Thinks That The Infant 1940 Tobacco Crop May Rough Reception When It Finally Reaches Warehouse Floors Next

1939 CROP PROVED BIGGEST IN HISTORY

One-Fourth Larger Than The Record 1937 Tobacco Crop, And Much Larger Than First Anticipated

The infant tobacco crop, now beginning its first growth in plant beds, is expected to find a rough reception when it finally reaches warehouse floors next fall, believes J. B. Hutson, assistant administrator of the Triple-A.

Its preceding brother, the 1939 crop, turned out to be the largest on record, totaling 1,100,000,crop by one-fourth and is 325,000,used during the current year.
