

Brunswick County:-

... A Place For Pleasant Living

Talk to the average Brunswick county citizen and he'll soon tell you that he'd rather live here than any other place on earth. He likes his home, he likes his farm, he likes his neighbors. The climate is good, and he likes that. His needs are few and simple, and are easily provided from the things that he has close at hand. Small wonder that Brunswick county has more than its fair share of citizens who have retired from active business life or government employment and who now live down here in Southeastern North Carolina in peace and contentment. And there is a growing interest in this section.

Brunswick county has a good school system, and there is a healthy rivalry between her five consolidated schools. In every community there are good churches, and Brunswick county citizens are, on the whole, an earnest, God-fearing people. Not the least of their reasons for being satisfied with life as it goes on in their community is the fact that the merchants and business men are making available just about every kind of service the average family could want right here at home. Brunswick county citizens realize that a dollar spent at home stays in circulation where it can do the most good.
