SATURDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 9, 1916.

Wilson has a new paper; the Evening Dispatch. All we can say is that it takes SOME nerve to start a paper in these days.

Phoolish Pheelings: When, after a fellow gets married, some girl stops him on the street and he takes hold of her hand.

Lucky there isn't a tobacco sale today. If there was, we might frighten some of the other markets of the State to death.

SOMETHING ABOUT SEWER CONSTRUCTION.

The city is doing some repair work to the sewers on Respass street. It appears that there are two depths of sewer along this street.

Now it appears that the top sewer has been filled up, or fallen in, or something like that, and the men are having to tear part of it up.

First contractor:—Has the city let the contract for putting down the sewers?

Second contractor:—No; they are waiting to pave the streets first and then they'll dig that up and put down the sewers.

TRYING TO CATCH UP

From all parts of the country there come reports of unsettled labor conditions. Various unions are ordering strikes.

"The high cost of living," is the claim of the men. "Everything has gone up, and we must have more money to provide food and clothing for ourselves and our families."

Suppose all of the bakers, or the butchers, or the suitmakers, or the railroad men should strike and receive the increase in wages that they demand.

It is an endless chase. Every time that more money is paid out in wages, the public has to stand the raise. Then the public kicks; the working men give notice of strike; they get their raise in pay; up goes the cost of living again—and so on, without end.

THE CASE OF "SMITH"

A young man, recently graduated from high school and business college, accepted a position as stenographer in a bank, located in a city not far from here.

"I am getting rather discouraged, to tell the truth. They pay me seven dollars a week and I can't tell whether the job is permanent or not. They can kick me out whenever they want to."

This young man—we'll call him Smith, for convenience—has the same feeling that undoubtedly possesses the minds of large number of others.

They don't take into consideration that many of them are purposely given a low salary. Take Smith's case for example. There are many banks, all over the country, that start their employes with twenty-five dollars a month.

There are many, however, who, as did Smith—start comparing their salaries with those received by men engaged in other lines of work.

And as for being "kicked out of a job," as Smith says, no firm or corporation is going to get rid of a man who proves himself to be faithful.

However, Smith will probably follow the course that has been taken and is being taken by hundreds of others. He will resign his position with the bank, accept another, which will offer him more pay, squander the surplus on luxuries and pleasures, and end his business career at old age with little more money than he had when he started.

FAMILY AVOIDS SERIOUS SICKNESS

By Being Constantly Supplied With Theford's Black-Draught.

McDuff, Va.—"I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whittaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble."

Ten years ago a friend told me to try Theford's Black-Draught, which I did, and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old.

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."

Theford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people.

Your druggist sells and recommends Black-Draught. Price only 25c. Get a Rackage to-day.

GUN, DROPPING FROM BOY'S COAT POCKET, CAUSES EXCITEMENT

Yesterday afternoon, in front of The Palms, a boy of eighteen or nineteen years of age, was walking along on the sidewalk, with his coat hanging on his arm, when a huge revolver dropped from one of the pockets and landed on the pavement in some manner or other, it was discharged. The report sounded like that of a cannon and W. O. Ellis, who happened to be a few feet away, made a new record in high jumping. People, who happened to be near enough to see him, state that they are willing to swear that he went up at least nine feet. The bullet passed harmlessly underneath an automobile, standing close to the curb and no damage was done. The boy picked up his revolver and ran.

MAN WHO BUILT TOWN FOR WIDOWS NOW BUILDS ONE FOR WORKING GIRLS

(By United Press) Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 9.—Chas. Page multi-millionaire oil magnate and the man who built a town—Sand Springs—exclusively for widows and orphans, today completed a tent city near here for working girls and provided a free railroad on which to get them to and from it every day. Page built Sand Springs and gathered widows and orphans from throughout the country to populate it because he decided, when he was a poor boy trying to make a living for his widowed mother, that if he ever got rich he would do just that. He built the tent city because he thought living in houses in the summer time unhealthful for working girls. More than 100 Tulsa girls are living there now. The tents are 12 by 14 feet, floored and boarded on the sides a distance of four feet, with collapsible canvas tops. Two girls occupy one tent. The tent streets have gas plates every few yards so the girls may cook. There is fresh water and at night are lights and watchmen guard the town. There is a free bath house for the girls, and they have all the privileges of the park's concessions. Girls who heretofore had to quit their work in the tense heat of summer are working all day in a temperature of more than a hundred and bearing up under it. Even some of the girls from wealthier families of Tulsa made application for tents, but without success the one and only requisite being that a girl is working for her living. The plan works so splendidly that Page is contemplating the building of two hundred more tents for next year.
