WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA, JULY 26, 1916.

Sunshine in the eastern part of North Carolina appears to be just about as hard an article to find as peace in Mexico.

Wouldn't it be a better idea for Raleigh to wait and see how the packing plant works out in Washington before going ahead and trying to "buck" the local project?

It's about time for the various monarchs of the warring nations in Europe to give out statements as to where they expect to eat their Christmas dinners.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

The citizens of Washington responded liberally to the call for help from the western part of the State. They have also responded liberally to funds for the relief of Armenian sufferers, the Belgians and contributed money for other causes. For some reason, however, they always overlook the fact that we have several cases of need right here in our midst. The Associated Charities are forced to beg for what funds they can secure and these are oftentimes pitifully small. It is highly praiseworthy to give to the relief of other people, but the people of Washington should also remember that charity is supposed to begin at home.

GERMAN BRAINS.

Much has been said recently regarding the inventive genius, the enterprise and the cleverness of the Germans. Many persons appear to think that the Germans, as a nation, surpass any other country in the world when it comes to thinking up new ideas and turning out inventions. No opinion was ever more in error. The Germans are not a nation of inventors; very few of our modern inventions originated in Germany. On the contrary, they were mostly worked out in some other country and were then taken over by the Germans and perfected.

Watt invented the steam-engine, Fulton the steamboat, Morse the telegraph, Bell the telephone, Marconi the wireless, Edison the phonograph, Wright the airplane—and so it goes on. All of the important inventions were made by some other nation than Germany. And yet, she is given credit for having the greatest inventors and the greatest scientists in the world.

There is only one thing that the Germans have really invented, and this invention the American people refuse to recognize. It is Thrift—Frugality. That is one thing that can rightfully be said to have been "made in Germany." But as far as other inventions are concerned, we'd better look to some other nationality than Germany to find their originators.

A PARABLE—AND A TRUE ONE.

Now there were a number of young people who lived in the city, and they decided to go off on their vacation.

And they made up their minds to go out in the country, and mingle with the rural residents and enjoy themselves to their heart's content.

And they packed their trunks and suitcases and set forth for a place that was far away from the nearest city. The folks there were plain people and hospitable and they gave the young people from the city a hearty welcome to their midst.

A few nights after their arrival, the city people were invited to a dance, which was to be given at the schoolhouse, and they accepted gladly. The country people did not know the intricacies of the fox-trot, one-step or hesitation, but they danced the old dances of years gone by. And the city people sat in a corner and made fun of the movements of their hosts and ridiculed the dances. They pretended to take part in the dance, but they laughed every figure and laughed uproariously among themselves.

And a few nights later the city people were invited to a party, given at one of the farmers' homes, and they went. And many old-fashioned games were played, and the city people acted as if they did at the dance; they laughed behind their hands over the different amusements and sat by themselves, apart from the others.

And so it was with every form of entertainment that was gotten up for their guests. They acted as if they were doing a great favor to the country people by attending and they never failed to make fun of everything that was said or done.

And they finally returned to their homes in the city and they entertained their friends for many days with tales of the "rules out in the country."

Moral: There's many a heart under a pair of overalls that is worth ten dozen times as much as one under a silk shirt.

THE BENEFITS OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

There is some good in everything—even infantile paralysis. The outbreak of the epidemic in New York has led the authorities in nearly every city in the country to adopt better sanitary measures, and has led millions of parents to take more intelligent care of their children.

Streets are being flushed and swept more thoroughly than ever before. Garbage is being collected and disposed of more promptly. Flies are being fought more effectively. Health authorities are enforcing their rules more strictly, inspectors are working more conscientiously, the spread of all sorts of contagious or infectious disease is better guarded against.

Houses are kept cleaner. The doctor is called quickly in case of sickness. Sick children are kept from playmates, and well children are more closely watched. There is a sudden spread of information regarding public and private hygiene, and a sudden willingness on the part of the people to follow expert advice and take the trouble to keep themselves and their families in good health.

While this widespread reform is successfully combatting the particular foe aimed at, it is operating just as effectively against many other diseases. And the lives saved thereby will vastly outnumber those that have been lost through the ravages of infantile paralysis.

The Town Gossip

I WENT calling
 THE OTHER evening
 AND VISITED
 A COUPLE
 WHO HAVE been married
 ABOUT THREE years.
 AND I found them
 SITTING in the parlor
 AND PLAYING
 WITH THEIR young one,
 WHO IS ONLY
 A FEW months old.
 THEY WERE awfully glad
 TO SEE me,
 AT LEAST they said so,
 AND THE husband
 TOOK ME into the parlor
 AND SAID:
 "I JUST want
 "TO SHOW you
 "WHAT A bright
 "YOUNGSTER WE'VE got."
 AND HE dragged me
 INTO THE room
 AND I sat down.
 AND THE Madam
 SMILED at me
 AND SAID:
 "DON'T YOU think
 "THAT HE'S just
 "THE CUTEST little baby
 "YOU HAVE ever seen?"
 AND I said
 THAT I did.
 AND I remember
 THAT I have made
 THAT SAME remark
 AT LEAST a thousand times.
 AND THEN they tried
 TO GET the kid
 TO SAY "Da-da."
 AND ALL he'd do
 WAS TO single
 HIS TOES.
 AND THEY held
 A LITTLE toy dog
 IN FRONT of his face
 AND TOLD him
 TO SAY "Bow-wow."
 BUT HE wouldn't.
 AND THEN they asked me

WHOM I thought
 THE BABY looked like.
 AND I told them
 THAT I didn't think
 HE LOOKED like either
 OF THEM.
 AND THEY didn't seem
 TO LIKE that.
 AND JUST then
 THE KID began to bawl.
 AND THEY recommenced
 TO JUMP up and down
 AND MAKE funny noises
 AND SHAKE rattles
 AND RING bells
 AND HOLLER "Kitchy-koo."
 AND THEY got me
 TO DO it too.
 AND FINALLY
 THEY TOOK him
 OFF TO bed.
 AND I reached for my hat
 AND SAID I had had
 A WONDERFUL time,
 AND HAD enjoyed
 THE VISIT just lots,
 AND THEY told me
 TO BE sure
 AND COME again.
 AND I went out.
 I THANK you.

Slip a few Prince Albert smokes into your system!

You've heard many an earful about the Prince Albert patented process that cuts out bite and parch and lets you smoke your fill without a comeback! There's sport smoking a pipe or rolling your own, but you know that you've got to have the right tobacco! We tell you Prince Albert will bang the doors wide open for you to come in on a good time firing up every little so often, without a regret! THE Prince Albert pipe and tin, and in fact, every Prince Albert package, has a real message to you on its reverse side. You'll read—"Process Patented July 30th, 1907." That means that the United States Government must have granted its sanction to the process by which Prince Albert is made. And by which tongue and throat parch are cut out! Every where tobacco is sold you'll find Prince Albert smoking you to say the least. So they red tin, the handsome round and half-round tin holders and in that clever arrangement the handkerchief with sponge moisture too, that keeps the tobacco in such fine condition—always!
