JAMES L. MAYO PROPRIETOR
 CAPL. GOERCH EDITOR

WASHINGTON, NORTH CAROLINA, OCT. 28, 1916.

Today is the last day to register. And today, it is practically decided who is going to be elected a week from Tuesday,—only nobody knows it.

The fellow who goes through life kicking at other people usually is propelled into eternity by a kick from the devil. Kicking don't pay either the kicker or the fellow who is kicked. The injustice of an unjust kick leaves many a heartache behind which rankles and grows into bitterness which lasts for months and years. At times it comes only with the death of the victim. But the victim of the kick is not the only one who loses in the game. The kicker makes a reputation for himself with every kick that he gives, and that reputation follows him through life. When the day comes that he needs the services of a friend he often finds that he has kicked the only people to whom it is possible for him to turn. He loses because he has kicked himself out of the confidence of his fellow men. Don't kick.

It is an old saying that two heads are better than one, and on the same principle two heads together are better than when they are facing in opposite directions. It will pay us to keep our heads together in this town, for the good of the town and each individual in the town.

When we are facing in opposite directions and pulling apart we get nowhere and accomplish nothing. The result of our labors is a cipher.

But not so when we get our heads together. No so when we act as a community and not as individuals. Not so when we all face a definite object and pull until we get there.

It is good to keep our heads together. We learn each other's ideas and ambitions and thoughts, and from this knowledge springs the impetus that brings success to any community.

Let's get our heads together in Washington, and keep them there.

THE REAL CONVERSION

At the union revival, which is being held at the Methodist church, two hundred persons have signified their intention of joining the church. We don't mind stating frankly that this action will not do the majority of these two hundred any particular good. It will act against them, to a certain extent.

That sounds like a bold statement, and it will meet with the disapproval of practically every reader of this article, without doubt. But let us investigate the matter just a little.

It doesn't make any difference what theologians say, the fact remains that ninety out of every hundred persons, who confess faith in Christ and join the church, do not materially alter their way of living. They may do so for a short while, but they will gradually drift back into their former little sins and transgressions.

In truth, by joining the church, most persons really make hypocrites out of themselves. Instead of accepting God and trying to live up to the teachings of Christ, they put their God to shame. They prejudice the unsaved against religion by their action. Their conversion not only fails to be of benefit to themselves, but it helps to harm to others and detract from the power of Christianity.

And yet, the impression of many of our people is that once they confess Christ as their personal Redeemer, they have nothing else to fear. They believe that all their sins will be forgiven them; no matter how many times they sin.

It is true that the plan of our evangelists and preachers is the correct one, for it is in accordance with the teachings of Christ that their work is carried out. Their method is probably the only effective one that will bring about a religious revival and will bring Christ close to the people of the world. But, nevertheless, there are millions and millions of persons today, who have taken the important step that the Bible prescribes, but who are in no better condition than they were before they confessed their faith.

There is only one way to make confession and "joining the church" of value and benefit to those who do it; and that is for them to depart from their former ways of living, resolve to do their utmost not to repeat the transgressions they have committed in the past and live upright and clean lives in the future. They must be absolutely sincere in their conversions; not for the time being, BUT FOREVER! Of course, there are times when they will sin—for it would be impossible for them to be perfect—but if these sins are repeated time and time again and if no effort is made to check them, are they not more serious in the sight of God than those which are committed by the unsaved?

Hypocrisy is one of our greatest sins today. We all try to appear otherwise than we really are; in business, in society, or in religion. But there is no hypocrisy so great as that of the man who openly confesses his God in the presence of his friends and his neighbors and then proceeds to live a life of sin that puts Christianity to shame and makes unbelievers laugh at our religion.

Confess Christ, for confession is good for the soul; join the church, for the action will help you to be strengthened in your religious faith, but in the name of all that is good and righteous, after having taken these important steps, DON'T discard all of your vows, your pledges and your good intentions and DON'T hold yourself up to the world as a hypocrite and confessor to the world the insincerity of your own soul.

And, we repeat the statement that we made at the beginning of this article; in the majority of cases, those who join the church really do themselves no benefit, for they cannot break off from their old habits and persist in repeating the sins they have committed in the past.

SEE RIVAL OF COTTON IN THE "CAT TAIL"

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The fuzzy brown "cattail" that grows in the marshes now looms on the horizon as a possible competitor of cotton, said Professor John Coulter, botanist, of the University of Chicago today. Professor Coulter uses the scholarly name "typha" for the said "tail."

"The Germans have found a way to make excellent cloth from the typha," said Professor Coulter, "and I see no reason why we cannot do the same. The typha could be raised in commercial quantities far more cheaply than cotton and with improved manufacturing facilities could be made into cloth at a price which would cut the high cost of living."

The Town Gossip

J. L. HORNE, THE EDITOR of the ROCKY MOUNT Telegram, CALLED ME up. YESTERDAY AFTERNOON, TO GIVE me a news story. AND THE first thing, HE ASKED me, WAS WHAT Central, HAD CALLED me, WHEN SHE rang for me, AND I remembered then, THAT SHE had said: "MR. GROUCH!" AND I told him, AND HE laughed, AND HE said, THAT HE had been, TRYING to tell, THE ROCKY MOUNT Central, FOR THE longest time, WHAT My name really was, AND HE had spelled it, AND SANG it, AND ALMOST whistled it, AND SHE couldn't, UNDERSTAND, AND THEN he asked her, WHAT WAS the opposite, OF A person, IN A good humor, AND SHE had replied: "A GROUCH!" AND THEN he told her, TO RING Washington, AND ASK Central here, "FOR MR. Grouch," AND I guess, SHE DID it, AND I hope, THAT HORNE will go, TO THE Rocky Mount, TELEPHONE OFFICE, AND WILL tell, THE OPERATORS there, WHAT MY name is, SO THEY won't, HAVE TO ask for, "MR. GROUCH," EVERY TIME they call me, AND IT makes me feel, GROUCHY, I THANK you.

Better Farm Implements

WE MEAN EVERY WORD OF THIS

The next time you drive to town with a load, just take note of the road. Wherever you find a rut the pulling is hard and slow and the vitality of your team is sapped away. Ruts in a road are bad things to encounter—they don't pay.

And poor, out of date implements and machinery are to the farmer what the rut is to his team. They are bad things to cling to—they don't pay.

If you want increased profits from the soil, new machinery and better implements will produce them, and with less labor and cost.

If you want the RIGHT implement or piece of machinery at the RIGHT price, we will sell it to you.

If you want to look them over, come and do so. We will afford you every opportunity and facility.

If you want additional information—want to know what they will do for you—come and ask questions. We will tell you. Come now.

Read Carefully the List Below and Then Let us Show them to You.
