Only One Upset Results In Second Primary Balloting In This County Saturday

B. Chinnis Noses Out L. C. Tripp For Nomination For County Commissioner By Margin Of Five Votes

SECESSION PRECINCT RESULTS PROTESTED

White Defeated Ganey, McLamb Won Over Purvis And Williams Led Stone; Mintz High Commissioner

Only one upset in the first primary returns resulted from Saturday's second primary balloting in Brunswick county, and that was in the race for commissioner where M. B. Chinnis nosed out L. C. Tripp by a margin of five votes to become the third Democratic nominee for the board.

A protest charging irregularities in the secession precinct during Saturday's balloting has been heard with the Brunswick county board of elections and a hearing has been set for Tuesday, June 27. The protest was signed by Dillon L. Ganey and L. C. Tripp.

In the race for nomination for sheriff John G. White piled up a 170-vote lead over Dillon L. Ganey. White led Ganey by only 17 votes in the first primary. W. J. McLamb held a 300-vote lead over Jesse A. Purvis in their primary race, and Saturday increased this margin to 361 votes.

Henry Williams defeated John Stone in the preferential vote race for member of the Board of Education by 273 votes.

It was in the commissioners race that the only close contest in a county office occurred. Steve Mintz was out front in first place by 122 votes and became the second man assured of a Democratic nomination as member of the board of commissioners.

The contest between Chinnis and Tripp was nip-and-tuck, but the former finally finishing ahead by his 5-vote margin.

Vacation Bible Schools Going On In County

Baptist State Convention Assisting With Program Of Bible Training Schools For Brunswick Baptist Association

SCHEDULE WILL COVER COUNTY

Trained Workers Available For Conducting Bible Schools In Various Communities This Summer

L. L. Morgan, State Sunday School Secretary of the North Carolina Baptist Convention, is helping churches of the Brunswick Baptist Association this summer with their Daily Vacation Bible Schools. Through arrangements with the state headquarters Mrs. Margaret Biggs, of Wilmington, has been engaged to help with this program in Brunswick county.

Last week, assisted by Miss Minnie Creech, she held a Bible school at Bolivia. Next week Mrs. Biggs will be at Mill Creek.

This week, also working under the State Board, Firman Hall and Harry Mason are teaching a Bible school at Mt. Pisgah Baptist church, Supply. Mr. Hall has finished his freshman year at Wake Forest and will be a sophomore next fall. Mr. Mason is a student at Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tenn. These two young men are serving in the place of a worker that was to be sent to county and the Brunswick Association by M. T. Huggins in the place of a worker as an Associational Missionary.

These Bible schools will continue through the summer. Isaac Willetts, of Lebanon Baptist church, is the Associational Sunday School Superintendent of the Brunswick Association, and is heading up the Daily Vacation Bible Schools in Association. If there is any Baptist church in Brunswick that would like to have a worker for a week of Bible school it should get in touch with Mr. Willetts as soon as possible.

Following is the schedule as it is now: Bolivia Baptist church, Bolivia, June 9-16 (already held); Mt. Pisgah Baptist church, Supply, June 17-30 (now in progress); Mill Creek Baptist church, Winnabow, June 24-July 7; Jennings Branch, Shalotte, July 8-21; Elah Baptist church, Leland, August 5-18; Bethel Baptist church, Southport, August 19-September 1.

These churches are expected to have Bible Schools, but the dates have not been set: Lebanon Baptist church, Winnabow; Leland Baptist church, Leland; Southport Baptist church, Southport. Soldier Bay Baptist church had their school last week, led by three girls, Miss Florine Evans, superintendent, student at Meredith College; Miss Wilma Phelps, student at ECTC, Greenville; Miss Robbie Purvis, who has been attending school at Rocky Mount.

W. B. KEEHAN

We will have to go fishing with L. C. Brown of Longwood. We were around his way the other day and the former county commissioner was showing us a part of a catch of 38-beautiful red-breasts that he was keeping on ice. He had caught them the day before. We hesitated in the matter of saying anything in the paper about his catch, as 38 fish, all of one kind, is a rather large number for any game warden to hear about. The limit is only 20. While we were hesitating Mr. Brown explained that there was another fellow with him. The 38 fish were well under the 20 per day limit for two men.

We had a big frog-leg supper the other night, about 60 pairs of them, and with 11 people sitting in on the feast at the Camelina Inn. If you have never eaten frog legs, this is to advise you here and now that they are jumping good. Fried they taste like spring chicken and something better. A fully grown frog is four years old and they are usually pretty big at that age. The 60-pairs of legs bagged by Malli-

Dormitory Project Started By N. C. State College

RALEIGH.—Chancellor J. W. Harrelson, of N. C. State College is pictured here as he dug the first spadeful of soil in the construction of two new State College dormitories which will cost $1,100,000 and will have a capacity of 400 rooms with facilities for 1,200 students. The dormitories are being constructed from funds borrowed by the State College Foundation, Inc., from the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company. Permission was granted to the foundation to do the work by the Council of State and the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. Looking on as Chancellor Harrelson, who is president of the foundation, digs the soil are, left to right, Mrs. Mary Beasley, secretary of the foundation; Wilzer Z. Betts of Raleigh, a director of the foundation and head of the State Division of Purchase and Contract; K. CLYDE COUNCIL, OF WANANISH, a director of the foundation and a prominent farmer and industrialist; and R. D. Beam of Raleigh, executive secretary of the State College Foundation.

Jenrette Farm Becoming Model For Modern Methods

Kimball Jenrette In Charge Of Operations On Father's Farm Near Longwood And Has Made Big Improvements

The John Jenrette farm in Waccamaw township has always been about the average for Brunswick county, but during recent years, with Kimball Jenrette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jenrette, actively in charge, the farm has risen to far above the average in production and net returns.

Kimball is a graduate of the Southport high school, where he was handicapped in his studies by increasing deafness. Nevertheless, he went through with honors and having got through he was faced with the realization that his deafness was too great a handicap for him to make his way through one of the regular agricultural colleges.

But there was another school from which he was not disbarred—the college of practical experience and hard work. And there was the farm on which he was born.

One day this past week The Pilot's representative visited the Jenrette farm. With the power of a modern farm tractor Kimball had just brought a modern, large-type grain combine to the yard for the purpose of oiling it up before completing the task of harvesting this year's crop of grain. The job of oiling the combine was turned over to a younger hired helper while he took an hour off to show us

Development All Along Atlantic Coast In County

Beginning at Caswell Beach And Extending To South Carolina Line, Marked Progress Being Made

COASTAL POINTS ALL ARE GROWING

Shortage Of Building Materials Appears To Be Only Factor That Is Holding Back Big Building Boom

Things are now well filled up at all of the Brunswick county beaches, both those that are being developed and others that are in the raw and which still have room for a trailer.

At Fort Caswell Beach all of the houses are said to be taken for both the summer and fall. This beach is now receiving considerable advertising and Manager R. W. Powell says that everything is going fine with the sale of lots. As at other places development has been retarded by building restrictions, but Mr. Powell says that another year will see Caswell Beach blooming.

Long Beach, directly west of Caswell Beach, has suffered less from the building restrictions and inability to get building materials. Many nice homes have been built this year and these are all filled up as well as those that were built before the war. Even with more favorable building conditions there than elsewhere, somewhere around a hundred people who own lots and want to build have been unable to get material. Long Beach is on the books for big growth just as soon as folks find material with which to build homes.

At Howell's Point everything is also filled up. They are expecting a big season there, despite the limited number of houses. For the first time in the history of the place they have a store and a small hotel.

Holden's Beach, a long-time favorite for summer and fall vacationists, is forging ahead this year with all homes in use by owners or renters. Many new houses have been built there this year, many more are under construction and still more are being planned.

The Shalotte Point section is getting a new road. It is likewise getting much in the way of new buildings and has need for still more. The Point is one of the Brunswick county coastal sections that is bound to develop.

The Pilots representative has not seen or heard much of Gause Beach lately. That is not to be taken to mean that things are not keeping up there. Just recently Mrs. Guy Culpepper said that section was getting a great number of new homes and they expect real development there second to no other place in Brunswick.

Seaside, Calabash and other points all along the coast are very much alive with people who can find no summer homes living in trailers or whatever else they can find.

Harry Aldridge Dies At Home

Popular Southport Resident Died Monday Morning At His Home Following Extended Illness; Funeral Today

Harry Bert Aldridge, 59-year-old and lifelong resident of Southport, died at his home here Monday morning following several months of failing health.

Mr. Aldridge had been an employee of the city for the past 30 years, serving as city electrician for the greater part of that time. He was a faithful worker and was well known and was highly esteemed in practically every home in Southport and the surrounding county.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mamie Fisher Aldridge; one son, Harold F. Aldridge; a step-son, Charles C. Poole, a step-daughter, Mrs. P. W. Larsen; one brother, J. S. Aldridge, of Southport, and a sister, Mrs. C. N. Phillips, of Wilmington.

He was a member of the Masons and Junior Order.

Funeral services are being held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Southport Baptist church. Rev. A. L. Brown and Rev. H. B. Baker are in charge of the services. The burial will follow in Northwood cemetery with members of Pythagoras Lodge serving as pallbearers.

BULLETIN

Announcement was made today by Miss Annie May Woodside, county superintendent of schools, that David Watson has been elected principal of Southport high school for the coming year.

Watson is a native of Southport and is a graduate of Southport high school. He later graduated from Louisburg College and East Carolina Teachers College. He was prominent in athletics at all three institutions, being a star basketball and tennis player.

Watson was discharged early this year from the Navy with rank of lieutenant. He received his commission after entering service as an enlisted man, and served for more than four years.

He is now employed in Raleigh, but is planning to resign and attend summer school at East Carolina Teachers College.

Tricky Fishing Off S. C. Coast

Brunswick County Boatmen Cease Operations In Order To Be Sure They Do Not Fall Prey To Fisheries Officials

Many Brunswick county boats that have been fishing in South Carolina at Georgetown and Rockville have laid off from work and returned home until after the first of July.

"It is not due to the absence of shrimp," said one of the local boatmen last night, "it is just because we are liable to be arrested and fined anywhere from $50.00 to $500.00. The way that things now are the South Carolina Fisheries people have a good business."

They have a closed season which ends the first of July. At that time fishing licenses may be bought and boats operate without molestation. At the present time while the closed season is on the boats may only operate outside of the three-mile limit from shore, in what is known as known as United States waters and not subject to control by the State.

The catch to this is that the fisheries officials use airplanes to scout around, and boatmen who firmly believe they are operating well outside the three-mile limit have their names and numbers taken and find themselves charged with fishing inside the limit. They may get off with anywhere between $50.00 and $500.00 in fines.

As there are no markers on the South Carolina grounds or nearby the boatmen simply have no way of proving that they were not trespassing. They pay up and avoid the loss of their boats and (Continued on page 4).

Longwood Citizen Passes At Home

Julius B. Hickman, Lifelong Resident Of Waccamaw Township, Died Monday; Funeral Held Tuesday

Julius B. Hickman, 67, lifelong resident of Waccamaw township, died Monday afternoon at his home near Longwood. He had been ill for only a short time.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the graveside in the Butler cemetery, at 4 o'clock. Rev. J. I. Milligan had charge of the services.

Mr. Hickman was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hickman. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Isadore Piver Hickman, Longwood; two daughters, Mrs. Bessie H. Smith, of Longwood, and Mrs. Edna H. Long, of Bladenboro; two brothers, John Hickman, of Longwood, and Forney Hickman, of Bolivia, and one sister, Mrs. Minnie Long, of Ash.

Paving Contract Let For County

The first Brunswick county road paving contract let by the State Highway Commission, since before the war, was awarded to the Towles-Cline Construction company Monday.

The contract is for 3.86 miles of paving, beginning at Route 17 near the Brunswick River bridge and running down the River Road. It will serve the area in which the new ship-lay-in basin is located. The contract price was $54,444.

State Convention Scheduled Here

Court Reporters Will Hold Nineteenth Annual Convention At Southport July 5th And 6th

The North Carolina Shorthand Reporters will hold their nineteenth annual convention here Friday and Saturday of next week, July 5th and 6th. About 50 delegates will be present, according to Spurgeon Baxley, of Wilmington, president of the association.

Dwight McEwen, Southport attorney and shorthand reporter, is now awaiting complete information as to how many members will attend. Like President Baxley, his best information is that there will be around 50. He expects to have a complete list of all who are to attend by Friday of this week, and when he receives that information he will set about the task of finding rooms for all in homes in Southport.

Rufus E. Sellers Is Laid To Rest

Former Engineer With U. S. Army Engineers Dies At Veterans Hospital In Fayetteville

Rufus Earl Sellers, 61, for many years employed as engineer by the U. S. Army Engineers office in Wilmington, died in the Veterans Hospital in Fayetteville Sunday. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Sellers is survived by his widow, Mrs. Opie Sellers; three sons and one daughter, Burwin Sellers, John Paul Sellers, Earl Lee Sellers and Miss Cella Sellers, all of Supply. In addition two brothers and three sisters survive. They are Willie Sellers of New York, Charlie and Oscar Sellers, of Supply.
