Pearl Formy Duval, also of Ash, stated his seed have been in the ground for some time and he is expecting the plants to make their appearance by the first of February.

There are, of course, a great many growers who have not yet sown their seed. Unless unusually bad weather sets in all beds will be planted by early in February, according to talk heard among farmers this week.

LEAGUE PLAY IN COUNTY LEAGUE GETS UNDERWAY

(Continued From Page One) port is repeated many times in this and other communities. Principal, W. R. Lingle was hard put to it to find patrons willing to drive their cars on a basketball trip. In fact, only an hour before the girls game was to begin, some of the members of the boy's team were still stranded here.

With ten teams, five girls' and five boys', of near equal strength, it appears likely that this year's race for championship honors is wide open and there should be county-wide interest in this year's race.

Large Attendance At REA Meeting As Ash Saturday

In his message he said: "You have worked hard to get electricity. Your lines have now been energized more than two years, and electricity is doing many of your chores. But that is not the end of co-operation. This cooperative belongs to you.

You own a part in its business; every member has the right and the privilege of knowing what the cooperative is doing. If all you members take an active interest in this business which is your own, your co-operative will grow and prosper."

1931 — 11 YEARS AGO — 1942

We started out to have the best equipped garage in this section, and to render the best possible service to our customers on all makes of cars and trucks.

Today, we not only have the most modernly equipped shop in this section, but among the best to be found anywhere.

In the good years just ended for automobile sales, tire sales, etc., many dealers and garages neglected their shops, while we kept plugging. We kept buying the latest equipment.

Eleven years ago we offered easy terms on repair work. We have always tried to arrange terms to suit our customers needs.

Today we are ready to serve you, no matter what you need for your car . . . have it attended to today. There will not be any more new cars for civilian use for perhaps years to come, so take care of your present car.

Our wheel balancing and alignment service will give you more mileage on your present tires. No more new tires are available, so take the best possible care of your present tires.

Our 11 years of experience in Auto Repairing and Servicing is at your disposal, and as always your patronage is appreciated.
