WACCAMAW SCHOOL NEWS

BASKET BALL
The girls' and boys' basketball teams of Wamee, S. C., won over the Waccamaw teams Tuesday night in the Waccamaw gym. Although the girls of Waccamaw fought hard, they were unable to break through the well-trained line-up of the visitors. Since all of the boys, with one exception were on the court for the first time we commend them for the fight for victory they staged. They were not able to compete with Wamee and lost to them overwhelmingly. Both teams are returning the game at Wamee on Friday night, and we wish for them much success.

CHAPEL PROGRAM
Miss Sink's sixth grade gave a very interesting North Carolina Day program last week. The three sections of North Carolina were characterized and the products representing each section were displayed.

Much spirit was manifested by singing the state song and giving the Tar Heel yell.
Mrs. Hewett's fifth grade entertained at chapel this week with a program pertaining to education. Both programs were enjoyed immensely.

RED CROSS DRIVE
Each grade in school is striving to become a member of the Red Cross this year, and most of the rooms have already responded with the full quota. We are expecting a full membership of the school, before the campaign closes.

DATE CHANGED
The date of the junior play, "Calling All Girls", which was originally announced for November 23, has been changed to December 8. Please note this change, and make your plans to see this presentation on the 8th.

LUNCH ROOM
Our lunch room was opened this week and the response has been favorable. By operating the lunch room we are able to take care of our undernourished children and those of more unfortunate circumstances. It also provides a chance for those who prefer a hot lunch to be able to enjoy one.

THIRD GRADE
In the Third Grade we have been reading and writing stories and drawing pictures about Indians. We made our picture into a movie. Then we wrote letters to each of the grades asking them if we might come to their room and show our moving picture. When Mr. Garrett came to see our movie, we told him some of the things we have learned about Indians. We liked the stories about Hiawatha and Pocahontas best of all.

of Royalist refugees who established the permanent settlement at the mouth of Town Creek. This settlement they called Charles Town. They were joined a year later by other Barbadians, among them Sir John Yeamans, who had been appointed their governor. These Barbadians planted cotton (the first grown in the United States) and exported boards, staves and shingles. The settlement was abandoned in 1667, and in 1670 Yeamans became one of the founders of Charlestown (Charleston) on the Ashley River in South Carolina.

LILLIPUT—One mile below Town Creek was one of the earliest plantations on the river, that of Eleazar Allen, receiver general of the Colonies for the southern district. He was noted for his hospitality, and according to his tombstone he was serving as chief justice of the colony at the time of his death. Lilliput later became the residence of Sir Thomas Frankland, a great-grandson of Oliver Cromwell.

The seventh grade gave a play, by the name of "A Fellow's Best Friend", on Tuesday night, Nov. 14th, for P-T. A. meeting. Their room also got a half day holiday for having the most parents at the P-T. A. that night.

EIGHTH GRADE
The eighth grade presented its class play "Billy's Aunt Jane", before an appreciative audience on Friday evening in the school auditorium.

NINTH GRADE
Basketball is getting well underway now in our school. Captains were chosen this past week by the respective teams. Miss Catherine Stone, forward, will represent her team on the floor, and Roy Rabon and Ernest Lewis were chosen as co-captains of the boys' team as each received the same number of votes. It is hoped that these captains may lead our teams to another good record.

The tenth grade is glad to have the picture again this month for having the largest attendance of parents present at the November P-T. A. meeting.

The tenth grade also had the best attendance report in high school last week. They aren't expecting any other class to get ahead of them in the race for best attendance for the first semester.

is the only surviving mansion of the Colonial period on the Cape Fear River. The estate was probably named for the village of Orton in the lake district of England, home of the Moore family. The house at Orton was built by "King" Roger Moore in 1725. Mr. Moore was called "King" because of his imperious manner. The building was subsequently occupied by his grandson, General Benjamin Smith, who was governor of North Carolina in 1810 and 1811. Following a dispute between Benjamin and his brother, James, the latter dropped the name of Smith to assume his grandmother's name of Rhett. He then went to South Carolina and became the founder of the Rhett family, one of the most outstanding families in South Carolina to this day.
Entrance to the 10,000-acre estate of Orton is marked by massive gray stone pillars, surmounted by iron spread-eagles. The drive winds between tall trees and past ponds, where rice was once planted. Across the diked marshland were rails for a small car on which visitors rode to the mansion from the river.

However, he died aboard the coast guard boat shortly after having been removed from his own ship.

The tanker, which was loaded with a cargo of petroleum products, left Texas City, Texas, several days ago and was bound for Amsterdam, Netherlands.
