Gulf Stream Expedition Planned For Next Sunday grades practically free from

The Gulf Stream fishing at Southport will open up Sunday, April 10. A small fleet of Wilmington and Southport boats will go out that day with the object of learning just how receptive the big fellows may be towards trolling lures. If they don't bite, well the boys may wait a little while for them to get ready. If they do bite, Oh boy! the water between Southport and the Gulf Stream will swarm with fishermen from now on through next December.

The chances are that the fish are going to bite, going to take everything that this prospecting fleet offers. Some boats, that have been wintering in Florida and are returning north, have taking the trouble to advice the Southport Civic Club that they saw plenty of big fish outside, off Southport, while making the run to this point from Charles-

During the past several months quite a number of nationally known sport fishermen, who know their fish and the habits, have advised of their belief that Southport has some of the very best big game fishing on the coast above Florida. Some of these fellows have said they would be at Southport some time this summer to prove their belief. Wilmington and Southport are closely cooperating in the development of the wonderful local fishing that was discovered late last summer. (Continued on page 4.)
