

Bolivia School District Club Is Organized

Purpose Of Organization Is To Support Any Worth While Program Or Movement Which May Begin In Community

FIRST PROJECT NEW LUNCHROOM

Funds For This Work Are Coming In Rapidly And Men Are Doing Work Of Remodeling The Building

Patrons of the Bolivia high school met in the school auditorium on September 10 and organized the Bolivia District Club. This is a non-profit civic organization devoted to the betterment of the Bolivia school district. O. C. Burton, principal of the school, was elected president; Mrs. W. A. Kopp, vice-president; Mrs. Henry Gilbert, secretary and Mrs. Gilbert Reid, Treasurer.

Young as the organization is, it is already sponsoring a drive for funds for equipping a lunch room for the school and the general object is to sponsor any worthwhile movement for the school and district. On the lunch room undertaking they had to start from scratch, and being unable to get a new building they are remodeling an old one.

The cooperation is described as most encouraging. The men of the district have been working at night, three nights each week, on the lunch room. Both men and women have been soliciting donations for the equipment and thus far over $500.00 has been donated, with a goal of $1,000 in sight.

The club will hold regular meetings at least once each month, and is determined to keep in touch with any opportunity for school and community improvement.

Outdoor Writer Returning Here

Dave Roberts, Whose Fishing Picture Has Been Widely Circulated, Coming To Southport In October

Dave Roberts, Travel and Outdoor Editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, which is widely labeled "One of the World's Greatest Newspapers," is to spend a week at Southport with W. B. Keziah, beginning October 2. Mrs. Roberts will accompany her husband and they plan to spend a week doing some fresh-water and surf fishing and squirrel hunting.

This will not be the first trip for Roberts to Southport. On two successive years prior to the war he spent five days here on hunting and fishing trips. The first of these trips was made in company with 14 other widely known Outdoor Editors and the following year 26 of them came in for five days of hunting and fishing.

Prior to his first trip here Roberts had been president of the Outdoor Writers Association of America and it was during this first trip that he and the other officials of the association elected Keziah a life member of the outdoor writers.

Of special interest in connection with the October visit of this widely known travel and outdoors editor is the fact that his picture has been used more often than any other out-of-state man in North Carolina fishing news publicity.

On his second trip to Southport he hooked and landed a 36-pound red drum while surf casting on Frank O. Sherrill's Bald Head Island. Half a dozen photographers were on hand, including a movie cameraman. They made good recording of the event. Some of the many pictures made at the time have appeared in practically every daily and many North Carolina weekly papers. In addition the press associations got hold of them and distributed them widely throughout the county. Somewhere around ten of the booklets printed by the State News Bureau have carried the picture of Roberts and his big fish.

When Dave shows up in October Keziah is determined that there will be other equally as good pictures of him catching a big fellow even if he has to fish all of the way from Bald Head to Calabash to catch the fish.

Two Southport Boys In Naples

John Carr Davis And Ralph Potter Meet At Red Cross In Italian City; Agree That Pilot Is Good To Get When You Are Away

Again proving the old adage that the world is a small place, John Carr Davis and Ralph E. Potter, Southport boys who are yet in their teens, met in Naples, Italy, last week, had a photograph made together and sent it to W. B. Keziah of The State Port Pilot.

John Carr Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Sellers of Southport, is a seaman first class aboard the world's mightiest airplane carrier, the U. S. S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, now on a good will tour.

Ralph E. Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Potter, of Southport, is a seaman second class, aboard the U. S. S. Fargo, flagship of the Mediteretan fleet. The

Fall Is No Time To Loaf On Farm

There Are Many Things That Progressive Farmer May Be Doing To Improve Conditions For Next Year

This is the season of the year when many matters applicable to good farming come up for the consideration of the farmers and farm agencies. In a way, according to both County Agent Dodson and the AAA office at Supply, the fall is just as important as the spring. Some things that need to be done now are vital to next year's crop.

One of the needs of the moment is for every Brunswick farmer to do everything possible to aid the critical nitrogen shortage that is expected to continue for some years. This can be done by seeding every available acre in Austrian winter peas, crimson clover or vetch. These legumes take nitrogen from the air and make it available for use for next season's crop. When plowed under these crops also add plant food and humus. Seeds are now available.

Fargo and the Franklin D. Roosevelt, on different duties, arrived at Naples at the same time and the two Southport boys, former schoolmates, got together. "One thing we absolutely agreed upon," said John in his letter to Keziah, "was that The State Port Pilot certainly is a wonderful thing to a Southport boy who is away from home."

able from the AAA to the Brunswick county farmers who request financial aid in carrying out soil conservation measures. For best results seeding should be done between September 1st and November 1st.

Pastures have dollar and cents values like any cash crop, such as corn or tobacco. Especially is this true at the present time when feeds are so high priced. Good pastures provide large amounts of feed for stock. Assistance in establishing permanent pastures or reseeding worn-out pastures may be obtained through the Brunswick County AAA program. This is another matter that calls for immediate attention.

The Brunswick county AAA committee from its office at Supply is now pointing out that phosphate contributes as much to crop and livestock production as any other soil mineral. In order to have fertile farms for the support of a healthy and prosperous people, farmers must feed their phosphate hungry lands to keep them producing. Phosphate is being supplied through the AAA to farmers who indicated they need this past spring during sign-up. Every effort should be made to get this material on farm lands before the end of the program year.
