GREAT DAY FOR LOCAL BARACAS AND BIBLECLASS

Visitors Arrived Here Yesterday Sixty-five Strong from Ayden in Automobiles.

The Men's Bible Class, sixty-five strong, hailing from Ayden, N. C., stormed Washington yesterday, and had a royal good time, as they were entertained by the Baracas of the First Methodist Church in keeping with Washington's reputation along this line.

The class arrived here via automobiles in the morning and returned to their homes late Sunday afternoon carrying with them memories long to be remembered of Washington and the M. E. Baracas.

The class from Ayden took part in the services at the regular Sunday School hour, after which they marched into the church in a body and heard a very inspiring and uplifting sermon from the theme, "Sought a Man," by the Rev. Daniel Lane, pastor of the M. E. Church at Ayden. Mr. Lane is one of the coming young preachers of his church. After the services, the visitors were invited to the hall in the C. M. Brown building on Market street, where a sumptuous luncheon was served, consisting of sandwiches, ice tea, cream and cake. Good cheer reigned supreme throughout and no social function ever given in the city was more thoroughly enjoyed both by the hosts and visitors.

The Washington Baracas are planning to visit the Men's Bible Class at Ayden at an early day.

Yesterday was a veritable feast of good things for the Baracas of Washington and the Men's Bible Class of Ayden. Here's hoping that Ayden will storm us again.

N. C. Home Society Work Presented in the Churches

Several representatives of the North Carolina Children's Home Society, together with Mr. H. S. Ward, of this city, presented the work of that organization in the churches of Washington yesterday. Mr. Ward briefly told of his knowledge of the real practical results being produced by this organization. He referred to the large number of difficult cases which it had handled for this county and the immense saving to the citizens as a result of the children thus being cared for. He fully endorsed the work of the Children's Home Society and urged his hearers to subscribe to the agents as liberally as possible.

Superintendent Putnam of the Society spoke at the Presbyterian Church at the morning service and at the Methodist Church at night. At both churches he brought out the point that the work was being conducted on a strict business basis and referred to the motto of the present administration, "The Books, Work and Building Are Open to Public Inspection." He said that the Society was truly interdenominational, the Directors being representatives of practically every faith and sect in the State. He also brought out the point that the Society was taking care of children of every faith, regardless of conditions. In this connection he said, "Our slogan is, 'To Meet the Need, Regardless of Color.' The average cost per person in this county home of this state is $200 per year. The Children's Home Society has received and cared for 27 cases from Beaufort county during

RUSSIA WILL FIGHT FOR TWENTY YEARS

Until Germany is Forced to Accept the Terms of the Allies.

By WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMS, United Press Staff Correspondent.

Petrograd, May 29.—Russia will fight twenty years if necessary until Germany is forced to accept the Allies' terms. Michael Rodhanko, president of the Duma, informed the United Press. He scoffed at the danger of a Russian revolution. "There's no peace party in Russia," said he. "This is a German lie."

"The Dumas is solid in its demands that Russia continue the fight until Germany put her cannon in a pile. The Emperor, the Dumas and the peasants are united in this. You needn't accept my word exclusively. You are welcome to the Duma floor where you are at liberty to talk to anyone. All will tell you what I have already told you."

"With a better spirit in the army, which is far better equipped now, Russia will fight until Germany is beaten whatever the allies do."

ARTHUR NICHOLS IS STILL IN MEXICO

Letter to His Mother Full of Interesting Data for Daily News Readers.

Mrs. A. A. Nichols, of this city, is in receipt of another interesting letter from her son, Arthur Nichols, who is stationed at Columbus, New Mexico, with the United States troops. Among other things young Nichols states: The weather is very hot here, being 105 at all times during the day while at night three blankets just feel fine. We are about 6,000 feet above sea level and have big sand storms every day. You can hardly go out of your tent without getting your eyes blinded.

We have scouted the hills, mountains and prairies and still have been unable to find our friend Villa. We have killed and captured lots of his small bands but have never been able to see him. We have now in Mexico and on the border something like 25,000 men and more are coming in every day. It begins to look as if we will have to clean out the whole bunch of Mexicans.

Columbus is our supply base and our auto trucks leave here every day for the front and they are exceedingly lucky if not fired upon by snipers. They are such poor shots, however, that anyone is seldom hurt. We have been four hundred miles in Mexico and are working still further in. We have lots of flying machines to go ahead of us for scout duty. We have just received several machines with machine guns and bomb dropping devices which makes it lots better for us for these machines cover about three hundred miles a day and we feel much safer after they have been ahead of us. We expect to be here until December then we will go to some post in Wyoming.

Smoking tobacco sells for fifty cents a sack and then you can hardly get it. I expect to go back to the front next week.
