Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower by the members and friends of New Hope Presbyterian church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. W. Taylor, honoring the Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Taylor of Leland.

The home was attractively decorated with a variety of cut glass, and numerous games were played. In the final game, the home team won and the pennant for the recent bride and groom was presented to them.

There was a trip to the dining room with the soft glow of the lights and in the center of the miniature house and about which were heaped gifts. The couple was wished all in the house and theirs. Included were useful and beautiful presents.

Delicious punch and cake were served and mints were passed to more than three-score guests.

NEWTON HOSTESS

PONDS STILL DRY

Despite the fact that about three inches of rain has fallen within the past three weeks, freshwater ponds in Brunswick had their levels raised only about an inch. This applies to the many lakes that have no surface outlets or inlets and only a few surrounding feet that can be classed as watershed. Winds following the rains sent waves upon the surrounding banks of the ponds and the very absorbent sands claimed a lot of the freshly fallen water.

Winnabow News

Will Boyken and family spent last Sunday at Winnabow as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Potter. Mr. Boyken is district manager for the Tide Water Power and Light Co. at Goldsboro.

Herbert M. Potter, of Winnabow, is expecting to join a party of friends in Northwest Wednesday night, before heading out for a few days of recreation on the Carolina Beach.

LISTEN TO THIS

By TOM FIZDALE

With the coming of Summer radio listeners will get a new deal in entertainment—and while many of the winter favorites will vacation, you may be certain that the program builders will have some new surprises in top-notch features.

Scheduled for a summer breathing spell are Fibber McGee, the Monday Radio Theatre, Eddie Cantor, Gang Busters, Al Jolson, Edward G. Robinson, Al Pearce, Kate Smith, Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Hollywood Hotel, the Andre Kostelanetz-Graace Moore musical, Joe Penner, Burns and Allen and Phil Baker.

Alice Hill

Les Tremayne, NBC leading man who grew a beard in the great masochic race of 1938, is in a predicament. His girl likes it so well that she won't let him shave it off as he had planned. . . . Gale Page, recently heard over NBC kilocycles from Chicago, is definitely a click in her first Warner Brothers flicker, "Crime School" . . . A wag tossed Phil Baker a dime after Baker's accordion solo on the recent Ben Bernie show, and Phil cracked: "Heigho, Silver!"

The Bernie show, by the way, is reported due for a fadeout with the broadcast of July 6. . . . President Roosevelt will be heard over all major networks June 30 in an address in connection with the National Education Ass'n. convention in New York, and on July 3, when he will speak as a feature of the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg. Both speeches will be heard throughout the world via short wave.

Donald Novis, radio's top tenor a couple of years ago, who retired to improve his voice, is staging a comeback from Hollywood . . . Bayard Vellier, who pens "Valiant Lady" on NBC, has another script ready for fall production . . . Alice Hill, star of "Betty and Bob," is sporting an early season tan and strong arm as result of doing her own reconditioning of her sail boat . . . Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cantor celebrated their 24th anniversary June 9, setting a mark for screen folk to shoot at.

Fibber McGee's fighter, Milt Aaron, climbing that welter-weight ladder . . . Scored seventh straight victory last week . . . Bill Stoess, music director of those crack "Vocal Varieties," writing new song, "When Day Begins" . . . Benny Goodman and Hoosier Hot Shots of "National Barn Dance" form a mutual admiration society . . . They're fans of each other . . . Dolores Gillen, pretty NBC actress, thrilled over prospects of younger sister, Elizabeth, training for radio.

Arrival of King George VI and his entourage in Paris on Tuesday, June 28, and the British Sovereign's address three days later, Friday, July 1, when he travels an Australian war memorial in France, will be heard in this country over the NBC-Red network . . . Margarette Shanna of "Arnold Grimm's Daughter" has real estateitis—caused by searching for a new house . . . It's contagious, too, among friends.
