

Don Carpenter Is Coming Back

Outdoor Writer For Washington Daily News Is Planning A Return Visit Here Soon

Don Carpenter, hunting and fishing editor of the Washington Daily News, is roaring to come back to Southport for some more fishing before Christmas. He writes he wants to find out how long a fishing season Southport really has.

Carpenter and companions from Washington were here three weeks ago and made a fine catch. Since then he has been singing the praises of Southport as a new eldorado for the sportsman in the Daily News at every opportunity, also in his contact with sportsmen. His companions on the trip are no less enthusiastic boosters. Now they want to return and try it again to see how long a fishing season this section can really boast of having.

Skipper H. T. Watts of the Sea Girl has already promised to be cooperative with the visitors. He will see that they get fish if they don't pick a time when the weather is too bad to get outside. Other recent visitors here, all editors or writers, who are planning to return early in January are Dave Roberts of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Enquirer; Joe Brooks, Maryland sportsman and fishing authority and John Aiken Knight of New Jersey. Knight is the lecturer on angling at Columbia University and is the author of various works on fishing. Roberts, Brooks and Knight, and possibly J. Hammond Brown of the Baltimore American, plan to come down together for a week of hunting and fishing.

Cook: "I'm leavin' in exactly three minutes."
Mrs. Timothy: "Then put the eggs on to boil, and we'll have them right for once."
"I wonder why it is we can't save anything?"
"It's the neighbors, dear; they are always doing something we can't afford."

FARM AGENT

Poor farming comes more from not doing than not knowing how to do. In managing pullets, the personal factor is very important. If the caretaker attends to details promptly and takes time to observe the condition of the pullets daily things usually go along O. K., but if he lacks interest and lets things slide along he is headed for trouble. Lights should not be used on pullets during the first laying cycle in early fall. Later, when days get short, the production begins to drop and the birds begin to drop a few feathers, turn on lights. Do not work the birds for more than 12 hours daily. Sow Carala or Red Heart Wheat between November 15th and December 15th.

All farms owned and operated by the same operator within a county can be combined if operated as a unit. Any part of a farm rented for cash shall remain a part of the original farm or be treated as a separate farm. In no case will the combination of the cash rented tract with the farm operated by the renter be permitted. The above is part of a letter received from the chairman of the state committee.

Sunday School Lesson

By GROVER C. PHILLIPS

It must be borne in mind while we accept the truth that all prevailing prayer is heard and answered: First, our prayers may be answered negatively, and one must be willing to accept a negative answer, even as Jesus (Matt. 26: 39) and Paul (2nd Corinthians 12: 7-9) accepted such answers. Second, our prayers will not be answered merely because they are often repeated, but that fact should never deter us from praying much and often. We are admonished to "Pray without ceasing" (1st Thessalonians 5: 17); to "continue instant in prayer" (Romans 12: 12) and to "be careful for nothing, but in everything, by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God" (Philippians 4: 6).

It has been said that a life of prayer is a life of heaven and some of us would not exchange our prayer-life for all the wealth of this world. "Oh, the pure delight of a single hour That before Thy throne I spend— When I kneel in prayer and with Thee, my God, I commune as friend with friend."

Receives Some Wide Mention

FRANK BROWN, who was last year an auctioneer for the Crutchfield tobacco warehouse here, recently got his picture in all the principal magazines and metropolitan newspapers for his endorsement of a popular brand of cigarettes.

Meeting Industry's Defense Telephone Needs

MANY southern industries are strenuously at work building new plants, expanding existing ones, and generally gearing their facilities and man-power to advance the nation's defense program. It is a tremendous and urgent job they have taken on. Their rapidly increasing communications needs create an equally important job of service expansion for the Telephone Company, including the engineering and installation of enlarged telephone facilities in many localities. These industries are going ahead with their production and expansion activities and plans, with confidence that the Telephone Company will meet their telephone needs promptly and fully. Their daily requirements are being provided now, and the thousands of highly trained telephone workers are prepared with materials and experience to meet whatever service demands the future holds.
