsylvania Women's Division For National Preparedness, Recently Organized in Philadelphia—Fourth Offer of Emergency Hospitals Made.

Philadelphia.—Two hospitals, one in the city and one in the country, with a combined capacity of two hundred patients, have been pledged by Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury for public use in the event of invasion or national calamity. The pledge has been made through the Pennsylvania Women's Division For National Preparedness, recently organized here. It is the fourth offer of emergency hospitals to be made to this organization in the last few weeks, Mrs. Archibald Barklie, Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer and Mrs. J. Gardner Cassatt having offered the use of their homes to the division. In a letter to Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel, chairman of the division, Mrs. Stotesbury said: "I will gladly give a unit and would choose as my particular field of responsibility a hospital in town and one in the country. I think I could safely assume the responsibility of caring for 200 patients, so out me down for the unit and what expense it would entail. I would rather undertake indoor duties than to run a motor." Dr. Clara Marshall, dean of the Women's Medical college, has made arrangements by which women so desiring it may be trained in the work of first aid, diet cooking and other adjuncts to hospital work. This training will be carried on without expense to the women desiring to take it up. Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury was formerly Mrs. Oliver Crownwell of Washington and was married to Mr. Stotesbury in January, 1912, with impressive ceremonies which were attended by a number of notables. Her first husband was a prominent yachtsman and died in December, 1909.

For years she had been prominently identified with society life in the city and also with its philanthropic enterprises. Her taste in this work is shared by her husband, who is a sponsor for several social and civic movements in Philadelphia, where he is at the head of Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia connection with J. P. Morgan & Co.

Mr. Stotesbury is a great lover of painting. It was through him that Oscar Hammerstein was induced to build the Philadelphia Opera House. He holds a directorship in a number of corporations and is an exhibitor at both the Philadelphia and New York horse shows, being fond of all outdoor sports.

MARINES RESPECTED ANTHEM
But Were Forcibly Ejected From Theater When They Stood Up.
Washington.—Because they insisted on standing up while the "Star Spangled Banner" was being played and refused to sit down when ordered to do so by persons in the rear two privates of the United States marine corps, in full uniform, were forcibly ejected from a local motion picture theater.

COLLEGE MEN FAIL IN QUIZ ON WAR

Test Shows Students Are Ignorant of Current Events.

MANY LUDICROUS ANSWERS

Examinations in Three Institutions Result in College Authorities Seeking Corrective Measures to Overcome Deficiency—Believe Students Are Indifferent to European Affairs.

New York.—Whether the ignorance of the college student of today is representative of a growing indifference on the part of the American public toward events, persons and places intimately associated with the European War is a question which college and university authorities are investigating as a result of examinations recently held under the auspices of three representative institutions. As an immediate result of the recent quiz on contemporaneous events conducted at New York university, where an average grade of 58 per cent was the rating shown by fifty-nine students, several members of the faculty are looking for corrective measures to overcome this deficiency.

It was stated by a member of the department of history at the New York university that he believed the apparent indifference of students toward the present war was indicative of a general tendency on the part of the public to neglect a close study of affairs in Europe. That the surprising lack of information of affairs immediately connected with the war was not peculiar to students at any university was further expressed as the opinion of Professor A. H. Nason, assistant professor of English at New York university. Professor Nason, who submitted twenty-one questions to students in his various classes, pointed out that the questions used have also been submitted to students of two other institutions—a middle western state university and Bowdoin college—where the results were about the same.

Dean Kenneth C. M. Hills of Bowdoin college is quoted as saying, "I do not think college men of New England colleges are very steady newspaper readers," and referred to the matter as "lamentable, but not surprising."

Some of the questions asked by authorities at both Bowdoin college and New York university received answers which in many cases were ludicrous. At Bowdoin out of a class of fifty-three students twenty were ignorant as to the location of Gallipoli, which in many cases was put variously in Italy, France, Bulgaria, Greece and Berlin. New York university students answered the same question with apparently as little accuracy. The French General Joffre was variously designated by students at both institutions as "Joffrey," "Joffery," "Geoffrey" and "Jeffrey," indicating a general unfamiliarity with even newspaper headlines. The question, "Who is Yenisek?" resulted in similarly ridiculous answers. Some recolected the ex-pretence of Greece as a Spanish artist, another said that he was a Mexican rebel, while still another designated him as the premier of Italy. When asked "Who is the present ruler of England?" several students replied variously King Edward, George III, IV, or VI, as the correct information.

In the department of history at New York university Assistant Professor Theodore F. Jones submitted current questions to a class of students in European history, among which was the query, "Where is Christiania?" Only two students knew its location, in spite of the fact that the daily papers of the day before all contained long accounts of the landing of the Ford party at that city. One student of the same class half seriously answered the question, "Who is Sir Douglas Haugue?" by stating that he would answer the question correctly if told where the other "Haug" was.

Of the fifty-nine students taking the examination at New York university none answered all of the inquiries correctly, while only three obtained a grade above 90 per cent. Of a class of twenty-three freshmen nine failed, while the average rank was 63 per cent. Another class of the same number of freshmen averaged only 52 per cent, and thirteen failed to pass, while a class made up of upper class men did as poorly and averaged a grade of only 61 per cent.

England's Smallest House.
The smallest house in Great Britain is in the quaint old town of Conway, north Wales. This house is 300 years old and consists of two rooms, one above the other, each of which is just two yards square. The upstairs room, which is reached by mounting a tiny ladder, has in it a four foot bed and a washstand, leaving but little room for the occupant to move about.

ON 25 CENTS A DAY HE GOES TO COLLEGE

Georgia Youth Lives Alone in Self Made Shack.

Savannah, Ga.—A youth eighteen years old is living at the Georgia School of Technology and acquiring an education on 25 cents a day. On the school register he is marked as "H. E. Cole, Co-op." and he has built a shack on a nearby lot, where he sleeps and eats and cooks his own food. He pursues his studies during his spare minutes.

Cole works two weeks a month for the Atlanta Steel company, and on what he earns during this period he goes to school for two weeks at the school. His pay check at the steel factory is $12 every thirty days. That suffices to pay for his food, his tuition and his books. He doesn't have any incidentals. When he feels the need of a little recreation he indulges in an hour or so of trigonometry. He is a son of D. C. Cole, formerly assistant postmaster at Atlanta, now living at Marietta.

"It was just a few days before school opened that I found there was to be no more college for me," said the student. "I knew about the 'co-op' student, and the idea occurred to me that I might put up a shack and live in it and be independent. I came down from Marietta and went to see Mr. Peters and asked him if I might build some sort of place on his land that I could live in, and he said I could."

The shop instructor helped him, and the school gave him a door and a window. Otherwise the house was built by Cole alone. As far as essentials go it was finished in three days.

Cole sits over an oil lamp and studies while the wind beats at a tattoo on his homemade house and apparently tries at times to blow both house and owner away. He gets up at 6 o'clock in the morning to cook his breakfast and wash his dishes, and he reaches his classes as fresh and smiling as students from dormitory or home.

During the two weeks he works at the steel mill Cole's rising hour is 5 o'clock. Then he gets breakfast and walks to the mill. He works ten hours a day and studies at night.

"What are you going to do with yourself?" he was asked. "I haven't decided yet," he answered. "Maybe I'll be an electrical or mechanical engineer, perhaps a farmer. All I've decided just now is that I want a college education."
