Prof. Samuel T. J. Pence

PRaises HIGHLY BEAR'S EMULSION.

Sure Remedy for Coughs, Colds and Weak Lungs—He Tried it and He Knows.

Prof. Samuel T. J. Pence, of the Jr. O. U. A. M., writes as follows: John D. Bear, Elkton, Va.

Dear Sir:—Last winter my sister-in-law recommended Bear's Emulsion to me as a fine tonic and a sure remedy for coughs, colds and weak lungs. I have used several bottles in my family since that time, and believe by experience it is one of the best remedies made for coughs, colds, bronchitis and weak lungs. At the same time it builds up the system, gives strength and health to the body. This year I took a bottle just before starting my daily walk of four miles to teach school, and I have not felt better and stronger for years. I weigh ten pounds more than I have for years.

Very respectfully, S. T. J. PENCE.

Bear's Emulsion strengthens that weak, rundown, nervous system. Improves the appetite and builds up the weak lungs. Hundreds of people are using it and saying it is the best thing they ever tried. But if it doesn't benefit you after taking a bottle it will not cost you a cent. One dollar a bottle at Worthy & Etheridge drug store.

HAWKINS NOTES.

Miss Mattie P. Woodard, who has been teaching at Everett's the past winter, returned home Wednesday for school having closed March 24. Quite a number of our people attended county commencement in Washington Friday. Mrs. A. S. Woodard and children spent several days in Washington last week. Bobbie Whitley, of Sarry, was in our midst Wednesday.

H. T. Hawkins was a Washington visitor Wednesday. Misses Eva, Annie and Minnie Swain were guests of Miss Alice Woodard Sunday of last week.

Miss Patsy Woodard spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Isiah Pinkham. Will Everett, of Everett's, was here Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pinkham and child were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isiah Pinkham Tuesday.

Mrs. J. H. Woodard still continues very sick.

This scribe is watching with interest the names of the contestants in the voting contest and their standing in the list. Some of them are making rapid strides in the number of votes they are securing. It is interesting to watch the various changes in the number of votes from time to time.

PINETOWN ROUTE 2.

Miss Lou Ayers, of Plymouth, is spending the week with her cousin, Mrs. Geo. R. Boyd, and her aunt, Mrs. L. P. Harris.

Elder N. H. Harrison, of Route No. 1, filed his regular appointment at White Plains Saturday. John, Fred and Herman Boyd spent Saturday night and Sunday with their sister, Mrs. Wilmer Modlin, at Jameville.

Mrs. James R. Boyd and children and Mrs. Samuel Boyd and children spent Saturday evening with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Waters.

Miss Annie Mae Wilkinson and Mrs. Boyd, of Yatesville, are the guests of Miss Emma Hardison for the week.

Ross Morrow made a business trip to Boyd's mill Tuesday.

William Boyd took Miss Lou Ayers, Mrs. Geo. R. Boyd and the writer down to Hunters Bridge Sunday evening in his automobile.

Rev. Mr. Tyndall preached at the Osborne school house Saturday night.

Miss Lucy Harris, of Pungo, is spending the week with her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Harris.

Miss Pearl Jefferson has returned home from Hawkins where she has been teaching.

Geo. V. Boyd was a business visitor to Washington Saturday.

Miss Lou Ayers, who is visiting friends at this place and who resides about one mile and a half from the home of George Bowen of Washington county, who was recently beaten up by negroes states that his condition was still serious when she left home Saturday last and his people were expecting him to die at any time, but his daughter was getting on nicely and it is thought would recover.

When Broken Glass Has Value. People in Tibet value highly the spectacles of smoked or colored glass that are sold to them by the Chinese, because of the blinding brightness of the sun on the snow.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Little Dick and The Squegee Visit the Moon.

"SHALL we have a fairy tale or little Squegee?" asked daddy. "Little Squegee is a fairy boy," Evelyn grinned. So daddy began: "When little Squegee invited a little boy, Dick, to visit Jeebooland, on the moon, Dick cried, 'But I can't fly!' 'Did you ever try?' asked the Squegee sharply. 'No,' replied Dick. 'Well, then how do you know you can't fly? Now do as I tell you. The main thing is to get the right kind of a start. Stand up on the bed—so. Now take my hand and jump up and down on the springs—easy, now harder. That's the way!' So Dick found himself bouncing up and down on the bed, and each time he seemed to go higher in the air and then found it harder to come down. Higher and higher they bounced, side by side. At last it seemed just as if they must hit the ceiling, but when Dick looked up he could see no ceiling. White feery clouds were floating above. Suddenly they went shooting up, up at the rate of a mile a minute. 'Now we're off!' chuckled little Squegee. 'Hold on to my hand tight!' 'With his other hand Dick rubbed his eyes and looked about with huge surprise. And no wonder, for he found himself sitting on the ground under a most curious tree, and opposite him was the Squegee. 'Is this Jeebooland?' asked Dick. 'Precisely!' said little Squegee. 'Dick looked at the tree carefully and found that in place of leaves and buds and fruit it seemed to grow all kinds of hats. 'I suppose that's a hat tree,' he remarked thoughtfully to the Squegee. 'Precisely!' said his friend the second time. 'We have a hat tree home,' Dick went on, 'but daddy bought it at a store and then put the hats on it.' 'The beauty of this Jeeboe tree is,' said the Squegee, with a graceful flourish of his tiny hand, 'that you buy the tree and take the hats off, which is much more sensible than your way. Just now it is growing a fine crop of derbies, silk hats and skating caps. Later it will grow a lot of straw hats for the summer season.' 'How interesting!' cried Dick. 'But before they got any further in their talk there was heard the distant rumbling of a mighty bass voice,' finished daddy. 'Oh, bedtime comes so soon!' Jack mourned. 'But daddy will tell us tomorrow night, Jack,' Evelyn comforted him.

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvia Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Gardul, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Gardul, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Gardul, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill. I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Gardul when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good." Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Gardul, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Gardul for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

GARDUL The Woman's Tonic
