NUMBER 108

DAILY NEWS SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST WILL END TONIGHT PROMPTLY AT P O'CLOCK.

RESULTS SOON TO BE KNOWN

Will Be Announced About One Hou and Thirty Minutes After Clo of the Contest. Still Time to Either Win or Lose

Tonight is the night of all nights To night at nine o'clock the big contest of the Dally News will go down as a matter of history.

Tonight sixteen ladies will be made happy for some time to come by winning handsome prizes, while others will regret that they did not work up to the last minute and se-cure every available subscription See that you do not miss YOUR favorite prize by a margin of a few good sized subscriptions which you can get if you try hard enough.

Work right up to the last minute You can turn in subscriptions and vote ballots until NINE o'clock. Turn in all you can early in the day and you will avoid the rush and confusion of the finish, and you will have time to look around for more to turn in at the last minute. The vote is going to be close, exceedingly close. Trips will be won by a margin of two or three, or a half dozen subscriptions.

Just a few more subscriptions will make you the winner of your favorite prize. Do not hesitate at this See your best friends before too late. Get their support. Have them make up a number of good subscription—for two years— three years, five years, or ten years. Don't fail to get the best support of those who wish to see you win. Make a god noish and you will be happy for many days after the con has ended

Every Vote Helps. Do not make the mistake that several made on the clubbing offer. Several contestants failed to turn in their subscriptions because they did not have enough to complete the club, but subscriptions were turned in by their friends and they would have completed their club had they turned in those they had collected.

BE NO BREAK

Unless Official Text is Widely Different from Press Texts, Officials Believe That Danger of Any Immediate Break Has Passed.

United Press Staff Corerspondent. Washington, May 6.—With the Micial text of the German note before him, President Wilson is today formulating a decision as to wheth-er or not Germany has fairly met the America submarine issue. Unless the official text is widely different from press texts, it is practically certain that all danger of an imme-diate break has passed. Congress, the cabinet, Wilson's other advisors and the country gen-rally, judging from telegram re-elved overnight, hold this view, unless Germany fails to live up to concessions she appears to have granted. Many officials also believe that a note of peace overtures is contained in the reply and it would not be unexpected if Wilson is urged by his advisors to make some move along that line.

(Later Dispatch)
The official text is found to be very like that sent out by the press. Following a study of it, officials confidently believe that the submaine issue between Germany and the United States, which is now a year old, is closed. It is believed that the President won't even answer it, the president won't even answer it.

Berlin, May 6 .- American circles here point out an impor-tant peace feature contained in Germany's reply and express the belief that President Wilson now has a great opportunity for bringing the war to an early end. Some have even suggest-ed that the time is now ripe for Colonel House to revisit the European capitals.
